Reno Gamblers Gleeeful

RENO, Nev., Oct. 29.—Gamblers here are gleeeful today over the discovery that a joker in the crime and punishment act adopted by the last legislature, ostensibly for the purpose of permitting society ladies to play bridge for prizes, lets them in on the deal also, so that they may resume their practices openly after January 1. All games except poker, "seven and a half," stud and seven up are allowed.

Swat the Masher.

TACOMA, Wa., Oct. 29.—Jesse Weaver, much given to flirting with the waitresses in the "Millionaires' Club," a five-cent restaurant, sought to impress Miss Agnes O'Malley, and after a few sallies of alleged wit, offered, according to her statement, an insulting remark.

Miss O'Malley bounced a heavy sugar bowl off the masher's head and drenched him with a pot of boiling hot coffee. Not content with this punishment, Agnes had Weaver jailed.

PHYSICIAN WHO TIED WIFE TO A TREE IS PLACED IN AN ASYLUM

GEORGE DAYTON, DR. W. CHARLES WILLIS AND MRS. W. C. WILLIS.

Following a wild but brief automobile trip, at the end of which he bound his hysterical young wife to a tree by the roadside near Bayport, L. J. Dr. W. Charles Willis, a prominent physician of that place, was declared insane and was taken to the Central Idaho Asylum. An excessive use of drugs is said by the physicians who examined Dr. Willis to have caused the trouble which aroused the inhabitants of Bayport. George Dayton, a brother of Mrs. Willis, says the doctor gave her a drug when their machine broke down and she became hysterical.

Slaughtering Arabs.

MALTA, Oct. 30.—Systematic slaughter of Arabs in the oasis outside Tripoli has been carried on for three days by the Italians, according to dispatches from that city reaching here today. Every Arab met is said to have been shot down without trial and many women killed.

The same dispatches state that immense damage was done in the confusion following the Italian bombardment of Benghazi on October 19, 300 civilians, half of whom were women, having been shot down.

Dynamite Found on Track.

SEATTLE, Wa., Oct. 30.—A stock of dynamite was reported found this morning on the tracks of the Seattle, Renton and Southern Electric line south of Seattle. A car had passed and pushed the explosives aside, running over the paper in which it was wrapped.

This is the line over which Judge Hanford's injunction against patrons of the road stirred such a protest some weeks ago.

Beats a Good Wife.

An orator holding forth in favor of woman-dear, divine woman—concluded thus: "Oh, my friends, depend upon it, nothing beats a good wife. 'I beg your pardon,' replied a woman. 'Sure, a bad husband always does.'"—London Telegraph.

Early Rising.

The difference between rising in the morning at 5 and 7 o'clock in the space of forty years—supposing a man to go to bed at the same hour at night—is nearly equivalent to the addition of ten years to a life of three-score years and ten.

Liszt Fooled Them.

Wrapped in his dressing gown and with feet incased in slippers, Franz Liszt was sitting comfortably one evening in his armchair ready for work and inviting inspiration. On the floor above, in the apartments of a banker, a noisy musical soiree was in progress. Polonaises had succeeded waltzes, and nocturnes had followed polonaises, when suddenly the door of the salon opened, and Liszt entered, still wrapped in his dressing gown. The astonishment of the company may be imagined. With slow steps Liszt walked toward the piano, and the young key pounder who was sitting at it quickly left his place. Liszt sat down at the instrument, carefully swept his fingers over the keys as if to prelude, and then suddenly he shut down the cover and put the key in his pocket. And immediately, with the same tranquil air with which he had entered, he went out and returned to his room, where he could work at his ease.

Range of Rachel's Voice.

A Prussian prince, a cousin of the German Emperor William I., has left some curious notes upon Rachel, of whom he was a great admirer. These have been quoted in a lecture upon the famous actress. The prince studied her elocution from a musical standpoint and took down notes of her voice as she delivered some of her most effective speeches. He found, for instance, that in a passage of Racine's "Bajazet," she went down to F in the bass. In one of "Andrienne Le Courvreur" her voice spoke a word on the upper E and uttered a cry on upper F sharp. Her speaking voice thus had a compass of two octaves. But, as a rule, he observed that she used only seven notes, consisting of the first seven ascending notes from the bass of the scale of F sharp minor, but with the D sharpened.

Fruit and Old Age.

Physiologists claim that growth from infancy to old age is a process of gradual ossification and that the stiffness of age is caused by the deposits of calcareous matter or earthy salts. Therefore a diet containing a large proportion of these salts, food rich in nitrogen, such as the cereals, beans, peas and meat, increases the natural tendency to ossification, says Health. For this reason a diet made up largely of fruit, which contains a minimum amount of this calcareous matter, is scientifically best adapted to persons in advancing years. Large eaters add to the liability of ossific deposits from overworking the eliminating organs by an excess of nutritive material until their healthful activity is destroyed, and the whole system suffers in consequence. Old age indicates less food and a maximum amount of fruit as the diet.

Sunken Ships Mark His Grave.

There are many monuments to the "father of the British navy," Sir Francis Drake, throughout the world, but his "tomb" is in the great deep upon which he made his everlasting fame. He died Jan. 28, 1595, in his ship the Defiance, near the town of Mombu de Dies, West Indies, and in a leaden coffin his body was lowered into the waves some six miles from shore. As a last honor to him two of his ships, with all the prizes that were in the fleet at the time, were sunk beside his casket. At the time of his death the great admiral was in his fiftieth year and in the prime of his physical and intellectual powers. Since his death the British navy has never been without a ship bearing his name.—Exchange.

A Judge and an Egg.

Judges on the bench have been assaulted. A litigant once threw an egg at the late Vice Chancellor Mallin in an English court. The judge had the presence of mind to duck his head, and at the same time he established a reputation as a humorist by remarking that the present must have been intended for his brother, Bacon, the vice chancellor, who was sitting in an adjoining court.

A Need For Caution.

"Show him up," said the editor carelessly. "Well, sir, had I better?" asked the office boy. "He says he wants to see you because you showed him up."—Smart Set.

Youth's Wisdom.

The Good Man—Do you know where little boys go who throw stones at birds? The Bad Boy—Rather! They go where there is birds. Didn't think they went down in a well, did you?—Philadelphia Bulletin.

A Dialect.

"I never use slang," said the provincial young woman. "Yes," replied the self satisfied girl, "I noticed as soon as I heard you hank that your conversational model was one of those highbrow dialects."—Washington Star.

Why Patrick Henry Said It.

A schoolboy's composition on Patrick Henry contained the following gem: "Patrick was not a very bright boy. He had blue eyes and light hair. He got married and then said, 'Give me liberty or give me death.'"—Philadelphia Record.

An Illustration.

"The sweet and sour are strangely mingled in life." "Yes, indeed. Take a bad crowd, for example, where you're in a pickle because you're in a jam."—Baltimore American.
