WAR will lose its terrors soon. The narcotic bullet will make it a pleasant pastime instead of the scourge 12 of the nations. This humane instrument of war is a comparatively new invention. It is now being tried upon the is wild horses of Nevada. Instead of lassoing the horses, the <sup>16</sup> up-to-date cattleman shoots them with narcotic bullets, 18 which cause them to lapse into slumber until they are rop- 19 ed and hobbled.

There is no doubt that the narcotic bullet will soon be 22 udopted for use in warfare. Humanity demands it. It 23 will not be long before The Hague conference will declare 25 'or the narcotic bullet excleusively in all conflicts between 26 ivilized nations. It will be a breach of the laws of the  $\frac{27}{28}$ iations to use the old-fashioned leaden pellets which leave 29 asting effects upon the anatomy.

With all possibility of fatalities removed from the war game, there will be no difficulty in obtaining recruits for ill the armies. Every male citizen of every country will not only be eligible but willing to take up arms for his country and risk being shot with a hasheesh pellet and dumbering a few hours for his country's sake. In fact he recruiting offices in time of war will have to turn volinteers away. Men suffering from insomnia will be paricularly anxious to go to the front in order to be in line a be shot with a sleeping potion.

It is reported that the bullets have scored a great suc ess in the matter of wild horse hunting. An animal struck by one of these bullets immediately rolls over on its side ind commences to sleep. While the creature is under the influences of the narcotic bullet a child can do as he pleases News TI with it.

The Carnegie peace fund will probably be withdrawn before long, for with all of the nations using the nareotie ullets, war will have become more than humane. It will have become harmless and pleasant, and all of the more excitable nations will no doubt engage in frequent combats in order to feel the soothing effects which will be brought about by this innovation. Mars and Morpheus vill walk hand in hand, and the warrior will always be ready to bare his breast to the storm of narcotic bullets. There will never be a lack of nervous patriots willing to couple of cace the discomfort of a few hours' sleep when their every hobo and drunk who could not ountry calls. The days of redhanded carnage will soon be pay their fines were to break rocks. over. The battlefield of the future will be a huge dormi-shipment of apples from Medford t St. Louis that went astray and was or the road for months, yet when it finally arrived, the fruit was in excellent condition.

The instance is mentioned in the St. Louis Globe Democrat in its issue of March 10. A St. Louis man named John Ulrich was sent a box of apples from Medford by his daugh ter, who planned to have the frui reach its destination by Christmas When the apples had completed par of the journey, they were, through some mistake, shipped back to the starting point. There they were sent on their way again and then followed months of polling about on rail roads, the shipment constantly be coming lost, and being sent in wrong diffections.

The publication of this spray calendar is in keeping with the policy of the Mail Tribune, which never overlooks an opportunity to be of service to its fruit growing read ers. During the past three years the Mail Tribune has pub lished more data and late information regarding scientific culture of fruit trees than any other journal in the United States. Notable among its articles was a complete treatise on pear blight and one on I ime-Sulphur spray. These articles were written by Professor O'Gara, who stands at the head of the field experts of the agricultural depart ment in point of general information, experience and suc cess. The future of the Rogue River Valley depends in The apples that should have an a great degree upon the success of its orchards. Hence rived at Christman, reached St. Louis the willingness of the Mail Tribune to devote its space to March 2 and the most remarkable any subject which effects fruit growing. That its policy has met with favor among fruitgrowers is patent when its circulation books are consulted.
