

CORA FARMER IS CAUGHT IN NEVADA

Chief Witness in White Slave Case Against John De Soto Found in Mining Camp Garmed in Men's Clothes—Being Taken to Portland

Cora Farmer, chief witness for the state in the "white slave" case, brought by the federal government against John De Soto, who was arrested at Eagle Point several months ago together with De Soto, has just been re-arrested at Reno, Nev., where she fled to escape the federal officers in order that she would not be forced to testify against her "master," James Gaynor, a government secret service officer stationed at Portland is now bringing the woman back from Reno.

The case attracted considerable attention here last winter. De Soto and the woman were arrested at Grants Pass after trying to flee the country. They exhibited a marriage certificate but it was found to be spurious. Thereupon De Soto was to be tried in the circuit court but was turned over to the federal court when it was shown that De Soto had brought the woman to Eagle Point from Redding, Cal.

The woman disappeared from Portland after she had appeared before the United States commissioner and the federal grand jury and testified against John De Soto, who placed her in a disorderly house and collected her earnings. It was her testimony that resulted in the indictment against De Soto whom she charged with luring her way from her husband.

A conviction could not be got by the federal court where the case is awaiting trial unless she appeared.

The girl was traced to the mountains south of Reno. She was with a young man and when found was clad in men's clothes.

Mrs. Overmeyer, who conducted the house in Fall City where the girl is said to have been taken, and C. A. Hipp were also arrested the same day at Reno. In the camp where the girl, giving her name as Mildred Glidden, was caught, no woman's clothes could be found. She would not explain her actions other than

AND YET—WOMAN MUST BE BEAUTIFUL

(From Woman's National Magazine.) "Oh! the bother and trouble that accompanies washing the hair! The long hours in unrepresentable condition waiting for it to dry—the danger of catching cold—and, most of all, the knowledge that too much wetting makes hair coarse, dull, dead and brittle! And yet—and yet one must get rid of dust and oil and dandruff, and keep the hair looking its very best.

"If you would be beautiful, there is nothing so good as brushing the head with therox. It keeps the hair delightfully lustrous, light and fluffy, and promotes its growth. The scalp is made soft and pliant and immaculately clean. If you want abundant, glossy hair, mix four ounces of therox and four ounces of powdered orris root; keep the mixture in a sifter-top can and sprinkle a little (say a tablespoonful) upon the head; then brush thoroughly through the hair. Do this once or twice a week."

that she disappeared from Portland in order to avoid testifying in open court. Rumors of her having been induced to get out of sight in order to facilitate the release of De Soto are in circulation.

Information was received at the United States attorney's office to the effect that Cora Farmer had been arrested while prospecting with two men at a mining camp about 20 miles from Reno. She had worn men's clothing ever since going to Nevada.

Medford, Ore., Aug. 9, 1911.—This is to certify that about November my daughter was taken with a severe attack of rheumatism which rendered her left arm useless, in fact it was so near paralyzed that she was not able to move her fingers, but knowing of some of Dr. Chow Young's marvelous cures of long standing cases of rheumatism, we decided to consult him, in which I am pleased to say made no mistake, as his remedies acted as he claimed they would and after the third treatment the rheumatic pain entirely left her and she has not had any symptoms of rheumatism since; besides her general health is much improved and I do not hesitate in saying I believe those afflicted with rheumatism or paralysis will do well to consult Dr. Chow Young, whose house is corner of Tenth and Front street, Medford, Oregon. ation of adequate transportation facilities. The government should own and build these, and the wharves, docks, railroads and terminals already constructed should be acquired by the government immediately. The government should own and operate at least one great coal mine, with which to supply naval and militia needs, selling the surplus product at a reasonable profit as a check against extortion by private corporations, developing other mines. "The sensible and practical thing to do is to create a board of public works for Alaska, similar to the Isthmian Canal Commission. "This board should undertake, not only the mere building of a railroad from Controller Bay to the coal fields but the requirement of all railroads in Alaska, so that the policy of government ownership can be settled immediately. The board should operate and develop wharves, docks and steamship lines, if necessary, to deliver the products of Alaska to the Pacific coast."
