

FOURTH'S FIGHT PUZZLES BETTERS

Both Wolgast and Moran at Weight Odds Still 10 to 7 Upon Wolgast and Little Money in Sight—Some 18 Round Wolgast Money.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 1.—Puzzling in its betting features as any championship bout that ever was staged, the 20 round affair to be fought here next Tuesday, has today the fight fans guessing. With both Wolgast and Moran at weight and both apparently at their best, the best price the Briton's friends can get is 10 to 7. And they are not betting much money at that. So far there is little betting on the rounds. A few wagers have been laid at odds that Wolgast will win in 18 rounds and one bet of 5 to 20 has been made that the contest will end before the 15th round, no winner being named.

Bettors Are Reluctant.
It is a curious situation. With two men, each of whom is known to have a knockout kick, the reluctance of the bettors to pick a winner is unusual. And the reason is that few can make up their minds. Of course Wolgast is the favorite. Champions always are. But Moran is a game, speedy, husky boy, a good ring general, and if the champion cannot put over a knockout punch there are many who believe the little Englishman is good enough boxer to get a decision on points.

Both Wolgast and Moran today have practically completed their work and have begun to take it easy. Tomorrow both boys will show a few rounds of easy sparring, but neither will take any chances, as they are "right" now.

Cessation of Training.
With the cessation of training work both are developing into "word fighters." For a few days mutual recriminations have been frequent. Moran, stung by reports that Wolgast held him cheaply, came back with a statement that Wolgast had "uncanned" it throughout their New York bout. That put Wolgast's back up. He said today:

"If I am not game and Moran is so sure of beating me as he says he is, why doesn't he come across with a little bet? I have had $5,000 up ever since I came here and not a nickel of it has been covered."

Which is some argument, at that. "So Moran says I 'uncanned' in my fight with him in New York," snapped Wolgast. "I am not admitting that I did, but I will say that I had been fighting only a year when we met and Moran outweighed me 15 pounds. Despite this he did not even draw blood on me. He was a seasoned veteran and I was a kid."

Recriminations Frequent.
"When Moran meets me July 4, he will not be up against a poor, old broken down man like Battling Nelson or an all in selling plater like Harlem Tommy Murphy, who beat him. Moran can win a lot of money if he can beat me. I'd like him to back his talk with his coin."

Nearly 200 fight fans from Los Angeles, where Wolgast has always been a favorite will be here when the fight starts and Wolgast expects that when they turn their money loose the odds will drop like a bullet.

CHARGE OF CRUELTY SPRINGER DIVORCE

DENVER, Col., July 1.—On grounds of extreme cruelty, Judge Allen today granted to Millionaire John W. Springer a decree of divorce from his wife, whose amours figured in the trial here of Frank H. Henwood for the killing of George Copeland and Aeronaut "Tony" Von Phil, both of whom were shot in the Brown Palace Hotel here May 24.

Henwood declared he shot Von Phil because the latter was trying to wreck Springer's home. Evidence introduced at his trial showed that he and Von Phil were rivals for Mrs. Springer's favors. Copeland was shot by accident during the affair. Springer has aged greatly since the Henwood shooting and the expose of his wife's acts which followed. He told the court today about letters Von Phil had written Mrs. Springer. The woman was not represented in court. Springer, it is understood, has made provision for her support.

The celebration gives every promise of being the biggest stunt of its kind ever not only in the history of Medford but in the history of the whole of Southern Oregon, ever put on. Last night the streets were jammed with a pleasure seeking set and until a late hour Main street was jammed with a mass of

COUNTRY CLUB OPENING HELD

Proves to Be a Success in Every Sense of the Word—Over Two Hundred Attend and Are Greatly Pleased With Club and Grounds.

In every respect the opening of the new Medford Golf and Country Club Friday was a success. It was quite the greatest social event of the season while the sporting calendar was filled. Over two hundred of the socially prominent ones of the city and valley gathered at the club grounds and throughout the afternoon enjoyed themselves.

The new country club is a credit to Medford and to the Rogue River Valley. Nearly one hundred lovers of an outdoor life have joined together to give Medford the finest club of its kind to be found in the state. An ideal location was found on the foothills overlooking the city and there was built a club house on a site commanding the entire valley. Tennis courts, a golf course and traps were provided and all these were the scenes of interesting contests Friday the opening day.

The club house which has been splendidly fitted up was the scene of an informal reception during the afternoon. The large roof garden was crowded with ladies who could sit and watch the different sporting contests or look away across the valley—a magnificent view. As the automobiles drove up and the guests arrived they were shown through the club house and about the grounds an had the many advantages of the club pointed out to them. The ladies receiving were:

Mrs. W. J. Vawter, Mrs. George Daggett, Mrs. E. S. Hafer, Mrs. E. B. Davis, Mrs. S. V. Beckwith, Mrs. P. W. Hamil, Mrs. J. F. Reddy, Mrs. R. H. Parsons, Mrs. Lincoln McCormick, Mrs. George B. Carpenter, Mrs. Evan A. Reames, Mrs. Fred Cummings, Mrs. E. B. Pickel, Mrs. A. C. Fiero, Miss McCormick, Miss Burke and Miss Holloway.

Those who attended the formal opening of the club have little doubt but that the institution is bound to play a very important part in the social world of Medford and the Rogue River Valley. The guiding spirits of the organization, officers and members are to be congratulated.

The committee in charge of the entertainment was George Daggett, chairman; L. Carpenter, George B. Carpenter, R. H. Parsons, L. O. Orton, Howard Dudley and F. L. Tou Velle.

The officers of the new club are: W. J. Vawter, president; S. V. Beckwith, vice-president; T. E. Danie's, secretary, and A. S. Rosenbaum, treasurer. The board of governors consists of A. C. Fiero, R. H. Hansuer, L. Carpenter, R. H. Parsons and Howard Dudley.

humanity. The largest crowd in Medford's history will be in Medford Monday and Tuesday if the present numbers are any criterion.

The downtown streets have been appropriately decorated for the celebration. Strings of red, white and blue electric lights have been stretched across Main street. These were lighted for the first time last evening, the effect being very pleasing. Bunting without stint has been used in decorating the fronts of the business houses in the city while all of the electric light and telephone poles on Main street have been rapped with bunting.

The celebration proper will open Monday morning. A large number
