

DEFENSE PLAN FOR SUSPECTS IS PREPARED

Both Sides in Impending Legal Battle Rest on Their Oars—Defense Awaits Arrival of Darow, While Prosecution Await Burns.

OFFER IN DEFENSE THAT GAS CAUSED DISASTER

Second Step of Defense Will Be That McMangal in Employ of Burns Led McNamara into Trap.

LOS ANGELES, April 29.—Waiting the arrival of William J. Burns for the prosecution, and Clarence Barrow for the defense, principals in the legal battle to be fought for the freedom or conviction of the McNamara brothers and Ortie McMangal, alleged dynamiters, rested on their oars today.

While Attorney O. M. Hilton attended to private matters in Pomona, his home, Attorney Job Harriman, his associate in the defense of the McNamaras, remained at his office here, digesting portions of the alleged confession made by McMangal to District Attorney Fredericks, and discussed the case with local labor leaders, but took no definite steps in the campaign of defense.

Darrow to Arrive Soon. Harriman said that Darrow should arrive either Monday night or Tuesday. Until then, he said, the force here would merely keep abreast of developments and let things take their course.

District Attorney Fredericks and his assistants spent the busy day. But their efforts were simply along the lines that have already been developed.

Actively assisting Fredericks is G. Ray Horton, his chief trial deputy; Deputy Arthur Kern, Judge C. C. McComas, Deputy Hill and Deputy Velch. Fredericks said today that there would be no special prosecutors, as he regarded his force as amply capable of handling the case.

Awaiting Burns.

The arrival of Burns is expected to be the signal for general activity among the agents of the prosecution and it was broadly hinted today that two and possibly three men will be arrested at about the same time he steps from the train.

Two of these are said to be in Los Angeles and the third in San Francisco. The suspects are said to have been under surveillance for the past three weeks.

Operatives of the Burns agency apparently have assumed complete charge of the case. In their talks with the three men now under arrest, representatives of the district attorney's office have always been accompanied by Burns' men, while only occasionally members of the Los Angeles detective bureau have been taken along.

McMangal Restless.

Whether his conscience troubled him or the prison fare asserted itself is not known, but according to his jailers, McMangal passed a restless night following his refusal of assistance from organized labor. He turned and twisted until long after midnight, they said, and two or three times got up from his cot and sat on the bench in his cell. Both the McNamaras slept well and ate a hearty breakfast.

Defense Plans Drawn.

LOS ANGELES, April 29.—Tentative plans for the defense of John J. and James B. McNamara accused of murder in connection with the Los Angeles Times explosion were outlined today by Judge Hilton, temporary chief counsel for the defense.

The first contention will be that the Times was destroyed by an accidental combustion of gas. The second will be that Ortie McMangal, as a Burns' detective obtained the confidence of the younger McNamara and induced him to purchase dynamite, alarm clocks and other paraphernalia supposed to be necessary to complete destructions of iron works and other buildings and arranged that the evidence would be forthcoming in such shape as to lead to the suspicion that McNamara dynamited the Times building in addition to other non-union plants throughout the country.

Plot Charged.

The necessary evidence, it is alleged by members of the defense, will be forthcoming to show that McMangal, as an agent of Burns, worked upon the younger McNamara's antipathies to capital to such an extent as to involve him in a web of circumstantial evidence from which it would be hard for him to extricate himself, and would throw the shadow of suspicion on John J. McNamara as the leading official of the iron workers.

"There is doubt that McMangal was employed by Burns," said Judge Hilton, "but just how much he received for his work and what he did for the money I am unable to say. I did not discuss that part of the case with him. McMangal also admitted that he had made a confession to District Attorney Fredericks upon his arrival here. "No effort will be made to arraign the accused men until after the arrival of Clarence Barrow. If the district attorney's office should try to arraign them before then, the defense will fight.

NO DEMONSTRATION FOR UNION LABOR

PORTLAND, Ore., April 29.—Union labor will not participate officially in the demonstration planned by socialists for tomorrow as a protest against the dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times.

This decision was reached at a meeting of the central labor council, the local body of the American Federation of Labor, on the grounds that such a demonstration was ill advised at this time.

The council, however, has decided to draft resolutions of protest against the removal of John McNamara from Indianapolis to Los Angeles without giving him a chance to fight extradition and a committee has been appointed to devise means by which organized labor of Portland can give the McNamaras financial aid in their trial.

FAST TRAIN DEALS DEATH

Spreading Rails Ditches Excursion Train Running at Speed of Fifty Miles an Hour—Most of Pasengers Were School Teachers.

