CORDED A CROCODILE

Turning a Greedy Water Devil Into a Trussed Up Mummy.

It is known that a crocodile will sometimes leave a river stocked with food, explore for miles an unsuitable tributary, then wander inland until it flads a pool

In this way three crocodiles once found their way to Taiping lake, in the Malay peninsula. So long as they confined their attention to the fish and an occasional duck no one objected to their preschee, but when one of them a falling monoplane which kitled Minister began to take sheep off the bank as they came down to drink it was felt that the saurians ought to be exterminated, and an Englishman and his servant made the attempt.

Obtaining a dugout, they paddled into deep water. The servant was already barefoot, and the Englishman himself took off shoes and stockings, so that his bare feet might have as good a hold as possible on the smooth bottom of the canoe. A balt was attached to a heavy rattan, and soon a tug and a plunge indicated that the erocodile was fast to one end. Im-mediately the canoe began to move through the water. After a protracted struggle the Englishman managed to get the crocodile within a few yards jaws would surge out of the broken water and snap together to unpleasant proximity to the men's legs; the next moment the heavy tail would swing free of the water and with the weight of a falling pole would hit the side of the capoe a blow that made it shiver.

As the crocodile surged close to the cance and the open mouth appeared above the water the servant slipped a noose of stout cord over the upper jaw and pulled it tight some six inches behind the point of its nostrile. Then, with a quick turn of his wrist, he slip ped the slack of the cord round under the lower jaw. He drew the cord tight, and the teeth of each jaw press ed home into the sockets of the other. The servant now grasped the point of the long, narrow head with one hand and with the other rapidly wound the cord round the clinched mouth.

Another noose was slipped over a fore leg. It pulled the leg up to the animal's side. The servant alipped the line over the creature's back and caught up the other fore leg. Then he noosed and tied together the hind legs. The effect be bad achieved was wonderful. In a few minutes be had transformed a ravening water devil into a trussed up mummy, and his only weapon had been three pieces of box

The beast was afterward dispatched, and the servant received the government reward.-Harper's Weekly.

Washed Out Blood Stains Cannot Escape the Ultra Violet Rays.

Even before it had been adapted exclusively, by means of special lens construction and combination, to the reception of the invisible ultra violet rays, the camera eye, owing to its peculiar sensitiveness to this light, has played a airikingly dramatic role on various occasions. One of these occurred a few years ago in Lausanne, Bwitzerland.

It appears that a handkerchief formed an exhibit at a murder trial and was regarded as a crucial bit of evidence. The closest inspection failed to reveal a stain on the immaculately white cloth even with the aid of a powerful microscope. But it occurred to a professor of Lausanne university to photograph the handkerchief, when the image obtained clearly disclosed the presence of great splotches, or, rather, of what had been such, showing ghostlike in the carefully washed fabric. The photograph proved the turning point of the trial, and the result was conviction. Blood, as was scientifically explained at the time, happens to be one of the substances that absorb ultra violet rays, and when any of these substances have found their way to a receptive call on local agents for circulars surface no amount of erasing or printed matter, or write to cleansing can hide its presence from the camera eye. When the latter is equipped to utilize only this invisible

Fully 200,000 persons who had gathered at Issy to witness the start of the Paris-to-Madrid race saw the death of Berteaux and the maining of Premier Monis, his son Antoine, and Henri Deutsch. Berteaux was borribly mangled and died instantly. Both Antoine Monis and Deutsch are recovering. It is generally believed that poor management was responsible for the acci-dent. The grounds were inadequately patrolled and when Aviator Train mono-plane swooped down the pressure of the throng made it impossible for Premier Monie and his party to escape. Arrangements are being made today for a state funeral for Minister Ber-teaux, and owing to the national mournog for him the state visit of King Peter of Servia has been idefinitely postponed.

Despite penalization of half an hourfor a false start. Pierre Vedgine today is leading in the race to Madrid. Vedrine finished the first leg of the race, from Issy to Anfouleme, 281 miles, in three hours and 48 minutes. He is picked to

One Dead, Many Injured, Telephone Lines Down, Much Damage Done by Storm Which Comes Out of Clear Sky.

CHICAGO, III., May 22.-One woman dead, haif a dozen others seriously in-jured, telephone and telegraph lines out and thousands of dollars worth of property damaged is the toll today of a freakish electrical and rain storm which hit Chicago, out of a clear sky, putting an end to the terrible heat wave which for four days held the city in its grip. The rain came without warning, thoroughly drenching thousands of persons who had taken refuge in the city parks from the next. Then the temperature dropped to its normal condition. During the storm lightning struck a three story brick flat, killing Mrs. W. F. Caldwell and injuring nearly everyone in the building.
