

UNIVERSITY MAY YET GET MONEY

Wholesale Forgeries are Claimed to Have Been Made in Connection With Referendum Petitions on File at Salem.

SALEM, Ore., June 10.—Wholesale forgeries, perpetrated for the sake of the so-much-per-name paid by persons behind the different referendum movements, together with names thrown out through technicalities, threaten to invalidate part or all of the referendums on file at Salem.

"It is an alarming state of affairs when the referendum powers can be so shamefully abused," said Ex-Supreme Justice W. T. Slater today.

In the case of the referendum on the University of Oregon extension appropriation, Judge Slater, acting for friends of the university, says he has discovered 1200 names in one bunch on the University of Oregon referendum petitions which are "manifest forgeries."

"Anyone of three or four other collections of names of 400 to 600 each are forgeries on the face of them," he declared.

If the allegations are true, it dooms the chance for the University referendum to go upon the ballot. Judge Slater claims to have 5,000 names in one batch which are invalid on another point of law, and this leaves only 1500 names to invalidate with all the forgeries yet to be stricken out.

"Similar conditions," said Judge Slater, "are known to prevail in connection with other bills against which are referendum has been invoked and preliminary work is being started to attack the referendum on these also."

Pittsburgh's victory over Brooklyn keeps St. Louis out of the first division, though the Cardinals win still leaves them only half a game to the bad. The standing tonight:

HIDE BUYER STILL MISSING

Nothing Has Been Learned by Officers Regarding the Man—Lived in Albany—Rode Motor Cycle Between Cities.

Nathan Rogoway, a hide buyer for the Albany tannery company, has disappeared and it is thought that he was in this vicinity at the time when he was discovered to be missing.

Investigation is being made by the Medford police, but nothing can be learned of his whereabouts.

On May 25 he purchased a supply of hides from the Nichols & Ashpole market, but never called for them. He had an appointment with an Ashland dealer the same day also, but telephoned him that he could not be in that city until the following day.

Rogoway was an enthusiastic motorcycle rider and it is thought he may have been injured in an accident. He made his trips between cities by this means.

The nearest thing to a clue is a report from the Ashland police department that about two weeks ago a man was injured on a motorcycle in the vicinity of Jacksonville.

H. Rogoway, a nephew, who resides in Albany, went to Jacksonville to investigate the matter Saturday, but as far as known no trace of the missing man was discovered. The Albany Tannery company has heard nothing from him since the date of his disappearance and his salary has not been called for.

Look for the "help wanted" ad that seems like a "prospect"—and answer it promptly.