MANY BODIES BURIED IN FLAMMING COACHES

Specials Bearing Nurses and Physicians Were Rushed to Scene—Many Dead and Injured

WILKESBARRE, Pa., April 29.—Eighty persons were injured, several are missing and a score will die as the result of a wreck on the Lackawanna railroad at Martin's Creek, ten miles north of Easton, Pa., this afternoon. The wrecked train was a special having on board 143 school teachers coming from Syracuse and Utica, N. Y., to Philadelphia.

The train was transferred from the Lackawanna tracks to the Pennsylvania tracks at Mauch Chunk and had proceeded as far as Martin's Creek when it was derailed and the engine and cars plunged over the embankment. It was running at a speed of 50 miles an hour. Spreading rails caused the damage.

The Pennsylvania railroad at once sent a relief train from here, but only priests and physicians were allowed within the enclosure before it pulled out.

Specials were rushed from Scranton to the scene and every available physician in the city and Wilkesbarre were taken to aid the injured. Aboard the train were school teachers from Utica, Syracuse and other New York points en route to Washington. The wreckage took fire and was partially consumed. It is believed that a number of the killed were cremated.

Interesting Heideman Murder Trial Under Way

FREEHOLD, N. J., April 29.—Probably the most dramatic opening of a murder trial in the history of New Jersey was that which was begun here in the court of oyer and terminer when Frank E. Heideman, a young florist's assistant, pleaded not guilty to a charge of having killed Marie Smith ten years old in the Manassas woods at Ashbury Park, November 9 last. The prosecutor asserts that Heideman thrice confessed to the crime of which he is accused. In his opening address to the jury, John E. Applegate, Jr., prosecutor of Monmouth county, retraced the successive steps by which the man now on trial for his life, after he had once satisfied the authorities of his innocence, was again trapped and lodged in jail. Throughout the recital of the child's death Heideman, pale and apparently totally unnerved, sought to appear unconcerned, but as the chain of circumstances which led to his arrest was slowly unfolded to the jury the prisoner at-

Acting Mayor F. E. Merrick Issues Proclamation to People of Medford Urging Them to Devote Next Week to Riddance of Rubbish.

PUT IT IN STREET: CITY WILL REMOVE IT

Ordinance to be Strictly Enforced—Medford to be a Spotless Town.

To the citizens of Medford: The general welfare of our city makes it advisable that we have in the near future what is known as a "cleaning-up day." Therefore, I do hereby designate Saturday, May 6, for that purpose and urge all good citizens to remove any unsightly rubbish from their premises and from adjacent vacant lots, placing the same in the streets where it will be collected by the city and removed. All violations of the city ordinance prohibiting accumulations of rubbish will hereafter be strictly enforced. (Signed) F. E. MERRICK, Acting Mayor.

Adopting "A Spotless Town" as their slogan the ladies of the Greater Medford club Saturday outlined a campaign against rubbish and unsightly accumulations of all kinds and are prepared to keep up an unceasing battle with dirt until there is not a spot left to mar the beauty of the town. With this in mind they swooped down upon Acting Mayor F. E. Merrick Saturday and caused that official to issue a general proclamation setting forth Saturday, May 6 as a cleaning up day in Medford. They also succeeded in gaining from Mr. Merrick a promise that the city would collect the rubbish from different premises if the property owners would place it in the streets. Likewise Mr. Merrick has promised a strict enforcement of the cleaning up ordinance which provides a fine for unsanitary property and has notified the police department to take necessary steps toward an enforcement of this ordinance after Saturday, May 6. Property owners who have unsightly heaps of rubbish about their homes and property have one week in which to remove it.

The ladies of the Greater Medford club have decided to follow up the campaign which has been started and will keep on the track of the city authorities and see that the ordinance covering these cases is enforced. Cleaning up day has proven a great success in other

TO FORM NEW POSTAL BANKS

Now That They Have Made Good Government Will Place Them in Many Larger Cities—Forty-Five More of Them Planned.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 29.—With the declaration that the postal savings banks had made good, officials of the postoffice department announced today that the system would be speedily extended to the larger cities. Statistician Harry Thompson, who is supervising the postal banks, said: "The banks now realize that instead of losing money through our system, they are actually gaining in deposits. Our deposits are from people who would not trust their savings to anyone but the government. The government then deposits these savings with qualified banks."

"Now that the system has proved such a big success, on May 1 the government will open 45 new banks in second class postoffices. Then we will begin branching out to the big cities, with New York, Chicago, Boston and San Francisco as the objective points. "The government does not expect to make a penny on its operations and will be satisfied to clear expenses."
