Whistler Before Whistler. Mortimer Menpes told the following story of Whistler, who was to deliver an address one day to the Society of British Artists: "The master at length entered, faultlessly dressed, walking with a swinging, jaunty step, evidently quite delighted with himself and the world in general. He passed down the gallery, ignoring the assembled members, and walked up to his own picture. And there he stayed for quite fifteen minutes, regarding it with a satisfied expression, stepping now backward, now forward, casting his head and dusting the surface of the glass with a silk pocket handkerchief. We watched him open mouthed. Suddenly he turned round, beamed upon us and uttered but two words: 'Bravo, Jimmy!'—then took my arm and hurried me out of the gallery, talking volubly the while."

King's Queer Present For a Queen. In all probability the king of Dahomey's present of pipes and loin cloths never reached Buckingham palace. On one occasion, however, Queen Victoria had publicly to accept a gift of quite as embarrassing a nature. This was in 1856, when the king of Siam sent a mission to England. On being presented to the queen, who received them seated on her throne and wearing her crown, the envoys crawled from their hands and knees and then each drew a present from the folds of his robes. The first object placed in the queen's hands was a silver spittoon.—London Chronicle.

Stagecoach of the Twenties. Brooks Bowman commenced running an hourly stagecoach between Boston and Roxbury on March 1, 1826. He left the town house on Roxbury hill every day in the week except the Sabbath at 8, 10, 12, 2, 4 and 6 o'clock and returning, started from the Old South church at 9, 11, 3, 5 and 7 o'clock. The fare was 12 1/2 cents each way.

Her Good Advice. They had been courting for only four years when Silas spoke as follows: "I think you oughter give me just one kiss, Sary, you know; it's far better to give than receive."

"You don't say?" said Sary coyly. "Then it seems to me some folk oughter practice what they preach!"

Descriptive. One little girl was telling her mother how another little girl was dressed at a party. "And would you believe it, mamma," she concluded, "her slippers were so tight I could see all the knuckles on her toes."—Chicago News.

He Was Playing. First Actress—You say you are hard up. Isn't your husband playing this season, then? Second Actress—Yes, he is. That's just the trouble. First A.—Why, what's he playing—Hamlet? Second A.—No; cards!

The Other Extreme. Parke—Poor Pitter! His wife is a spendthrift. Is there anything worse. I wonder, than a wife that's too extravagant? Tame—Oh, yes; one that's too economical.—Brooklyn Life.

Thin as a Rail. "Is he as thin as I have heard?" "He's thinner. Sary, when he tried on a double-breasted coat one row of buttons was up his back."—Exchange.

"GIRL, MAN AND GAME" HERE WEDNESDAY EVE.

THAT CAPTIVATING SWITCHINGLY PRETTY MAN AND GAME WALTZ.

At the Medford theatre November 15 French vivacity, sparkling farcical situations, clever songs and the presence of that clever exponent of light comedy, Billy "Single" Clifford, his excellent supporting company and charming girly beauty chorus, to say nothing of his famous hat and monologue, are all combined in making the unqualified success of the mu-seal comedy, "The Girl, the Man and the Game" which will be the offering at the Medford theatre for one night, November 15.

As in "Baby Mine" which kept New York and Chicago audiences laughing overtime the past season, the plot of the "Girl, the Man and the Game" hinges upon the laughable situations which inevitably follow when a man "borrows" a family.

WOODROW WILSON STRONG FAVORITE SAYS GORE

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 14.—Governor Woodrow Wilson is a strong favorite with the democrats in a large majority of 27 states recently visited, and the renomination of President Taft by the republicans is almost a foregone conclusion in the opinion of Senator Gore of Oklahoma.

"I think Governor Harmon is probably the favorite among the democrats of Maryland and West Virginia, and Harmon is strong in Idaho," said the senator, shortly before his departure for Salem, where he speaks tonight. "Oklahoma may be inclined toward Champ Clark. In all the other states I have visited Wilson is the favorite. I am for Wilson, and believe he will be the strongest candidate."

"I think the renomination of Taft is almost a certainty."

LIVERMORE, Cal.—The authorities here are investigating today the death of Antonio Frank, 70, alleged to have been shot by Mrs. May Bankoski. She claims Frank fired her property several times in revenge for having been discharged from her employ.

EVERETT, Wn.—Because her mother learned of her plight, Letha Lamara, 15 years old, girl wife of Louis Lamara, leaped forward on a rope in the county jail here until she was dead. Lamara is being held on a charge of living off the earnings of the girl.

TALENT ELECTION ON DECEMBER 4

Town Will Vote on New Charter and Will Also Choose Three Councilmen—Many Improvements Are to Be Made.

Talent will hold a general election on Monday, December 4. At this time the charter, which has been prepared, will be submitted to the people. Talent has reached the stage where it is necessary to vote bonds for the construction of a water system and to make other necessary municipal improvements, so that a charter is needed in order to give the mayor and council this power. The terms of three councilmen expire at this time. They are Dr. D. A. Forbes, J. H. Lacey and T. J. Bell.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 14.—Although the Southern Pacific railroad has never approached the borders of Kentucky that state may tax the company's ocean steamers, according to a decision of the United States supreme court handed down yesterday.

The state contended that, as the Southern Pacific was organized under the Kentucky laws and the corporation's main office is nominally located in Kentucky it had the right to tax all Southern Pacific ships, no matter where they ply.

The United States supreme court affirmed a decision of the Kentucky court of appeals.

Soft Molasses Cookies (Recipe by Mrs. Mary J. Lincoln)

The children—and the grown-ups, too—will enjoy these cookies. Try some next baking day.

Scald one cup molasses, pour it over one-fourth cup Cutolene, add one-half cup sugar, one-half level teaspoon salt, and one level tablespoon ginger, or a mixture of other spices if preferred. Dissolve one-half level teaspoon soda in one-fourth cup cold water, add to the cooled molasses, then stir in from three to four cups flour, making a soft dough to drop and spread in a pan, or a stiff dough to be rolled and cut. Bake in moderate oven.

The use of Cutolene as a shortening insures cooking that is both palatable and easy to digest.
