LESSENING THE COST OF LIVING.

IN HIS good roads speech to the citizens of Bend, Oregon, R. H. Thompson, city engineer of Seattle and one of the foremost civil engineers on the coast, said:

"Bend and the people of central Oregon are preparing to celebrate the long awaited arrival of the railroad. But the railroad is not coming for any altruistic purposes. It is coming to make money out of you and as much money as possible. The railroad will ascertain what it is costing you to haul by wagon. Then it will fix freight rates just a little under. The railroad will prove a great convenience and developer but it will not materially lessen the cost of living. Your freight rates will be governed by your wagon roads. As they are bad and it is expensive to haul over them, you will more than pay the cost of good roads in high freight rates."

Mr. Thompson gives a very clear idea of the method employed in coast states in fixing freight rates. In other words, they are "all the traffic will bear" and what the traffic will bear is dependent solely upon the condition of the wagon roads.

A fine highway, of easy grade, with smooth surface, to Crescent City or Port Orford would cut freight rates very materially in the Rogue River valley, for shipments could be made by sea, thence overland by wagons at far less cost than the railroad now charges. The people of the Rogue River valley have paid and are paying in increased cost of living, many times the cost of a highway to the sea.

"Good roads" is probably the most important issue before the American people today. It is certainly the most important issue before the people of Jackson county. Upon good roads depends the value of farm property and the profits of the farmer, depends the development of the country and its resources; depends the cost of living and the transportation tax; depends the prosperity of the county.

Upon the success of the bond issue depends the kind of times we are to have, whether or not conditions will be good or dull in Jackson county the coming two years, whether or not there is to be work for everyone that wants work, or whether lack of payrolls and occupation is to fling the mantle of hard times like a pall about us.

It will be several years before enough of the orchards of Jackson county are in bearing to turn the balance of trade in our favor. In the meantime, there is more outgo than income. What are you going to do in the meantime?

WOULD BUILD TO CRATER LAKE LIMITS OF CITY GREAT ASSET

"I favor, and I think that Judge Neil and Commissioner Owens also favor, provided the bond issue is voted, the construction by the county of highways in the Medford and Ashland road districts, up to the city limits and the construction by the county of main highways through the smaller towns like Talent, Phoenix, Central Point, Gold Hill, Woodville, Eagle Point," states County Commissioner George L. Davis.

"This does not mean that the county would build any portion of any city street, or that any of the county bond money would be spent in city improvement, but it would provide for the construction of highways between the end of the present county road and the city limits of the larger cities," continued Mr. Davis.

"Smaller towns, like Phoenix, where the main highway runs through the town, and the town has no money for road improvement, will either have to disincorporate or leave a stretch of unimproved highway unless the county builds the highway.

"If the bonds do not carry, we must either raise the road levy to provide needed funds or abandon all road work next year," continued Mr. Davis, "and with an effort being made to depreciate county warrants, the latter plan will likely be adopted."

BIBLE CLASS HOLDS SESSION

The services at the M. E. church yesterday morning and evening, were conducted by members of the Men's Adult Bible class of the Sunday school of that church. At the morning services Ed Eteep gave a few well chosen and interesting remarks on the fast growing of the bible class movement. These were followed by short, but very entertaining talks along the line of Christian work by G. M. Medford, Attorney H. A. Canaday, and Mr. Reynolds.
