

MRS. JULIA HARRIS CROSSES DIVIDE

Wife of W. B. Harris Passes Away at Sacred Heart From Blood Poisoning—Leaves Husband and Five Children, One an Infant.

Mrs. Julia E. Harris, age 38, the wife of W. B. Harris, died at the Sacred Heart hospital at 3:45 Monday afternoon. Death came from blood poisoning. Mrs. Harris was taken to the hospital last Saturday.

Mrs. Harris had lived with her husband and children in the valley for two years. She came here from Aledo, Ill., living at 132 North Ivy street in this city until last November, when the family moved to a ranch two miles north of Central Point at Seven Oaks crossing. Mrs. Harris was born at Viola, Ill., June 28, 1873. She leaves five children, all boys—Russell, age 11; Herbert, age 9; Ernest, age 7; James, age 3, and the baby, 2 weeks old. She is also survived by her father, Russell Park, age 80, and her mother, Eliza Park, age 82, both of whom live in Aledo, Ill., and by her brothers, James Park, Rock Island, Ill., and William Park, Woodville, Or., and by a sister, Mrs. Chris Theide, Aledo, Ill. From young girlhood Mrs. Harris has been a consistent member of the church and a faithful Christian. She was a devoted mother, who put her children's welfare above every other consideration, and lived for their temporal and spiritual good. To be a wife and mother in the ideal sense was her ambition. She was a true friend and good neighbor. Her love for the Lord Jesus sweetened her love for all others, and made bright her hope for time and eternity.

The funeral services will be held at the Presbyterian church at 10:30 Wednesday morning. The Rev. Weston F. Shields, pastor, assisted by the Rev. Coen of Woodville, will have charge of the services. Burial will be made in the Central Point cemetery.

Arrests in Mellon Divorce Suit.

Alfred George Curphey, of London, owner of South African mines, is named as correspondent in a suit for divorce brought by Andrew W. Mellon, a Pittsburgh millionaire, against his wife. Captain Thomas W. Kirkbridge, of the British artillery reserves, is also mentioned in the suit. Curphey and Kirkbridge were arrested in New York and are fighting the New York and Pittsburgh courts to prevent extradition to the latter city, where the suit was brought. The case has been adjourned until July 14.

LOW GEAR SLOW WORK SAYS BERT

County Road Engineer and Judge J. R. Neil Forced to Travel Many Miles Slowly and Painfully—Mud Doesn't Help Any.

Bert Harmon, county road engineer, doesn't think much of low gear work with an automobile. Bert ought to know. He drifted back into town this morning after traveling many, many miles at a speed which would make even old Dobbin hang his head in shame. County Judge J. R. Neil is another one who hasn't much use for low gear. He was with Bert. It happened thusly:

Engineer Harmon and Judge Neil left Monday to inspect the work on the new bridge being constructed across the Rogue above the Enyart place. While in that neighborhood they met with an accident putting the high gear of Mr. Harmon's car out of commission. And for many weary miles through the mud they tediously dragged themselves homeward on the low.

WOMAN POSED AS MAN SEVEN YEARS

LONG BEACH, Cal., June 27.—After posing as her husband's brother for seven years, Mrs. Roy Ballou is "as sorry as can be" today that she called at Long Beach police headquarters and disclosed her sex to Chief of Police Moyer.

"I would never have confessed," said Mrs. Ballou, "but I believed I was being followed by detectives."

Mrs. Ballou is the wife of a boatman operating between San Pedro and San Diego. When she called at the police station she was attired in a light gray suit, tan button shoes, gray socks and a modish gray silk tie.

Mrs. Ballou's four reasons for wearing men's clothes are:

"I think I make a better looking boy than girl; male attire gives more freedom and protection; fewer annoying attentions are paid to boys than to women; male attire made life on the sea a 'cinch.'"

DERBY ROAD IS NEARLY COMPLETE

County Judge Neil Well Pleased With Progress of the Work—Bridge at Big Butte Will Be Open to Traffic Within Ten Days.

Within ten days the Derby road will be open to traffic and the bridge across the Rogue at the Mouth of Big Butte will be completed. County Road Engineer Harmon and Judge J. R. Neil returned from an inspection trip Tuesday well pleased at the progress made.

"The new road," states Judge Neil, "is a splendid piece of work and the public will be well satisfied when they travel over it. It was done in such a manner that it will remain in good condition the year around. Proper drainage has been established and the road surfaced with the material at hand which will be most satisfactory. We expect to have the road open within ten days."

SON OF EDITOR SHOOTS SELF

Thomas Bagshaw, Aged 22, Whose Father is Publisher of Jacksonville Post, Commits Suicide in Fit of Despondency—Mother Finds Body

In a fit of despondency, Thomas Bagshaw, printer, aged 22, son of D. W. Bagshaw, editor of the Jacksonville Post, committed suicide Monday afternoon at his home in Jacksonville by firing a bullet from a .32 revolver into his heart. Death was instantaneous. The body was found by the young man's mother stretched on his bedroom floor after she had become alarmed and had instituted a search.

No motive is known for the action of the young man, except that he was temporarily deranged following a spell of unusual depression. He dined with the family at noon and later in the day went to his room on the second floor of the family residence. Later, when his mother became worried, she went to the young man's room, but as the door was locked, failed to gain entrance. Thereupon she summoned to her aid Luce Lyle, a carpenter, who forced the door. The young man's lifeless body was found stretched on the floor. The father was at once summoned, but nothing could be done. Death had been instantaneous.

Coroner Kellogg was summoned, as was Deputy Coroner Perl of this city. They decided that an inquest was not necessary. The young man will be buried this afternoon in the Jacksonville cemetery.
