BIG SUCCESS AT GROWING PRODUCE

E. W. Carleton of Table Rock Demonstrates That Land Will Pay Big Returns While Orchard Is Developing.

Every once in a while there comes to light a thoroughly practical demonstration and positive proof of the results which may be realized by every orchardman in the valley if he will be give as much attention to the growing of cereals and vegetables as he does to the proper development of his potted, coddled and idolized orchards.

Here is one of these proof cases. Out in the Table Rock district lives E. W. Carleton and he owns sixty acres of land, the most of which is set to fruit trees. This year he has grown between these trees 2065 bushels of potatoes, and 1200 bushels of corn, the corn going 75 bushels to the acre. Aside from this Mr. Carleton has grown several hogs, and some of his six-months-old pigs weigh 200 pounds each.

A neighbor of Mr. Carleton has said to a Mail Tribune representative that in all probability Mr. Carleton would make a net clean-up this year of over $3000 from his land. And all the time his land has been earning him this money his orchard has been kept in an excellent state of cultivation. The land is not irrigated. F. M. Corlies, of Illinois, is foreman on this ranch.

Every few days some orchardman is heard on the streets telling someone that the land he has set to fruit will not grow corn, wheat, potatoes or anything of that sort, when as a matter of fact this same land now planted to fruit trees did not grow anything else but these same cereal crops and vegetables before it was set to fruit and those crops were grown bountifully and profitably.

Nine-tenths of the land in the Rogue river valley now set to fruit was excellent farm land before it was planted to orchard. Fact of the matter is, certain orchardmen cannot see a dollar in anything but red and yellow apples and record-breaking pears. They are going to make good with this fruit business, but why sit around wait for this fruit? Why not be a Carleton and make the orchards at least pay running expenses while waiting for bigger fruit returns later on.

Man of Mystery to Be at Star.

The Great Hale, who has baffled the police forces in the largest cities in the world with his handcuff performances and who has created no end of comment, will appear at the Star theatre in his famous act of mystery. This act has been imitated to a great extent, but Richard Hale is the originator. Bound helpless with ropes, the knots of which have been sealed with wax to show they have not been tampered with at any time, with handcuffs, leg irons, log chains and the most scientific and approved locks, he causes musical instruments to play, bells to ring and hammers to float in the air. The light will remain on during the entire performance and a committee of reliable citizens will be on the stage at the time. Any questions which any one desires an answer to will be answered, if the questions are left at the box office Monday. Hale does not claim to be a spiritualist, in fact he makes no explanation. He must be seen to be appreciated. The mysterious Hale is booked to appear at the above theatre for one week commencing Monday, Nov. 13th.

WILL PLAY EXHIBITION GAME BROWN & HAL'S

H. A. Wright, Pacific Coast Champion Billiard Player Will Play Chris Gottlieb and Also Lecture Saturday Evening.

H. A. "Chick" Wright of San Francisco, who holds the title of champion billiard player of the Pacific coast, and who in 1909 won the amateur championship for the United States at New York, will give an exhibition game and lecture tonight at Brown & Hall's. Wright will explain to the club membership a number of the difficult shots which have won him the title he carries. He is an admitted master of the difficult game and is regarded as a most brilliant player by those against whom he has been pitted, both in the east and on the Pacific coast. He will play Chris Gottlieb Saturday evening in the exhibition game and this will be followed by the lecture. When he entered the 18.2 balko line tournament for the amateur championship of the United States in 1909, Wright was pitted against some of the most expert players in billiards. He defeated C. F. Conklin of Chicago, a veteran cueist in the amateur field, making 499 points to his opponent's 317 in the final game. Incidentally Wright is the only player on the Pacific coast to win the amateur championship east of Chicago. Later Wright entered the professional field and succeeded in winning the highest honors on the Pacific coast. He has a veritable treasure in silver trophies and medals. Those who are in any way interested in billiards and desire to learn something from an expert, are invited to be present when Wright gives his exhibition game.
