SORE AT YOUNGSTER HE STOLE FROM HOME

TACOMA, Wn., Oct. 4.—"It is all her fault. I won't marry her now; she got me 'in bad' with the neighbors."

Winifred Read, a bartender, with whose mother Ione Adams, 14 years, a choir singer, hid for three days at Spanway, creating a disappearance mystery that stirred the village to its depths, disclaims the girl today.

"She came to our house at midnight and asked to stay there," says Read. "I had expected to marry her when she was of age, but I won't now."

The girl, who is in bed at her mother's home today, half hysterical says she still loves Read. The parents refuse to prosecute.

We notice that some merchants in other cities are using considerable space advertising "Made in Oregon" goods. That is as it should be. The merchant must know that his individual prosperity is to a great extent dependent upon the prosperity of the state at large, and if Oregon manufacturers are patronized, that it will mean greater pay rolls, and greater pay rolls mean a larger degree of prosperity for every man, woman and child in Oregon.

KNOX COMPANY STILL MAKING GOOD.

The Ugo theater was again packed to the doors last night to see the second performance in Medford by the Knox Comedy company. Once more these clever people made a decided hit, bringing forth roars of laughter by their original comedy. The sketch, "A Case of Eviction," equalled the comedy presented Monday night. It is certainly one continual laugh from start to finish. Fern Marshall, singing a burlesque ballad, "Heaven Will Protect the Working Girl" was called back again and again to answer repeated applause from the large audience. George McCormick appeared in the character of an Irishman. He is a star of the first order and left the audience

In a state of laughter by his clever jokes.

The house management is to be congratulated on securing this clever company. Tonight they will repeat by request the play presented last night "A Case of Eviction," together with two entirely new specialties and three reels of new motion pictures, never before seen in Medford.

RENO, Nev.—J. E. Hall, of the Fairbanks Morse Company of San Francisco, is suffering today from serious injuries received in a fall down the shaft of the Arkell mine, near here. In company with Edwin Arkell, he was descending the 131 foot shaft in the mine bucket. The whim brake was out of order, causing the bucket to get away almost from the top of the shaft. Arkell climbed back up the road and sustained only minor bruises. Hall has a fractured leg and possibly internal injuries.
