

BLIGHT AFFECTS KEIFFER PEARS

Prof. of Pomology at Cornell States That Supposed Blight Proof Stock Blighted as Badly as Other Varieties This Season.

Jasper Grunwell of Medford, who is interested in discovering, if possible, a blight proof pear stock, has received a letter from C. S. Wilson, professor of Pomology at Cornell, stating that Kieffer stocks has suffered from blight in New York this year, as badly as other stock. The letter follows under date of July 26, 1911: "Your letter to Director Bailey has been referred to me to answer. The question you ask, namely, as to the difference as far as blight is concerned between a Bartlett worked directly on the French seedling or top-worked on a Kieffer, which has been worked on a French seedling, really hinges on whether or not a Kieffer is more or less subject to blight. Up to the present year it has been the opinion that the Kieffer was less subject to blight than many other varieties of pears. This year, however, the Kieffer trees have blighted as badly as other varieties. In view of this, and if it is true that the Kieffer blights as badly as other varieties, there would be no advantage in buying Kieffer trees or the French variety and then grafting them to other varieties. "In regard to the piece-root grafted tree and the budded tree, with the piece-root grafted tree a seedling is taken and the root cut into two or more pieces and onto each piece a scion is grafted. This is piece-root grafting. In the other case the entire seedling is planted in the spring and budded in the summer, in which case the entire root is used. Generally speaking, it takes a piece-root graft three years to make the same growth as the budded tree makes in two years. The reason for this, I think, is evident. In one case you have used for the root the entire seedling, while in the other case you have cut the roots of the seedling up into pieces. It is reasonable that the piece-root graft will make a much slower growth than the other. I should prefer a budded tree, provided I did not want to get a variety on its own roots. The purpose of piece-root grafting is, as I understand it, to enable the growers to get a variety on its own roots. A long scion is grafted onto a piece-root. When that is planted a part of the scion is placed beneath the surface of the soil, and roots start from the scion as well as from the root.

"I do not know of any experiment which gives a comparison of French stock and Japanese stock. I assume that you mean by Japanese and Pyrus sinensis, or Sand Pear. It is true that the Sand Pear makes a very vigorous growth and does well in the northern and southern climates alike. It is also true that the Sand Pear is used for stocks to a certain extent, but not largely. I am unable to give you any exact information as to the comparative value of these two stocks."

BUYS STEAM PLANT FOR MINE AT KIRBY R. M. Wilson, owner and manager of the Alta mine and other properties located five miles west of Kirby, has returned from Portland, where he purchased a steam plant to be placed on the mine to furnish power for his 40 ton Lane slow speed Chile mill. This will enable Mr. Wilson to run continually. In winter he will use water power from Josephine creek, says the Grants Pass Courier. The engine just purchased is 25 horse-power and the boiler 35 horse-power. The Alta mine is a big low grade proposition and Mr. Wilson stated that he is mining in an open cut 150 feet above the mill and all ore is sent to the mill by gravity. He has opened a 20 foot or body and yet no wall on one side. Just what width the ore shoot is yet unknown. He is handling this ore and milling it at a cost not exceeding 75 cents per ton, and estimates that he can continue to mine and mill for many months in future at a cost never to exceed one dollar a ton.

WEST APPOINTS NEGRO TO COLORED CONVENTION SALEM, Or., Aug. 7.—It became known today that Governor West has appointed C. L. Lythnum as a delegate to the Negro national educational convention at Denver this month. Lythnum and his wife were recently the center of race troubles at the asylum farm recently when white employees petitioned the governor to discharge them. West refused to do so and the appointment is looked upon as an act to emphasize his stand on such matters.

NEW SCHOOL IN BAD SHAPE

Imposing Looking High School Building at Grants Pass Collapsing—Timbers Too Weak for Roof—Plastering Falling.

That big, imposing new high school building is causing much concern as a result of weak timbers in its construction and as a result of this D. A. Fitzgerald has been employed by the school board to get busy in a hurry to remedy serious trouble which has developed says the Grants Pass Courier. It is alleged that certain timbers are far too weak, and that the architect, a Portland man, is to blame. The contractor followed the architect's plans, and no blame, so far, has been placed against the contractor. The contractor was also an outside man. Several hundred dollars still due the architect have been held up by the school board as a result of the trouble with the building. The roof timbers are alleged to be too light to support the weight of the roof and they are beginning to "buckle" and some of them have sprung nearly six inches out of plumb. Upright timbers have been placed temporarily supporting the ceiling in the assembly room while workmen with pack screws are endeavoring to true up the truss timbers. This will probably be effected without serious difficulty, although it is a greater job than would have been required to do the work right in the first place. Plastering in a number of places is cracking and falling, due to the shrinking of timbers. This is noticeable at one of the stairways leading from the first to the second floors, where lath and plaster were placed directly upon the face of the floor joist and the shrinking of the joist broke the plastering, leaving an unsightly spot. It is hoped to have the building in shape for the fall term of school.

Sealed proposals will be received by the county court of Jackson county at his office in the county court house at Jacksonville to be opened August 28, 1911, at 10 o'clock for the construction of the cell work in the new county jail at Jacksonville, Jackson county, Oregon. Plans and specifications are on file in the office of the county court, also in W. W. Harmon's office in the court house in Jacksonville, Oregon. A certified check of 10 per cent of the amount of the bid must accompany same. The court reserves the right to reject any or all bids. Signed J. R. NEIL, County Judge.

Harkins for Health. ORDINANCE No. 647. Ordinance declaring the cost of the improvement of North Riverside avenue from Jackson street to North City limits and assessing the property benefited thereby, and declaring such assessment, and directing the entry thereof in the book of city liens.
