

VETERANS WILL MEET TUESDAY

State Encampment Grand Army Veterans Will be Held at Ashland Next Week—Auto Rides to be Feature of the Entertainment.

The program for the 30th annual encampment of the Oregon G. A. R. to be held in Ashland for three days, commencing Tuesday, June 27, has been announced, says the Tidings.

After the delegates have been met at the train in the morning and escorted to headquarters, rooms will be assigned. In the evening a band concert will be given at Chautauqua Tabernacle at 7 o'clock. At 8 o'clock the opening exercises will be held, also at the Tabernacle, as follows: Invocation, music, address of welcome by Mayor Neil, soprano solo, responses to address of welcome by department commander, violin solo by Professor Beech, recitation.

The program for Wednesday will include an auto ride through the valley. In the evening at 7 o'clock another band concert will be given at the Chautauqua Tabernacle. The program for this evening will include invocation, selection by a male quartet and the presentation of a play entitled "Before the War." This will be followed by a violin solo by Professor Beech.

On Thursday, arrangements have been made for another automobile trip. At 9:15 a. m. there will be a parade and flag presentation at Chautauqua Park and in the evening a band concert at the Tabernacle, followed by a campfire and refreshments. This will be followed by addresses.

The order of business will be as follows: Opening of encampment in form, report of committees on credentials, roll call, report of officers, appointment of committees, reading of communications and presentation of resolutions, report of committees, unfinished business, new business, election of officers, selection of place for 31st annual encampment, followed by installation of officers.

CRATER LAKE AS WINTER RESORT

Man Back From Visit to Natural Wonder Says it Can be Made Accessible and is Well Worth Going to See in Winter.

D. O. Williams, who recently returned from a trip to Crater lake with two outsiders, believes that this could be made quite an attractive winter trip should proper steps be taken toward this end, says the Klamath Chronicle.

Mr. Williams and his companions left Klamath Falls with an automobile and traveled to Fort Klamath. There the machine was exchanged for a team and rig and this was driven to Wildhorse. From there the rest of the journey of about twelve miles was made by foot over the snow. The first day of the drive and walk was made to the government station, five miles this side of the rim, where the night was spent. The following day they went to the rim, where some three hours was spent and the return trip made back to where the team was left that evening.

Mr. Williams declares that if arrangements were made to have stopping places every few miles from Fort Klamath to Crater lake hundreds of people would visit this great wonder every winter to see it and for the experience of the trip. In doing this it would be necessary to erect cabins at reasonable distances apart and stock them with fuel, grub and blankets before the winter set in, enough to last through the winter, so those making the journey could find these frequent shelters and provisions for remaining over night.

Mr. Williams believes that if this suggestion was followed out it would add almost as much attractiveness to Crater lake as a winter resort as it is now a summer resort.

METHODIST SUNDAY SCHOOL ENTERTAINED

Following the regular monthly business meeting of the men's and women's Bible classes of the Methodist Episcopal Sunday school Wednesday evening, a program was rendered, refreshments served and a general good time indulged in.

Bean throwing and tack driving contests were prominent features and much amusement was derived from them by both contestants and spectators.

Mrs. H. L. Wilson won the tack driving contest, driving 18 tacks in the one minute allowed for the trial. The contestants were forced to stand at a board and drive tacks with a light hammer. Mr. Yoder won the bean throwing contest, throwing two beans out of 20 into small fruit jars ten feet away. None of the others could score even once, and he was an easy winner.

After the contests light refreshments, consisting of ice cream, wafers and cake, were served.

OBITUARY

John V. Palmer, who died at San Francisco last Saturday evening, was for some time past a resident of Medford and was an extensive holder of orchard properties in the Rogue River valley. Mr. Palmer's genial manners had won for him a host of friends throughout the valley, who will mourn his demise. He was born in Johnstown, N. Y., November 12, 1844. He was a great lover of horses and had owned and bred many fine harness horses. For a number of years he raced his stables on the grand circuit and was a familiar figure on the big harness tracks.

While Mr. Palmer was not a member of any church sect, he was most Christian in distribution of his charities and gave to the poor and unfortunate as freely as his circumstances would permit. Big hearted to a fault, loyal to his friends, always genial and optimistic, his loss is greatly deplored by those who have known him.

The remains were shipped to La Crosse, Wis., for burial.

Who's Your Baker?

WHEN bread was called the "staff of life" the delicious crackers, cakes and biscuits of today were unknown. A baker in those days meant a man who baked bread. A baker nowadays means more—it signifies an artist who tickles your palate with those flakey crackers and other tit-bits that give you an added appetite for food—and help digestion.

"Who's your baker," means much. It means better health, a healthy stomach and happy days. If you study the matter as we study it, this is your bakery—for we know your needs. We already supply many of your neighbors. Try us next time.
