

Arts and Craft Furniture

When artists have been brave enough to depart from the use of ornamentation and to direct their abilities toward the building of furniture that would, first of all, exactly and capably fill the use for which it was intended, and, secondly, endure beyond the brief span of the present, their work has always met with success.

During the present era, there has been a gradual movement aiming at the modification and adaptation of holland Dutch Arts and Crafts furniture, built between the 15th and 17th centuries, which embodied plainness, and solidity, and yet combined with this a beauty peculiar to its mode of construction. You are invited to call and select from our stock the newest ideas in Holland Dutch Arts and Craft Reproductions. It will appeal to you more than any you have ever seen.

BIG WRITE-UP FOR THIS VALLEY

Sunset in June Will Contain Article Illustrated With Four Color Half Tones—Special Writer Secures Needed Data.

As announced in the Mail Tribune some time ago, the Rogue River valley is to be specially featured in the June issue of the Sunset magazine by an elaborate article of sixteen pages, with superb four color illustrations. Walter V. Woollike one of America's foremost magazine writers, and a special contributor to the Saturday Evening Post, has been charged with preparing the article, and has just left for Portland after spending three days looking over the valley. Photographs have been forwarded to the San Francisco office of the Sunset magazine, and it is expected that the June number will be ready for distribution about May 25.

R. L. Conner, assistant business manager is in Medford with view of arranging for as wide a spread of the issue as possible, and from present expectations hopes to be able to have the business men and citizens mail not less than ten thousand copies from this vicinity to their friends in the east.

The Sunset publishers have adopted a novel scheme in sending out the Rogue River number, by assuming the cost of the postage which is 4 cents per copy, upon the addresses of parties for whom the magazines are intended, being sent to them. The Commercial Club has been directly instrumental in securing this concession from the Sunset in behalf of the whole valley, and urges that every citizen of Medford take this occasion to mail a thoroughly representative article upon our country to their friends. The pupils of the schools will be invited to do so also, and it is expected that they will respond as eagerly as they did on Colonel Day, when all records of similar co-operative work was broken by every pupil in the Medford schools writing to their eastern friends. Any one wishing may arrange between now and May 25th to subscribe for as many copies as they wish if they will call at the Medford Commercial Club.

Thinks Portland Will Win.

VANCOUVER, Wash., April 1.—Representative W. W. McCrosbie, owner of the Beavers and the Portland Northwestern league team, returned to Vancouver last night from Washington and today came out with an announcement that he was almost certain that the two Portland league teams would win the league pennants this year.

Fishermen Out.

PORTLAND, Or., April 1.—The trout fishing season opened in Oregon today and hundreds of city men left early for mountain streams in the Cascades and coast range mountains. In the eastern part of the state streams are muddy and good fishing is not expected for 15 or 20 days.

TO PROVE WESTERN COW PONIES ARE BEST

DENVER, Col., April 1.—With the intention of establishing a record for long distance riding and proving the superiority of the western cow pony over other forms of horse flesh, G. A. Morse, George Harris and John Gobin, Colorado cowboys, will leave Denver April 8 for New York. They hope to reach New York in eight weeks. They will have six horses, riding three and using others to pack their camping outfits.

Will Enlarge Auto Company.

F. E. Offutt of Washington City, and R. J. Offutt of Keyser, W. Va., have located in Medford and will probably purchase an interest in the Offutt Rorues Auto company which is to be enlarged. They have purchased a lot in West Jackson street since their arrival.

Both men are well pleased with the city and affirm that the Rogue river valley is the "best ever."

A California scientist claims to have greatly increased the breeding capacity of a flock of sheep as well as their yield of wool by pasturing them beneath high voltage electric wires.

UNCLE SAM CUTS RATION ORDER

Notifies Merchants That Only 10 Per Cent of Original Order Would Now Be Needed and That He Would Cancel Rest.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, April 1.—Local merchants who recently were awarded contracts to furnish the government with $500,000 worth of rations, were notified today by the commissary department that only about 10 per cent of the original order would now be needed, and that the remainder of the order would be probably be cancelled.

TEDDY BIDS FRISCO FAREWELL; TO RENO

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 1.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt is bidding his San Francisco, Berkeley and Oakland friends good bye today. Tomorrow evening Colonel Roosevelt will leave for Reno, Nevada, where he will deliver an address. After a visit to Governor Johnson at Sacramento the former president will leave for Portland and Seattle.

Mrs. Roosevelt, accompanied by Miss Ethel, will leave Monday for the Yosemite Valley, where they will remain until Friday. They will start for New York city next Monday.

CITIZENS TO PAY OFF CITY DEBT

Everett Business Men Start Move to Wipe Out Deficit—Want to Raise 50,000—Lay Blame to Fact That City Has Lost Liquor Revenue.

EVERETT, Wash., April 1.—Tired of facing a municipal deficit, which they say comes as an aftermath to voting the city "dry" and losing a considerable sum represented in saloon licenses, Everett business men have undertaken to raise $50,000 by popular subscription. Banners are being printed for street cars, windows and posters, and the hat will be passed to every man and woman in Everett in an effort to overcome the situation.
