

LIVED 26 DAYS WITHOUT FOOD

Details of Death of Al Williams, Who Became Lost in Malapin Hills, Mojave Desert Tell of Wanderings and Sufferings.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 12.—Details of the death of Al Williams, a mining man of Bakersfield and Los Angeles, who became lost in the Malapin Hills, Mojave desert, and who survived 26 days without food and only with a little water, reached here today in a letter to Mrs. G. C. Barry, whose husband, a Malapin prospector, led the searchers who found the body.

A diary found by the body showed Williams' movements from May 18 when he left Coro Springs, until June 12, when the diary ended.

Williams, seeking to find the ranch of a friend named Domingo, struck a wild pony trail, became lost and wandered into Malapin canyon. The canyon is impassable except on foot. Near the mouth he abandoned his burro and pushed on afoot for several miles, seeking water, until he came to a point where the canyon "boxed up." There he scooped out the sand and found a puddle of water. The body was found at the puddle.

Williams intended turning his burro loose when he reached Domingo's, so the animal's return three days after he started meant nothing. Eight days later Domingo's Indians went to Coro with the news that Williams had not arrived.

Domingo with several Indian trailers followed the burro's tracks until they found saddle, bridle and Williams' empty canteen, where he had placed them on a high rock. They pushed on a few miles and, concluding he must be dead, returned. A week ago James Shirlock and two miners named Roney and Sharpe went to seek the body. They found it two miles beyond where the first searching party had turned back.

A letter found with the diary showed Williams had a sister in Altona, Pa.

THINK RAILROAD ONLY BLUFFING

Chief of Federation Says Barbed Wire Stockades Around Southern Pacific Shops Are Only to Scare Workmen—20,000 Men Affected.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Aug. 12.—That the Southern Pacific Railroad will bluff but not fight, and that the stringing of barbed wire around the shops in this city and elsewhere is merely a last desperate attempt to force their workmen to back down was the opinion expressed today by Ernest Reguin, president of the western division of the Federation Shop Employees of the Harriman lines.

"The company which has been paying dividends on hundreds of millions of watered stock," said Reguin, "seems to be in a panic when we ask for an eight hour day and seven cents an hour increase in wages. Our organization includes more than 95 per cent of the men in the shops and should we fail to secure satisfaction when our committee goes to Chicago and New York, roads employing 20,000 men will be forced to stop running."

"From the shopmen's committee of the Denver and Rio Grande, a Gould road, we have received a report showing that after seven months trial of the eight hour day the officials of the road are well satisfied with results. More and better work is being done for the same amount of money than ever before. The shops of the D. and R. G. also do the repairing for the Western Pacific Railroad."

"Our membership will levy an assessment to send our advisory committee east as soon as the president of our international unions have arranged with Manager J. Kruttschnitt in Chicago for an interview. I am confident, however, that the company will never force us to go on strike, although they may try to bluff us down until the last moment."

WANT DETAILS OF ROAD PLANS

a second time. "Guard against waste and we will vote the bonds." That in a nutshell is the present sentiment existing in the county.

Sentiment in Medford is overwhelmingly in favor of the construction of better highways. Hardly a man is encountered who is not willing to take off his coat and go to work for the issuance of the bonds, but first he must be shown how why and where the money is to be spent, and the greatest of these is the "How." It is a consensus of opinion that the county court should appoint a commission of five or seven business men—taxpayers—of the county to take charge of the good road work. These men should devote their time to the work without any or a very small compensation. Safeguards should so be thrown about the expenditure of the money that no suspicion could be directed at the county officials or the members of the commission. This commission should have entire control of the road building and see that it is done properly.

The second demand that is made comes principally from the outlying sections of the county. Farmers demand that they be assured of roads in their particular sections of the county before the voters of the county as to the distribution of the fund over the county. In this manner all talk of one section getting more than its share will be set at ease. This plan has been followed in the various counties of California where large bond issues have been voted for good roads.

The third demand by the taxpayers of the county is to the effect that only a good roads expert be employed in the construction of the roads in order that no costly mistakes may be made. Further than this the taxpayers want the road work to be done by contract and not under the present system of day labor as they state that the present system is costly and of little value.

Taxpayers also want the bond issue to be made in such a manner that portions of the issue can be sold from time to time as the money is needed. This is guard against payment of interest on money not needed for the construction of roads.

Following are a few of the representative interviews obtained Saturday:

W. I. Vawter: I believe that the suggestion that a commission of business men to advise the county court in connection with the expenditure of the $1,500,000 bond issue is a good idea. I do not doubt the present county court but the appointment of such a commission would tend to increase confidence in the movement.

SHOT IN JAIL BY ACCUSED

Patrick Farley Who Caused Arrest of J. T. Holland on Charge of Assaulting Wife, Fires Bullet into Him When He Repudiates Confession.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Aug. 12.—Patrick Farley who caused the arrest of James T. Holland on a charge of felonious assault against Mrs. Farley appeared today at the police station, where Holland was undergoing examination and shot the accused man through the shoulder before the officers had divined his intention.

Before he could pull the trigger a second time Farley was overpowered and disarmed. He was arrested immediately. Holland was rushed to the Central Emergency Hospital.

From his cot in the hospital Holland made the following statement: "Farley called to visit me in the jail. His first question was: 'What are you going to do about that confession? The afternoon papers say you have reneged. What about it?' I told him that I would certainly reneged as I had only signed it because his revolver was pressed against my head. At that moment the doorman ordered me back to my cell. Farley as I turned to leave, brushed by the officers and shot me." "I'll kill if you don't sign the confession and I'll kill you in court if the case is dismissed."

