THE STATE WIDE MOVEMENT.

THE statewide movement initiated by Medford for the invocation of the initiative law in the fixing of reasonable and uniform maximum distance class rates has met with a popular response, and because of this popular response has set the railroads and their political allies into feverish activity to kill the movement.

From the central office of the Harriman system at Chicago a stream of telegrams are issuing directing the pulling of every political wire to keep the movement from spreading, and the railroad emissaries are shouting fire to divert the attention of the public and to terrorize it from oursuing the matter further. The feeling of haste has even invaded the heretofore slumbering state railroad commission, which has been sleeping on the Medford and Baker cases for months, and it now proposes a state wide movement of investigation of rates as set forth in the resolution passed by the Medford Traffic club some time ago, and gives only a thirty-day notice for the preparation of a case that under expert direction would take months to properly prepare.

From every quarter the political allies flocked to the state capital to devise some plan to thwart the state wide movement initiated by Medford, and the precipitate action of the state railroad commission is the outcome of this political intrigue, and if allowed to thwart this movement it will take away from the people the better judgment that will prevail after a thorough campaign that must follow the passing of a law by the initiative.

For the purpose of getting the views of the public so vitally interested in this subject, a state convention should be called to meet some time in early September to discuss plans along the line of the movement started by Medford, as it is wholly impossible for this issue to be properly presented and handled in the manner and in the time set out by the state railroad commission, whose record shows of Yale, that, considering the number of boys that play football, he doubtit never did anything until someone else started it off, ed whether the jujurles resulting from the game were more numerous excepting in the Portland jobbing rates, which cut down than the injuries resulting from baseball, is recalled. He added that, at the distributing areas for points outside of Portland and any rate, it was a small price to pay for a game which diverts the energies gave this territory to the Portland jobber.

Medford calls upon the entire state to support it and meet in convention and formulate plans independent of FRUIT PACKERS WIN this hasty suit of the commission, which was brought after a eanvass of the situation which arose out of the resolution passed by the Medford Traffic club and not because of any exigency which the commission reasoned out for itself. If polities are to make freight rates, the people should see to it that they will make their own rates and know what they are going to get if the majority so wills.
