California Fruit Canners' Association the whole Rogue river valley. Contracts for Cherries in Roque. Umpqua and Willamette Valleys for This Year.

SALEM, Ore., May 3 .- With the announcement here yesterday that W. G. Allen, of the Allen Fruit Company, had been made Western Oregon manager for the territory south of Portland of the California Fruit Canners' association, detalis of a plan involving practically all the cherry and berry growers of the western part of the state were made known. The California company has contracted for the entire output for three Rogue River Valleys at 4 cents a pound. It is also contracting as rapidly as possible for the total loganberry output of the same territory at $60 a ton.

Dried Fruit Also Sought. contracts have been closed through the fruit growers associations in the principal towns in the sections covered, and all the growers will have to do is to deliver their fruit at the tearest railroad station or at their canenries at Roseburg, Eugene, Salem and Portland, and draw their money. The cannery men are also looking after all the dried fruit, particularly prunes, raised in the Willamette valley, and will eventually take in the other fruit inter-

The California Fruit Canners' Association has headquarters at San Francisco and is one of the largest concerns of its kind in the United States. It has unlimited capital at its command, and its entry into the Oregon field for business means that hereafter there will be a market for all the fruit grown in this territory, and at a good price. Their in-tention is to develop the acreage and the production as much as possible

Abingdon, Va.—Mrs. Jennie McCall, of this place says, "I had been troubled with female complaints, for over ten years I could not walk or stand on my feet, and had been almost confined to the house, for a long time. I began to take Cardui, the woman's tonic, and now I can walk anywhere I want to go. Cardui is worth its weight in gold." This is a high estimate on a plain, herb medicine, yet there are thousands of women who would gladly pay this price for a remedy to relieve their suffering. Cardui has helped others. Why not you?
