

STRONG SHOW IS OFFERED

Gennaro's Venetian Band Said to Be One of the Best Institutions of Its Kind Now On the Road — Other Strong Acts.

The bill presented by Gennaro's company tonight at the Medford opera house consists of the strongest acts now in vaudeville and the patrons of the house may rest assured that a program will be presented that will be pleasing and entertaining.

GENNARO.

act in their creation of the "Electric Butterfly Dance," and are headliners on the eastern circuit.

Brooks and Carlisle in their skit "Twenty Minutes of Joy," is a scream from start to finish and holds the attention of the audience throughout the entire act. Neary and Miller, the dancing kids, are there all the time, and when it comes to dancing these young men are "away to the good."

La Veir in his trapeze act is a wonder, and his many thrilling tricks holds the audience spellbound.

The Newmans, the Australian trick cyclists, are without a peer in their line, and their boxing act on unicycles is a decided feature.

In presenting this high class bill the management wishes to say that if this show meets with the approval of the theatre going people of Medford they will endeavor to book similar attractions throughout the summer season.

GRANTS PASS WILL HELP MEDFORD 4TH

Councilman H. J. Herzinger of Grants Pass was in Medford Wednesday and states that Grants Pass is working hard to promote the Fourth of July celebration in Medford. Plans for a celebration at Grants Pass have been given up and in return for this the people of that city desire Medford to boost for the mining congress to be held there July 18.

AT THE U-GO.

"The Lion and the Mouse" will be the new bill at the U-Go theater tonight. This is one of Chas. Klein's plays, and ran for ten years in New York city.

Mr. Harry Hollingsworth will be seen in the role of John Burkett Ryder, the Lion. This part was created by Mr. John Mason. Miss Genevieve Cunningham will be seen in the part of the Mouse. The rest of the company will be well cast. Manager Hollingsworth has spared no expense to make their production a grand success. This is what the Santa Cruz Sentinel says:

"The Hollingsworth company opened up at the Unique theater in 'The Lion and the Mouse.' The house was overflowing, and the curtain never went down that it did not have to be raised again and again, and there was no end to the applause. The play is a strong one, and brought out the best points of the two chief actors, Harry Hollingsworth as John Burkett Ryder and Miss Genevieve Cunningham as Shirley Rossmore. In the third act, where the two are pitted against each other, there was breathless interest."

DOUBLE RUNAWAY ON MAIN STREET

Team Starts Near Pacific & Eastern Depot and in Dashing Up Street Frightens Delivery Horse—All Tear Out Street.

A double runaway occurred on Main street Thursday morning shortly after 11 o'clock and considerable damage was done before the horses were finally stopped. Starting from near the Pacific & Eastern depot, a white team belonging to the Medford Grocery company ran away, crossing the Bear creek bridge and dashed west on Main street. In front of the new First National bank building the delivery wagon smashed into a wagon being loaded with gravel and almost demolished one rear wheel. The horses broke away from the delivery wagon and continued down the street. A horse attached to a light delivery wagon was standing near the Fruit Association building and this also started to run, tearing the lines from the hands of a lad who was holding it from the sidewalk. All three horses then ran nearly to the end of West Main street where they were stopped without doing any further damage.

MANY TROUT ARE HATCHED

Henry O'Malley, Superintendent of Northwest District for the United States Bureau of Hatcheries is inspecting Institutions.

Two million and a half of steel-head or rainbow and a hundred thousand cut throat have already been hatched at the Elk Creek Rogue River hatchery and are in good condition, and another half million is in process of hatching, according to Henry O'Malley, superintendent in the northwest for the United States bureau of hatcheries, who spent the past three days at the hatchery and left Thursday to inspect conditions at the Ament dam and visit the Applegate hatchery station, where half a million steelhead fry are being hatched.

Two and a half million of salmon have also been hatched at the Elk creek station and are being liberated as they attain a safe size. The trout fry, however, are being held longer. It is planned to hold part of them until fall, when they will have attained considerable size. On account of the limited arrangements at the hatchery it will be impossible to hold more than a million. The others will be kept as long as possible and then taken to the Big Butte and upper Rogue and liberated.

Reports that the trout fry were not in good condition are pronounced unfounded by Mr. O'Malley. Some of the canned food sent up for salmon fry by the Humes was found unfit to feed and the cause of illness among young salmon, hence its use discontinued. Mr. O'Malley contracted for liver from local butchers.

The government has established an egg taking station at Fish lake at the head of Elk creek on the Umpqua divide, and is securing rainbow trout eggs for hatching at the Rogue river station.

Mr. O'Malley believes that a trout hatchery should be established on the Big Butte, which is an ideal stream for the work, as it is convenient to the railroad and has no irrigation ditches to bother and will cooperate with local people in efforts to secure one.
