IS YOUR HAIR DULL, FADED OR BRITTLE?

(From Southern Style Book)
 "Drenching and rinsing of the hair is a mistake. Too much water has ruined more than one head of fine hair. It is possible to remove more of the natural oil of the scalp than is beneficial, and a certain amount is required to keep the scalp soft and pliable, affording good growing ground for the hair.

"Dry shampooing removes dust and excessive oil, refreshes and invigorates the scalp and leaves the hair clean and fresh. Mix four ounces of orris root and four ounces of therox, and you have a dependable shampoo powder. Sift a tablespoonful upon the head, then brush it well and carefully through the hair—and your shampoo is over, with no hours of waiting for your hair to dry or exposure to the danger of catching cold. Therox promotes the growth of hair, and makes it light, fluffy and beautifully lustrous."
