Elizabethan Slang.

According to the latest edition of Webster's Dictionary, one meaning of "lobster" is "a gullible, awkward, bungling or undesirable fellow." This meaning is supposed by most persons to be a modern development of slang. However, "lobster" was a favorite term of abuse among Englishmen of Queen Elizabeth's day, and Shakespeare may have denoted his callow as a "lobster" when the boy failed to attend to his duties. Some students of the word think it probably was applied first to men with red faces. As signifying a soldier the term "lobster" is as old as Cromwell's day. Lord Clarendon, historian of the civil war in England, explains that it was applied to the Roundhead cuirassiers "because of the bright iron shells with which they were covered. Afterward British soldiers in their red uniforms were called "lobsters." Then came another development. The soldier in the red coat became a "bolled lobster," while the policeman in blue was, of course, an "unbolled" or "raw lobster." Again, "to boll" "lobster" was for a man to enlist in the army and put on a red coat.—Chicago News.

An Eye on the Future.

A man with a swollen finger that had a deep abrasion under the ring called at a jewelry store to get the ring cut off. Before the operation was begun he said:

"Can this ring be mended so a pawnbroker will give me the usual amount on it?"

"It can be mended," said the jeweler, "but I doubt if you can ever persuade a pawnbroker to accept it afterward."

"Then I guess I'll take chances on my finger getting well with the ring on," said the young man and left the store.

"Incidents like that," said the jeweler, "show what a surprisingly large number of Philadelphians live with the pawnshop looming up just ahead of them as an unavoidable evil. Of all the people who need their rings cut off two-thirds of them ask that very question, and a large percentage of them take chances on blood poisoning rather than destroy the ring's value as a pawnable asset."—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Little Word "Yes."

"Yes" is a simple word spelled with three letters.

It has caused more happiness and more unhappiness than any other word in the language.

It has lost more money for easy leaders than all the holes in all the pockets in the world.

It has started more dipsomaniacs on their careers than all the strong liquor on earth.

It has caused more fights than all the "you're hars" that ever were spoken.

It has procured kisses and provoked blows.

It has defeated candidates and elected secondaries.

It has been used in more lies than any other expression.

It is not meant half the time it is said.

Will it continue to make such a record? Yes.—Life.

Wouldn't Deliver.

He was born in Dublin and lived in Ireland until about two months ago, when he came to Cleveland. Then he began to look around for a job. The manager of a furniture house promised to give him a trial.

"Come around in the morning and go to work," he said, "and if you can deliver the goods we'll probably keep you permanently."

The Dublin native went over to tell his cousin about it. He headed to him that he didn't believe he'd go back to take the job, after all.

"They want me to deliver the goods," he said. "Think of going around delivering big, heavy furniture. That's what horses and wagons are for in my country."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Harvard University.

Harvard university derives its name from Rev. John Harvard, its earliest benefactor, who in 1638 bequeathed one-half of his estate, amounting to $800, for the endowment of the college. Harvard hall was built in 1765, Holywell hall of brick in 1812 and Hollis hall, also of brick, in 1764. Stoughton hall, being of the same dimensions and material as Hollis, was built in 1804, and a writer of 1817 states that "its appearance is somewhat in the modern style."

BEST GAME OF SEASON SEEN

Eleven Hot Innings Played With Mt. Angel, the Local Boys Winning by the Close Score of 3-2—Many Features in Game.

Playing the best game of the season Medford defeated Mount Angel College Sunday in an eleven inning contest by the score of 3 to 2. The home guard played in the form displayed last season. J. Jaspers, pitching for the college, came near being the undoing of the Medford players with his cannon ball delivery. Rudy Scholz, the Medford boy playing short stop for the visitors was the game every moment in spite of his sprained tendon which slowed up his playing considerably. Two sensational catches by Antle and one by E. Jaspers were the features of the game. Medford almost scored in the first inning but Horton was nipped at the plate. Miles got to third base in the third inning, but was left high and dry at the end of the frame. In the fourth inning Mt. Angel scored twice when Browning singled and took third on "Shorty's" error of E. Jaspers grounder. He scored when Shooby threw Yarrow out at first base. Schnee knocked a slow infield grounder and reached first base on a fielders choice but Jaspers was not at the plate. He took second on the play and scored when Melchior singled and Wilson booted the ball over the foul line. Rudy Scholz singled and Coleman ended the inning by striking out.

In the eighth Medford tied the score by forcing two runs over the plate. Miles got to first base on Yarrow's error and took second on the overthrow to first. Horton singled, took second when E. Jaspers booted the ball and stole third. Crews fanned. Wilkinson drove a long three bagger to the center field fence, scoring in the ninth. "Pug" ended the inning by striking out.

The game was air tight until the eleventh inning when Wilkinson walked and took second on a passed ball. Pug walked and Wilkinson took third on another passed ball. Wilson laid down a neat bunt and Wilkinson scored the winning run. The game at a glance:

AMBULANCE SERVICE

Astrology With Risks.

Formerly they had rough and ready modes of testing claims to supernatural powers.

"Do not know where thou wilt pass Christmas?" asked Henry VII. of an astrologer. He could not tell.

Whereupon the king's grace, which did love a merry jest, made answer, "Then I can be wiser than thou, for I know that thou wilt spend Christmas in prison."

John Galeazzo, duke of Milan, is said to have made even merrier at the expense of an astrologer who foretold him that he would die early.

"And how long do you expect to live?" he inquired of the prophet.

"My lord, my star promises me a long life."

"Never trust to your star, man; you are to be hanged today," and the duke took care that his own prediction should be fulfilled.

Killing One Fly.

Every fly begins as an egg deposited in some kind of organic filth. It hatches into a tiny maggot within a few hours, begins to feed and grow, completes its growth and comes out as a perfect fly in possibly ten days. It then requires at least fourteen days to mature its first batch of eggs, and to lay live to mature and deposit at least six layers, of from 120 to 150 eggs each. This means that in killing one fly we may be preventing the hatching of nearly a thousand others.—Youth's Companion.

Two Kinds of Curiosity.

Philistropic Visitor (to jailbird)—My friend, may I ask what it was that brought you here? Jailbird—The very same thing that brought you here—the desire to poke my nose into other people's business, only I used generally to go in by way of the basement window.—Exchange.

Two Sides.

Willis—Why don't you go to church? Gibbs—Too far. Why don't you go? Willis—We live next door to one, and I hate to get all dressed up just to go that little way.—Puck.
