NEW DISEASES FOUND.

that it occurs in South America, Europe and in England. Even texts on fungous diseases of plants published as late as 1909 and 1910 state that this disease does not occur in the United States and this office, therefore feels that it can be fully credited with the discovery of this disease in this country. To show that we are not only correct, but have made the discovery, the following letter from the mycologist in charge, U. S. Department of Agriculture, is here given:

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24, 1911. Professor P. J. O'Gara, Medford, Oregon.

Dear Mr. O'Gara: I have examined the galls on the alfalfa roots, and verify your determination as Urophlyctis alfalfae (Lagerh) P. Magn. This is very beautiful material and we would be very glad to have a large collection of it for the Mycological Exchange, if convenient for you. This species has never been brought to our attention as occurring in the United States.

Very truly yours, V. K. CHARLES, Acting Mycologist in Charge.

The plant parasite which causes this crown gall disease of alfalfa belongs to a very low order of plants, namely, the Protococcales, and the family Chytridiaceae. The fungous plant has a very poorly developed vegetable system or mycelium as compared with the higher fungous plants. This mycelium or vegetative portion produces countless numbers of fruit bodies which are brownish in color. When the galls are cut or sectioned the places where the fruiting bodies are numerous have a dark brown or black appearance. This is quite different as compared with the bacterial crown gall of alfalfa and other plants.

It is not the intention to give a discussion of this disease here, but to merely acquaint the alfalfa growers that the trouble is here. This office has under way a bulletin which will fully describe the trouble and give the most up-to-date method of combating it. We would like to know, in the mean time, how many of our growers have seen this trouble, or at least, have noticed something wrong with their alfalfa fields.

We wish to warn alfalfa growers, or for that matter, everyone introducing seeds and plants into this valley to first consult this office. There are a number of districts which we quarantine against and we would consider it unfair and unjust to the valley of anyone to introduce plants or seeds without first knowing something about the conditions under which they have been produced. There is no doubt that the raspberry cane blight which this office has just published on, this new alfalfa trouble and others have been introduced by careless or non-thinking people. In talking this matter over with Postmaster Woodford, he informs me that thousands of packages of plants and seeds arrive every year through the mails through the Medford postoffice, and no doubt this is true of every postoffice in the district. We believe in the sacredness of the United States mail, but if we are to keep out disease, there is little use in holding up the present time taxpayers are paying a yearly tax of at least two and a half mills for roads and bridges, a difference of nearly a whole mill in favor of the bond issue, even when the bonds have all been sold, and more than a mill for nearly five years. As the county gains in population and wealth the taxable property will increase and the rate of taxation to pay the interest on the bonds will diminish accordingly.

What the county court has to contend with at present is the insistent demands that this or that section should have its roads built and repaired first. It is, of course impossible to satisfy these demands. It seems to me that nothing would adjust this phase of the problem more satisfactorily than the proposed bond issue. If the people know that funds have been provided to meet their requirements in due time, the scramble would cease. A square deal to all and special privileges to none is a cardinal principal of good government.

The county court is exerting itself to its utmost to give every section of the county good roads; but it finds itself seriously handicapped. The means at hand can produce more or less improvement in different places; but the thoroughness, excellence and permanence that should characterize our road system will always be lacking under present methods although the expense of the old way is great.

A trunk line embracing the principal roads of the county running north and south and east and west, scientifically built with an eye to permanency and durability and small repairs in future, followed by diverging roads of the same excellence, is the prime necessity of the day, and it can only be met by a favorable decision by the people at the special election. It seems impossible that the people should wish to continue the obsolete, unsatisfactory and extravagant road methods of the past.

That the interests of the people in all parts of the county may be safeguarded in every way, I agree railroad company and the express company when the same plants may come through the mails indiscriminately and without inspection. It would seem to me that our people who are interested should demand that such packages as are known to contain plants or seeds should be subject to inspection just as other classes of matter which are constantly sent through the mails. Either this should be done, or the post-office department should refuse to accept such material because of the great danger of spreading disease.

There is one thing more which I should like to mention. There are some people who do not seem to realize that they have in this valley an office which takes care of plant diseases. We are fully equipped and can give every one just as good information as they may be able to get from Washington or elsewhere. There is, therefore, no need of telegraphing to Washington or bringing others into the valley to look up something which this office is entirely capable of taking care of. Nine times out of ten, the pathologist on the ground who understands local conditions much better than the party who may be called in. It is, therefore, a waste of time and we would respectfully beg of our local growers to always give this office a chance to help them out. We are very busy and may not be able to attend to matters on the spur of the moment, but we are reasonably sure that no infectious disease will ever get away from us while we have charge.

that if the good roads bond issue is sustained at the coming election, that the county court will name a committee of five citizens and taxpayers from different sections of the county to select the roads that should be first constructed and specify how they should be built and that the county court will proceed to build said roads by contract to the lowest and best bidder.

In my opinion nothing will conduce to the prosperity and importance of Jackson county as much as the early completion of a comprehensive system of good roads. It means more population, greatly enhanced property values, more earning capacity of the people, more contentment. In less than twenty years we will wonder why we should have viewed the bond indebtedness we have thus incurred with trepidation, especially as the real burden falls upon the much wealthier and better Jackson county of the future.

WHEN YOUR HAIR IS DRY AND DUSTY

(From New York Herald.)

Mme. Theo doesn't believe in washing the head too often. Said she: "Too much wetting makes the hair coarse and brittle and in time it loses its color and becomes thin from use of too much soap and water."

"There is nothing so good as brushing the head with therox when the hair is dry and dusty. Try this if you want abundant, glossy hair: Mix four ounces of powdered orris root with four ounces of therox; keep this mixture in a sifter-top can and sprinkle a little of the powder evenly upon the head; then brush thoroughly through the hair two or three times a week. Therox keeps the hair beautifully lustrous, light and fluffy, and encourages its growth."

"This is an excellent cleansing shampoo in the summer time, particularly grateful and satisfying after automobile driving, tennis or other outdoor pastime."
