LORIMER CASE IS HELP.

toward political parity—one when it failed to approve the constitutional amendment providing for the direct election of United States senators.

On the vote on the direct election of senators the upper house of congress for the first time went on record regarding this long sought reform.

The measure failed by four votes and the votes showed its advocates their strength and their weakness. It is a safe prediction, from an analysis of the vote on this measure that within a few years the senate will give the people the power to exercise their own choice and discretion in the selection of senators.

In the seating of William Lorimer after the blazoned record that marked the investigation of his case will do much to hasten the passage of a direct elections constitutional amendment.

That 40 senators were convinced that Lorimer won his seat by improper methods and voted against seating him is a potent commentary on the present system of election by legislatures, in many cases all too easily controlled by powerful interests.

The case with its record of sordid politics spread in glaring nakedness before the people will augment the already insistent demand that the control of senatorial elections be taken from the hands of the legislatures and vested in the sovereign power of the republic.

The Lorimer case is a practical demonstration, demanding that a system proved wrong, be righted.

DOUGLAS FARMER THREATENED

It is stated that Scott had been employed on the Gallagher ranch several months prior to last January and that he was not on friendly terms with his former employer, suspicion pointed to him as the guilty one.

To obtain possession of a specimen of Scott's handwriting that it might be compared with the letter written Gallagher, thereon mailed to the suspect a decoy letter in which he offered him a position at a liberal salary.

On receiving Scott's reply, the sheriff, after carefully comparing the writing in both communications stated that in his opinion they were written by the same person.

Scott refuses to talk further than to deny his guilt.

STATE HEALTH BOARD WILL MEET MARCH 8

Dr. E. B. Pickel of this city has been informed that the meeting of the state board of health to inaugurate a statewide educational campaign in behalf of public health, has been called for Thursday afternoon, March 8.

New regulations and rules of the board detailing the policy of the board in enforcing health laws will be adopted then. SICK TWO YEARS; END CAME SUNDAY

Man Who Entered Business Here Recently Dies at S. O. Hospital as Result of a Complaint From Which He Has Long Been Sufferer.

J. J. Anderson, a sheet metal worker, and a recent arrival in this city from Tacoma, Wash., died in the Southern Oregon hospital Sunday morning from stomach trouble, following a difficult operation performed by local surgeons to remove a number of abscesses which had formed in the man's intestines.

Anderson, who was a member of the Tacoma local of the Sheet Metal Workers' union, came to this city a short time ago and engaged in business with B. G. Worthington here.

He has been in poor physical condition for over two years and a little over a year ago underwent an operation for appendicitis in the belief that that was the illness from which he was suffering.

Later developments showed stomach complications and he underwent another operation here.

ASHLAND VOTES ARMORY MONEY

Railroad City People Vote $7500 Towards Erection of $30,000 Home for the Local Company of the National Guard of Oregon.

As the result of a special election held in Ashland Saturday, the citizens there voted to appropriate the sum of $7,500 towards the erection in that city of an armory for the local regiment of the National Guard.

The state has already completed arrangements for the furnishing of $15,000 towards the location of an armory there and Jackson county has donated $7,500.

The structure will be built as soon as the necessary plans, etc., can be completed.

The other measures voted upon at the election were:

Whether the city should vote $12,000 for the purchase of two septic tanks, purchasing also sites and other details for their installation. This carried.

Whether the salaries of councilmen and mayor should be increased. This measure was defeated.
