WOODVILLE ITEMS.

Reports from all over the United States show that the "sane" Fourth of July idea was popular in nearly all the larger cities, and the result is that there are less accidents and deaths than in any other year. Woodville adopted the "insane" celebration, but it turned out to be very "sane," as there were no accidents or trouble of any kind to mar the day. Every one who came reported a good time and seemed well pleased. Personally, we do not favor the "insane" plan and we believe that the time is not far distant when the "sane" plan will be popular with the majority of the American people, for nearly all the magazines of our country are advocating the "safe" and "sane" idea. The Woodville band "did themselves proud" on the Fourth of July. Every one was surprised at the fine music when they considered that the band has not been organized two months and most of the members never played an instrument before joining the band. Miss Dora Pinney of Leland was the guest of relatives over the Fourth. Miss Pinney read the Declaration of Independence here on the Fourth.
