

MARTIN SCORES PERKINS' EFFORTS

Says He is Endeavoring to Reform the Trust Laws in the Interests of the Trusts—Urges Caution in Dealing with Him

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 7.—Charging George W. Perkins with trying to reform the trust laws, in the interests of the trusts, National Secretary H. B. Martin of the American Anti-Trust league made the following reply to the speech which Perkins made at Detroit recently:

"Accepting Perkins' own friends' estimate that he is the mouthpiece of the monopolies, we find his complaint to be:

"First, that the Republican party is no longer willing to do everything that the trusts want done;

"Second, that Perkins' friends demand an amendment to the Sherman law, which would practically destroy the law's effectiveness;

"Third, the Perkins crowd want the government to enact a general incorporation law along the lines originally suggested by Archbold, Gates and Rockefeller, before the federal industrial commission 13 years ago.

"Gary, Carnegie, Morgan, Seth Low, former Congressman William P. Hepburn, and Theodore Roosevelt, then president, combined in an effort to put through the 60th congress the same amendment which Perkins is demanding now. They were beaten in the attempt, the judiciary committee of both houses flatly refusing to report the bills to either house.

"The proposed amendment has been deadlier than Julius Caesar ever since, and I believe that it will take a bigger man than Perkins to bring it back to life.

"I doubt if there is a man, either in the house or the senate, who would dare to face his constituents if it became known that he introduced the Perkins bill to amend the anti-trust law.

"Perkins is identified with three great trusts, the steel, harvester, and money trusts, all of which the government is now investigating and two of which the newspapers are currently reporting are ready to come into court to plead guilty to violations of the Sherman law in order to minimize the punishment which the law provides."

"UNWRITTEN LAW" PLEA OF WOMAN WHO SHOT MAN.

MRS. GEORGE B. CONEY, WHO SHOT ROBERT BRUCE WATSON

Aristocratic Garfield Park, one of the most exclusive residential sections of Chicago, is manifesting great interest in the shooting of Robert Bruce Watson, architect and politician, in front of his home, at No. 225 South Central Park avenue, by Mrs. Harriet B. Coney, the beautiful divorced wife of George E. Coney, wealthy box manufacturer. It is believed that there will be developments of the most sensational nature when Mrs. Coney is placed on trial. It is said that the so-called "unwritten law" may be resorted to by Mrs. Coney's lawyers in an effort to free her of the charge.

MEDFORD MAY SEE DANTE'S INFERNO

Medford may have a chance to see the celebrated moving pictures of Dante's Inferno, about which so much is now being said in the Portland papers. To put this subject on film was long thought to be impossible, but the fact has been done successfully with the result that Mrs. E. B. Colwell, president of the advisory board of motion picture films at Portland, has written the words of highest praise.

If these pictures come to Medford the price will be 25 cents and a guarantee of a large audience must be made. Papers have been circulated on the streets by the manager of the Star Theatre and many orders for seats have been made.

Among other things said about the films in the Portland papers are the following from the Oregonian:

Dante's Inferno is not only a literary masterpiece, but it is the inspiration of the highest ideal yet attained in the realm of motion picture art. The mysterious philosophy of the poem never would have impressed the human mind with such dynamic force had it not been for the wonderful interpretation found in Gustav Dore's illustrations. The photograph is based on these illustrations, aided by a dramatic producer evidently in full and intelligent sympathy with the original poem as well as Dore's artistic work.

PORT AU PRINCE, Hayti.—People were thrown into a panic here by a severe earthquake shock at 5:30 Friday morning. No serious damage to the streets by the manager of the

M'NAMARA TRIAL NEXT WEDNESDAY

Indications are to Effect that Judge Bordwell will Hear the Case and Will Not Grant a Motion for a Change of Venue

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 7.—That the defense in the case of the McNamara brothers, accused of dynamiting the Los Angeles Times building a year ago, will have to go on trial next week before Judge Bordwell, was made certain by today's developments. Bordwell has determined to try the case, his intimates say, and no matter what efforts the defense may make, they must prove unsuccessful.

