REV. HOWLETT TO CUPID'S AID

Uniteds Couple on Table Rock Bridge Wedding is Held Quietly in Order to Be an April Fools Joke on Couple's Friends.

About the 28th of last month there was a couple of young ladies come to the Sunnyside and inquired for Mr. Howlett, so I was called and they requested a private talk, which was, as a matter of course, granted, and after enjoying the most profound secrecy on my part, one of the young ladies informed me that there was to be a wedding on the next Sunday and wished me to officiate. The arrangement was for me to meet the party at a place that we could agree upon on Sunday morning so that the party could repair to the lower bridge on Butte creek; so the arrangement was made for me to meet them at Table Rock station with a double seated rig and all go together to the rendezvous and there have the marriage ceremony performed, and by that means fool their friends in Medford. I went to Table Rock station as per agreement and when the train pulled in there were no ladies got off and so I concluded that they had got left, so went on my way for Antioch school house to hear Rev. Davis preach. After traveling for about three and a half miles, a rig drove up beside me and stopped and the driver remarked that he supposed that I did not know him, and I quietly remarked that I did not but I had had the pleasure of meeting with the girl that was with him, so he informed me that he had a paper issued by the county clerk and requested me to return with him as they had left the rest of the party at Table Rock station to intercept me there, in case that they were mistaken in my being the party wanted, so I quietly returned and the two witnesses they had brought along saw us coming and met us on the desert about a half mile from the station and there I joined in marriage Mr. Dehner O. Federick and Miss Eva Vine Ackley of Medford.

After the marriage they informed me that the whole procedure was to be kept a profound secret for a while as Mr. Frederick expected to go east and they intended on his return to make the announcement of their marriage, but Monday, the 10th inst., I received a letter stating that the Mail Tribune had published the fact that the license had been issued and so I was at liberty to give my write up of the romantic wedding and that I was cordially invited to attend the wedding party on Friday, April 14, but failed to give the street and number, so I suppose that I will have to forego the pleasure of the party and also the satisfaction of going on account of the good time had at the party.

REV. A. C. HOWLETT, Eagle Point, Ore.

NEW YORK, April 12.—Sam Lloyd, millionaire inventor and puzzle expert, died at his home in Brooklyn today. Lloyd, who was 70 years old, originated the game of "parachutes" and "pigs" in clover.

Woman Past Help. Chandler, Okla.—In a letter from this place Mrs. Ella Flowers says: "I hardly know how to thank you for the good that Cardui has done me. Before I tried Cardui I thought I was past help, but after taking it I was relieved at once, and gained at least 10 pounds. Everybody says I look so much better. I am still greatly improving." Many women are completely worn out and discouraged on account of womanly weakness. Are you? Have you not tried Cardui? It only needs a few doses to convince you that Cardui is just what you need. Try it today. It will cure your pains.

A PICTURESQUE TRIAL.

REMARKABLE among the picturesque trials of history is that of the Camorrist leaders now in progress at the cathedral at Viterbo, Italy. In a great steel cage are confined the 36 prisoners, and in a small cage alongside sits the informer witness, who is daily hissed and execrated by those he accuses. Seven hundred witnesses are to be examined, and the trial will last a year.

Since June, 1906, when Cucolo's body was found on the slope of Mt. Vesuvius and his wife, Sorrentina, murdered in Naples, the government has slowly and painfully, but surely tightened its coils about the Black Hand leaders. Forty-one have been imprisoned, including a priest and two women. Five have died in captivity, or have escaped. The 36 are on trial for life.

The prisoners alternately cheer, grill or banter witnesses. They applaud or groan the decisions by the court. All the emotionalism of the Latin is given full vent behind the bars of steel. There seems to be no way of enforcing quiet and not infrequently court is forced to adjourn until the clamor subsides.

Slowly, day by day, are unfolded the secrets of this remarkable band of criminals, this survival from the dark ages. One by one the various medieval plots are unearthed. Robberies, blackmail, kidnapping, murder and a hundred half-forgotten crimes are disclosed. Remorselessly but surely the machinery of an outraged people is grinding out justice, how pitilessly may be realized when nearly five years is spent in tireless research and a year in trial.

INJURIOUS TEMPERATURES.

FROSTS that endanger fruit crops in the Rogue River Valley seldom occur when west or northwest winds blow, as these breezes carry more or less moisture.

Serious damage occurs only on the bottom lands. Hillsides surrounding usually escape frost altogether. As high winds never occur while the temperature is below the freezing point, conditions are ideal for prevention of injury from freezing by heating.

According to observations of Professor O'Gara, the temperatures at which fruits are liable to be injured by frost are shown in the following table. The temperatures given cannot be considered as absolute, since weather conditions previous to a freeze determine to a very great extent the ability of plants to withstand low temperatures. A few days of very warm weather, together with an ample supply of soil moisture, will cause the newly formed cells of the blossoms and fruits to be filled with a watery protoplasm, or cell sap, which freezes more readily than concentrated cell sap. If a freeze follows a period of weather in which temperatures have been such as to produce slow growth, lower temperatures than those given in the table may not cause injury.

Table III—Temperatures injurious to fruit when in bud, blossom, etc.:

These temperatures are approximately those of the air in contact with the fruits and blossoms. It is quite possible, however, that very delicate measurements would indicate somewhat lower temperatures, due to evaporation from the immediate surface of the plants.

NOTHING CAN STOP IT

A city can be built on a hill, but it is a great task to build it. You can build a home on a rock pile or on "hard pan," provided you spend enough labor and money. To begin with, it is a matter of some consequence to buy and haul soil for a lawn and garden.

And come to think of it seriously, why should a person incur the trouble and expense of converting a grasshopper district into a dwelling place, when good land in desirable localities can be had much cheaper?

You cannot gather figs from thistles, neither can a large crop of hair be clipped from a toad. It would require considerable advertising to make Bear creek water equal in quality to that of Bull Run. If through official favoritism all the city improvements were given to the "bad lands" they would not be converted into an Eden. The serpent would probably be there, but the tree of life, never.

The old woman with a broom tried to sweep back the tides of the sea, just as official polliwigs tried to block the progress of Riverside Sub-division. The tides still flow and this beautiful addition continues to improve. Observe the number of lots sold and the improvements under way. It couldn't be otherwise. The lots are all good land; they are beautifully situated, commanding a fine view of the valley and mountains. Nature has supplied shade trees and the best of drainage; no need to contend with even in the wettest seasons.

Situated on North Riverside Avenue, the only street running through the city from north to south, the interurban car line is sure to run through this addition. It is only a fifteen-minute walk from the postoffice and close to the North school; water and sewer are now in, and city officials declare Riverside will be paved this summer without fail. But whether paved or not, the property is just as desirable, for it costs less money. And that alone makes this opportunity shine. These lots are cheap. The owner does not want all the money nor all the land there is. He is willing for you to have some of both. Just to be convinced call and price them. A group of these lots, for the next two weeks, will be sold on small monthly payments.

FIRES SWEEP OVER TOWN OF IDITAROD

SEATTLE, Wash., April 12.—Fire starting in the Pioneer saloon late Sunday wiped out an entire block of one-story business houses in the center of the new gold town of Iditarod in the heart of Alaska, according to belated advices reaching Seattle today.

The loss will reach $100,000. There was no fire protection except small hand grenades of chemicals. Only the absence of wind saved the town from destruction.
