FATALITIES SICKEN AVIATION FANS

Three Dead, Five Injured at Start of Great Acroplane Race—Followers of Sport Demand That Contest be Abandoned at Once.

PARIS, June 19.—A message to the Paris Journal, which paper has been promoting the four-nation acroplane race, says another contestant driving a monoplane fell and was killed between Saint Laurent and Lunas. His name has not yet been learned.

PARIS, June 19.—Sickened by the toll of death that has marred the opening of the Paris-Belgium-Holland-London acroplane race, many followers of aviation today are demanding that the contest be abandoned. In spite of this protest and the three deaths and five injuries that have already marked its course, the airmen are still hurtling along in the race today. Sixteen of the 48 starters have reached Liege, Belgium, and are preparing for the second stage of the flight to Utrecht.

That the aviators were nervous yesterday at the start and that they took grave chances is the belief of Aviator Hubert Latham, who today declared that aviation as a sport is "too dangerous and ought to be restricted."

"The fact that the last two races were converted into tragedies at their very outset explains the nervousness of the aviators in yesterday's start before a crowd of a million people," he added.

Accidents Come Early. The accidents came almost with the starting gun. In sight of the million people assembled at the aviation park at Vincennes, Captain Prince-tau, who had been gazetted captain only a few hours before the start for his notable services in aviation, was cremated in midair when the engine of his monoplane exploded.

A few minutes later M. LeMartin's Bierlot became unmanageable and fell as he was over a forest a quarter of a mile from the start. His head was crushed against a tree trunk and he died within a few minutes after he was picked up.

M. Lendron was the third victim. After he had made 70 miles of the first leg of the journey the gasoline tank of his machine exploded and he was crashed to earth, struck by a part of his engine and killed.

WOMEN SEEK TO SEE TRIAL

Courtroom is Crowded With Girls. Most of Whom are Said to be Former Followers of Founder of New Cult.

CHICAGO, Ill., June 19.—When the trial of Evelyn Arthur See, founder of the "junior commonwealth," charged with contributing to the delinquency of Mildred Bridges, aged 17, opened today, the court room was crowded with girls and women. It was reported that most of them were former followers of See. Mildred Bridges, one of the high priestesses of See's "absolute life" cult, sat in court refusing to desert See. She refused even to glance toward her father Stephen Bridges, who was ready to appear as first witness for the state.

Attorney Cantwell, representing See, opened for the defense. His statement was confined to an attack on Mildred's father.

"We will show that the teachings of the absolute life were pure and not immoral," he said. "We will show that Mildred Bridges was not enticed from her home but left with the consent of the parents; that the first time she heard evil word she heard them in her own home from her own father. She decided that he was so filthy and so beastly that she would no longer live with him."

"We will show that every line of the 'book of Ruth' is moral and virtuous."

Infant Dies. Walter Raymond, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Anderson died Sunday morning at 1:30 o'clock at the home on the Carpenter ranch. Meningitis was the cause of death. He was born in Chicago, August 25, 1908 and was two years and eight months of age. The funeral was held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home. Rev. Holmes had charge of the ceremonies. Interment was held in the I. O. O. F. cemetery. John Perl was funeral director.

PRESS AGENT STUNT--FERRIS

Promoter Says He is in Trouble Because Wickersham Couldn't See a Joke—Tells of His Whole Connection With Mexican Troubles.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 19.—Ascribing his predicament with the United States government "to the fact that a party named Wickersham cannot see a joke and don't know a live press agent when he sees one," Dick Ferris, "former president of Lower California," today talked of his case before being arraigned in the United States court for alleged violation of the neutrality laws.

Ferris said that his whole connection with Mexican affairs grew out of his desire to boost the Pan-Pacific road race to San Francisco.

"What did I care," said Ferris about the fighting of a bunch of 'cholos' in Lower California. We had to have some publicity for the road race, so hit upon the scheme of offering to drive the rebels out of Lower California for Diaz and then I forgot all about the matter. Among those who 'bit' the hardest on my little bit of self-advertising was the attorney general of the United States who brought about my indictment.

"Now what I call a fine joke. I had forgotten the entire affair but it seems that Wickersham has a splendid memory.

"Three months later I found myself in San Diego with the ground-breaking arrangements for the San Diego fair on my hands. We needed as much advertising there as we did for the road race in Frisco and it was then that I pulled off my greatest publicity stunt. One day I met Captain Lewis James of the rebel forces and told him what a fine thing it would be to haul down the red flag of anarchy, have another pulled up, elect a president and go about things in a dignify way. My speech fired the captain. He went back to his command, repeated by speech and the

SECOND TRIAL OF ALLEGED GRAFTER

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 19.—The second trial of Rodne Diegle, senate sergeant at arms, for alleged bribery, in which it is charged he was a go-between for senators and detectives posing as lobbyists, began today. Diegle attempted to swear Judge Kinkaid off the bench on a charge of prejudice, but the affidavit was overruled by Judge Gold-sherry.

Navy Vessels Collide. SAN DIEGO, Cal., June 19.—A hole in the starboard bow of the torpedo boat Rowan is the result of a collision between the Rowan and the submarine boat Grampus. The boats struck bow-on at about 9:30 this morning. The danger was seen in time to avert a serious accident, the Grampus escaping without injury. No one was hurt. The responsibility for the accident is not yet placed.