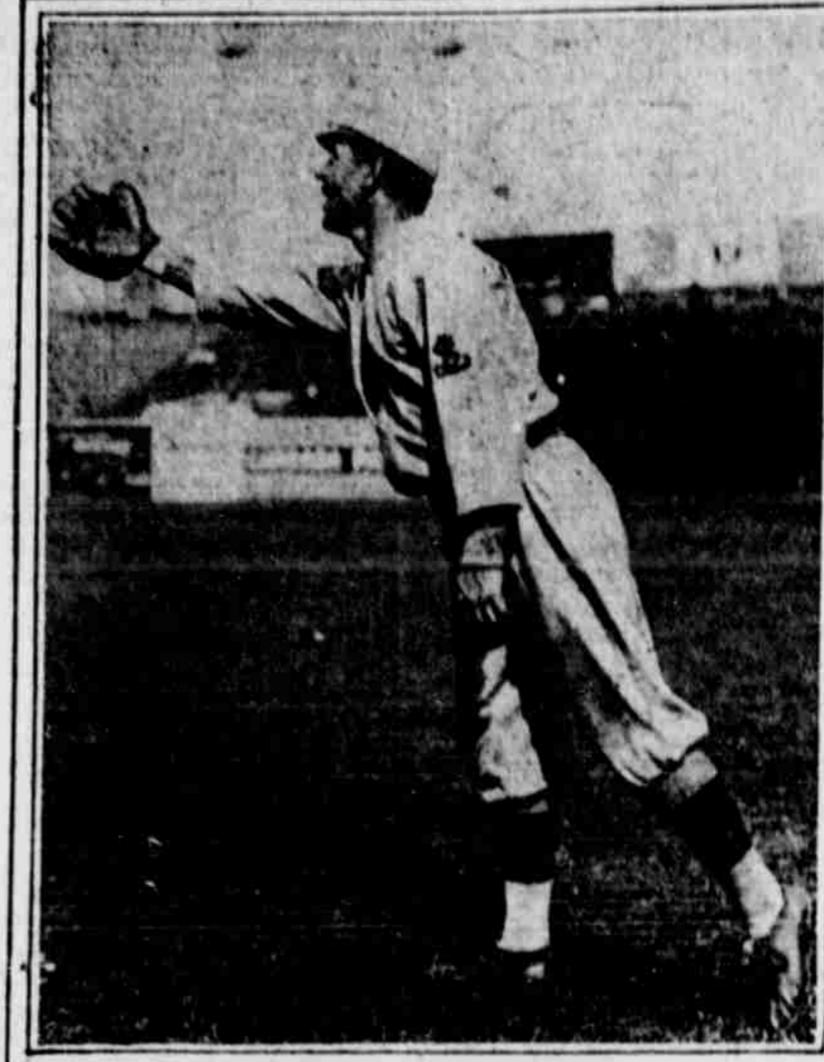

That the district attorney will try J. R. McNamara, who is accused of having exploded the bomb that wrecked the Times building before his brother, J. J., is believed to be a certainty, although the district attorney declines to make any positive statement and will not do so until the case is called next Wednesday morning.

It is known that William J. Burns, the detective, who is the head and front of the prosecution and who, rather than Fredericks, will direct the presentation of the case, wants to try J. R. McNamara first. He is known to have told his intimates that unless he can secure the conviction of the alleged active author of the explosion, he can hardly expect to complete circumstantial links in the conspiracy case he will compile against the secretary of the Iron Workers Union.

Judge Bordwell and the attorneys in the case will hold a conference tomorrow at which the question whether the attorneys for the defense will ask for another presiding judge will be finally disposed of. It is believed that Bordwell will tell the officials that he will not step aside and if they move for a change of judge he will deny the motion. Darrow and his associates, however, will make the formal motion next Wednesday so that they can keep their record complete should McNamara not be acquitted, as they hope.

All of the veniremen have been summoned and will be in court on Wednesday, for the purpose of elimination.

"STEVE" EVANS, THE STAR COMEDIAN OF ST. LOU'S TEAM.

EVANS, ST. LOUIS' RIGHT FIELDER

Members of the St. Louis team say that there isn't the man living who can get the better of "Steve" Evans, the genial fielder of the Cardinals, in a "kidding" match. They have tried to jolly Evans, both individually and collectively, and have failed, and doubt any one else's ability to get Evans' goat.