Intimidated by these threats, which he says were enforced with the muzzle of a revolver pressed against the back of his head, James T. Holland sat in the home of Patrick Farley, a San Francisco insurance man, and wrote a confession branding himself as the author of an alleged assault against Farley's wife.

A representative of the various parts of the county could be appointed and each would see that his section of the county was not overlooked.

H. C. Garnett: I for one have the greatest confidence in the present county court but the commission idea is a good one. It would act in the nature of a safeguard. I want good roads and I want them badly.

W. H. Canon: Appoint a commission of business men to advise the county court. It will prove of great benefit to the county court and will insure a judicious expenditure of the money.

John D. Olwell: A commission should be appointed. The spending of a million and a half properly requires much thought. And let's don't fall down on this good roads movement.

L. B. Haskins: The commission by all means. It will insure a just distribution and proper expenditure of the amount. We must have better roads.

Col. F. L. Tou Velle: The appointment of a commission is a splendid idea. And by the way let everyone boost the movement for better highways.

J. A. Westerlund: A commission will be a benefit. I have great confidence in the county court but business is business. A commission would be a good thing.

Edgar Hafer: A body of men would do better at most anything in the way of spending money than one or two. Let a commission be appointed to help the county court. And get behind the good roads movement.

H. B. Patterson: Appoint a commission. It will create confidence where there might be doubt as to the expenditure of so large a fund.

E. E. Kelly: A commission would insure safety. Not what anyone is going to steal anything but it would mean a board of directors to assist the county court.

H. S. Dudley: A commission to advise the county court by all means.

P. J. O'Gara: A commission would insure the passage of the bonds. It would give every section of the county representation.

A. Conro Fiero: Appoint the commission. It would be of great benefit and the county court would welcome it.

George L. Davis, county commissioner: I will welcome the appointment of a commission. It would be a great benefit to us.

And so on. Man after man so expressed himself. No one doubts the integrity of the county court but all believe that the public interests in this matter would be protected to a far greater degree if a commission was appointed. It is also proposed to call a mass meeting of voters in the near future at which time the matter could be thrashed out and a conclusion arrived at. The present condition existing among the voters of the county is to the effect that the voters want more light on the proposed voting of the bonds. With full explanations the passage of the bonds is assured.

HAD TO BUY CARNEGIE OUT

Half Billion Paid for Carnegie Plant After Refusing Option for Third of Amount Declared Finest Investment Steel Trust Ever Made.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 12.—Revealing the innermost workings of the gentlemen's agreement among the steel plate, structural steel and steel shafting pools, told the Stanley investigating committee today that the $500,000,000 which J. Pierpont Morgan paid for the Carnegie plant only six months after he had refused an option at $180,000,000 was the best investment the steel trust ever made. He said that whereas the trust has no competition today despite the dissolution of the pools, Carnegie would have dominated the steel industry of the world if the purchase had not been made. Temple called Charles M. Schwab, the world's greatest harmonizer.

"Morgan planned to make a plum pudding but found that Carnegie had all the plums. Preparing a magnificent play for Wall street, he had the scenery, costumes and actors, but could not do without Hamlet," was Temple's reply to Stanley's question regarding Morgan's paying the figure he did when he had previously refused a price of less than one-third.

Temple explained to the committee how the pools proportioned the steel production of the country, how signers of the agreements penalized if they shipped more than they agreed to share and how companies were paid not to make steel in competition with that controlled by pools.

"All pool agreements were ended in 1904," Temple added.

Following the hearing of Temple's testimony Chairman Stanley announced that the committee had decided to adjourn until October 16 and that the investigations would be resumed at that time.

PORTLAND VS. MEDFORD

A plain statement from a Medford Business House. The same piano here as in Portland at the same price. Freight saved and free delivery in the city. Contest checks accepted at face value.

Some people who have won cash credits in the advertising campaign of the Eilers Music House, Portland, may be wondering how they can secure the benefits of their credits without a trip to Portland, and we make this announcement for their benefit.

Eilers Music House Medford will accept any Eilers credit checks at its face value to apply on the purchase price of any NEW PIANO in their Store. The prices at the Medford store are JUST THE SAME as at the Portland store on the same make and styles of pianos. In fact in all the FORTY Eilers Stores the prices are identical on the same instruments, but the buyer in Medford and vicinity saves the freight from Portland which in their case adds about Ten Dollars to the value to their Checks, beside the trip to Portland to select the piano.

In Eilers Medford store you will find a selection of the finest up-to-date pianos ever assembled in any city ten times the size of Medford. Such makes as Chickering, Weber, Hallet & Davis, Kimball, Smith & Barnes, Marshall & Wendell, Strober, Hoffman and a number of others to choose from and should you not find in this large display just what you want you have the privilege to select any other of the FORTY different makes that are sold ONLY by the Eilers Music House.

We also have a hand a number of used pianos taken in exchange on Grands and Autopiano's that we are offering at prices from 135 up to 255 and for general use they are as good as new, and cost when new from $350 to $550 with very little work any one of these used pianos can be made to look like new, and will be accepted later at their full cost to apply on any new Chickering, Sohmer, Decker, Kimball, Hallet & Davis, or any other high grade piano sold by the Eilers Music House. Remember the place Eilers Music House, 37 North Fir street, Medford, Oregon.
