

IF MATTY WORKS GIANTS WILL WIN

Such is Dope on Today's Ball Game —Marquard May Be Sent in Again Tomorrow Leaving Deciding Game to Matty.

"Rube" Marquard did not live up to his record. True, he pitched a four hit game, but had one bad inning in the sixth when Baker of the Athletics hoisted one of his offerings out of the lot for a home run, bringing Collins home ahead of him. He was relieved by Crandall in the eighth inning but the damage was done as the Giants were helpless before Plank in the closing innings. Neither team played as good ball as on Saturday, the Giants especially failing to support Marquard in the earlier innings. Baker was the star of the game and the huge crowd at Shibe park, Philadelphia, demonstrated their joy in every conceivable manner when he leaned against one of Marquard's speed burners for a four base hit.

Mack Foxy General. Coombs was not used as was hinted in these columns yesterday. Connie Mack preferring a left hander, Plank had the preference over Krause at the eleventh hour and as the box score indicates pitched a superb game. Marquard allowed one hit less than the Giants made off Plank and fell down in the sixth, one inning earlier than Bender on Saturday who took his medicine in the lucky seventh.

Matty Will Probably Pitch. Batteries for New York: Mathewson and Meyers. New York fans are so accustomed to this announcement meaning victory to the Giants that it would come as an awful blow if their idol should be defeated today should McGraw decide to use his invincible pitcher. It is hard luck for the "peelers" one that Marquard failed to deliver the goods Monday as the burden of the battle is heavy enough without having to shoulder it all. Still Matty has done it before and he can repeat. Brains together will draw make a great combination. New York has called often on their pet in a pinch for victory and he has never yet failed to respond. May he do so today.

Coombs or Bender. Conn's Mack may send Bender back into the fray today, but the chances now favor Coombs. With the series standing one game each he will very likely hold Bender in reserve for Wednesday's game at home. Should Coombs and Mathewson be the opposing pitchers today and the Athletics win the "Mackmen" will have a tremendous bulge on the series. If (that awful word) Matty should reverse the "English" on the above Marquard or Crandall may come to the rescue on Wednesday leaving Matty what would be the deciding game on Thursday.

Interesting Series. Both managers are confident in the ability of their respective teams to play gilt-edge ball every game. The fact that the teams are now even up makes the series very interesting and baseball fans all over the United States are kept busy figuring the chances of both teams battling for supremacy. The victor today need not necessarily win the series, as much may depend on the hurlers used by McGraw and Connie Mack. Neither one of the managers may decide to use their best bats and in this case the deciding game of the series would come later.

Hold Giants to Sacks. One outstanding feature of yesterday's game was the way in which Thomas held the Giants on bases. If he can do this for the balance of the series the chances of the Athletics to be the world's champions for 1911 are greatly enhanced as the Giants have won many games this season through their base stealing abilities. However the burden of the battle rests with the pitchers and to win from either team they must keep their hits well scattered. So far both games have been won and lost in one frame with every indication that the balance of the series will go the same way.

EAGLE POINT EAGLETS.

(By A. C. Howlett.)

There is a force of men working on the sidewalks leading from the Eagle Point depot to the main street and they are doing a fine job. Pedestrians who have to walk from the depot to the leading hotels will surely appreciate them, for after the late rains the earth becomes quite adhesive.

Saturday morning your Eagle Point correspondent took a stroll over town to see and hear what he could for the readers of the Mail Tribune and he found it was quite convenient to have a sidewalk to walk on.

The first place that particularly attracted my attention was a new short foot bridge across the old irrigating ditch near the Eagle Hotel where people have had to half jump and half climb to get across and it is quite a convenience, thanks to Mr. Striker. The next thing was the neat lamps that Mr. Striker has put up at the entrance of his new opera house. Passing on I next stopped at the new hardware store of E. L. Salter. I found him putting up a neat woodshed and while there Mrs. Salter informed me that she was prepared to give instruction on the piano or organ and would give lessons to children under fifteen and to ladies in physical gymnastics in classes or individually as preferred. Proceed System.

The next place was Brown Bros.' new store, the carpenters were just giving it the finishing touches and one of the brothers invited me to go through the building. The basement is large and well lit with concrete and is arranged that they can store away a quantity of goods that are liable to be damaged with frost and goods that are out of season that they have left over. The store room is 35x70 feet, two stories high and in the upper story they have it divided up into three rooms in the front, two are connected by a door between so as to be used as an attorney's office, and the other as a private office. Then comes a large hall to be used for lodge purposes with two rooms off one side to be used for the safe keeping of books, maps, etc., of the members, and joining these are toilets, etc., so as to be convenient for all purposes. They expect to be able to move into their new building by the 25th inst.

Next I visited the Model variety store of M. L. Daily. He reports business as good as could be expected under the circumstances, as the principal part of the business is now done at the old stand on Main street. He has been making some changes in his store room on account of the central phone office being in the store. Mrs. Daily, the lady who attends to the phone business, told me that patrons of the phone could reach them at time from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m. on week days and on Sunday from 10 a. m. to 12 noon and 3 to 5 p. m. and at any other time a charge of ten cents extra will be made for an answer.

I next visited the new hotel but the workmen were so busy that I did not go through the entire house, so I will give it a write-up later on. They are rushing the work along as fast as possible so as to get ready for the grand opening on the 20th inst.

Crossing the street and retracing my steps I passed Von der Hellen Bros. new store, of which I wrote once before. I noticed that they were getting in quite a lot of stoves and some general hardware, but they do not expect to move here about the 25th inst.

Passing on I came to Lewis' billiard and confectionery establishment. Everything was about as usual there.

The next was the bank. They seem to be doing considerable business. George L. Davis, the president, was out last week and seemed to be well pleased with the outlook. Turning my course I next visited the lumber yard of Sprague & Co. I

LOCAL FOOTBALL TEAM SHOWS WELL

Manager Has Wired Roseburg, Albany and Eugene Hoping to Get a Chance at Willamette Valley Team Saturday—Showing Championship

(By Grid Iron.)

With the second team putting up far stiffer opposition than Grants Pass did Thursday, the high school football team was given a hard scrimmage and lots of valuable practice last evening. The boys came out of the Grants Pass game in fine shape and all were out with the exception of left end McDonald, who was spending his time in managerial duties.

A feature of the afternoon's practice was the discovery of good material in Cochran, of the subs. He has been out of practice all season with a smashed finger, hurt on a camping expedition, and lacks toughness and knowledge of the game. Despite this he is quick and willing and looks like a fixture for the team next year.

The practice against the scrubs is showing the team its weak spots, enumeration of which would only be giving ammunition to the opposition. Suffice to say there are places in the line that need decided strengthening and that any member of the team who becomes over-confident of his position stands in danger of losing it.

The football fans who have watched the practice are wondering why local people are not more enthusiastic over the team. With a team of the calibre Medford has this year the championship is a decided possibility and strong support on the sidelines would help immeasurably, and it is no charity proposition either, for the games are well worth the admission. Manager McDonald has wired Albany, Eugene, Roseburg, and Redding in the hope of securing a game for this city on Saturday. It seems probable that one of these teams can be secured. The next game now scheduled is for one week from Saturday at Ashland.