As an entertainer Evans is the prince of the National League. His fellow players have often advised him to seek an engagement on the vaudeville stage as a monologist, but Evans scoffs at the idea.

with the testimony of Deputy Game Wardens who were present when a large sum of money was placed in Stone's hands with which to promote Stephenson's campaign.

Rodney Sackett, recalled, said that Stephenson left it to his discretion to spend the money entrusted to him, instructing him substantially to do what ever possible, keeping within the law. The witness did not believe that the law prohibited campaign treating.

Senator Heyburn, however, had different ideas on the subject. The chairman stated that he believed that the $30,000 spent by Stephenson and his campaign managers for liquors was illegally expended.

RUSSELL SELLS HIS BUSINESS

N. D. (Dick) McDowell will Conduct Confectionery in the Future—Russell to Quit Business and Start Farming in Sams Valley

D. B. Russell has traded his confectionery and ice cream parlors, at 302 East Main street, to N. D. (Dick) McDowell for 160 acres of land in Sams valley.

Mr. McDowell is now in charge of the business and is extending an invitation to his friends to drop in and see what his place is like. The place is one of the best of its kind in the city, in fact it is one of Medford's beauty spots, and Dick ought to do a good business.

Mr. Russell has been engaged in business in Medford for ten years, but falling health has compelled him to quit business and get himself back to the simple life. Hence the Sams valley farm. Of the 160 acres he gets in exchange for the store, 120 acres are bottom land and especially well suited for stock and alfalfa, the remaining 40 is grain land. The place is leased for a year to Earl Gray. At the expiration of the lease Mr. Russell will take possession himself and in the meantime he will purchase stock to put on the place when he shall have secured possession.

JUST BEAT THE RAILROAD COMPANY OUT OF FARE

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 7.—"I was only beating the railroad company of its fare when I signed to go to Los Angeles as a strikebreaker," said Harry Clifford in the city prison today.

Clifford was arraigned on a charge of assault to commit murder after a gun play in a Barbary Coast saloon. He was held on $10,000 bonds for trial. During his hearing it developed that he was a member of the American Federation of Labor, and that he had entered the employ of the Southern Pacific. He explained his reason for so doing after his hearing in court.

CAN A CANDIDATE "TREAT" HIS FRIENDS?

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 7.—Whether campaign money may be legally spent in "treating" to liquor and cigars is the subject now being threshed out in the Senator Stephenson election investigation, which took a new turn when Game Warden Stone and a number of his deputies were examined as to what they knew about receiving a generous nibble of the fortune spent by Stephenson during his campaign.

TALKS ON TEETH

WHICH OF THE FOLLOWING FITS YOUR CASE?

REFINEMENT

regularly. Why? Because he has been taught from childhood the value of good teeth and of the necessity

REFINED people are as careful of their teeth as of their manners and associates. The smile of a refined person generally shows a well kept set of teeth. They may show fillings, crowns or other evidence of the dentist's art, but will invariably be found kept in good repair. Some people's teeth are of very poor material and need the almost constant attention of a dentist to keep them in condition, if such teeth are those of a person of refinement you will find him visiting his dentist

IGNORANCE

Lack of education and being taught the value of good teeth from childhood, such people will invariably be found

IGNORANT and ill bred people generally have teeth corresponding to the rest of their makeup and showing the environment in which they were raised. Their teeth are generally dirty, decayed, broken off, or partly missing, leaving a mouth full of unsightly old snags. He seldom gives them any thought or attention except to have them extracted when they ache, and as such people grow older they have more the appearance of an animal than a human. Why such conditions?

to at once. Call on me for free examination and estimate. All my work is guaranteed, as I use only the best materials that money can buy. Lady attendant.

CARELESSNESS and ignorance are entirely different. A person may be careless of his teeth but still does not neglect them through ignorance, just puts it off from day to day until too late. If you are not ignorant, and know the value of good teeth, why should you be careless and neglect them? Bad teeth, poor digestion and an irritable disposition go hand in hand and are conditions which contribute materially to so many social and financial failures. Have your teeth attended
