There was a large attendance of friends and relatives. The floral offerings were plentiful and very beautiful. One floral piece was especially beautiful, it being a floral blanket which entirely covered the casket. Music was furnished by Miss Gladys Jardine, Miss Laura McQueen, Messrs. A. S. Mack, Ernest Price and Walter Gore. The pallbearers were Harry Helms, E. W. Brous, Mark Finney, O. N. Burnett, Clyde Shaw, Oscar Lewis, T. G. Jackson and M. Adams. Interment was made in Odd Fellows' cemetery.

COLD WEATHER ENDS BIG STORM

Several Washington Towns Were Endangered When the Puyallup River Stopped Over Its Banks and Did Much Damage.

TACOMA, Wash., Nov. 20.—Cold weather brought relief today from what threatened to be the worst flood for years. The Puyallup river, which stopped over its banks and did great damage last night, is going down and all streams centering here are receding.

McMillan, a village on the Puyallup, was threatened with destruction by the river changing its course yesterday, and a mass meeting secured powder to blow up a log jam and flood farms below if the danger did not decrease.

Tacoma was dark fifteen minutes last night with the transmission line washed out. Sewers were washed out and the islands inundated, but the water is going down. All trains from the east are coming by way of Vancouver today, land and snow-slides in the mountains blocking the Northern Pacific, Great Northern and Milwaukee.

The railways report they will have clear tracks by morning.

Aid Society Meets. The Ladies' Aid society of the First M. E. church met in the basement of the church Wednesday afternoon. Devotional exercises led by Mrs. Bennett. There were present 25, and at each meeting from one to three are received. While the ladies have been quiet, they have not been idle, but are busy making extensive preparations for their annual fair to be given December 6. In connection with the fair will be a chicken pie dinner with the usual accompaniments of salad, pickles, pie, coffee, etc. In the evening a hot lunch will be served. The society kindly solicits the assistance of all ladies of the church whether members of the society or not. Donations of fancy articles, one from fully accepted, and it is hoped that every lady who will help in any way will be present at the next meeting in the basement of the church on next Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

In presenting James Forbes' newest play, "The Commuters," which is to be seen at the Medford theater November 20, Henry B. Harris is convinced he has a worthy successor to "The Chorus Lady" and "The Traveling Salesman," both of which are from the pen of the author of "The Commuters." It is a comedy in four acts in which are incorporated many of the laughable incidents that happen in the daily life of the man of business who works in the city and endeavors to find succor from toil amidst the calm and quiet atmosphere of the suburbs. The title itself suggests the great possibilities of a laugh creation, and it is needless to say that Mr. Forbes has taken every advantage of the splendid opportunities of the subject to create another inimitable theatrical entertainment that will perpetuate his name along with the greatest humorists this country has ever known. "The Commuters" comes to this city with the New York and Boston cast, and includes Harry Davenport, Florence Malone, Amy Lesser, John Robertson, Lillian Thurgate, Pauline Duffield, E. Y. Backus, Frederic Malcolm, Kerra Kenwyn, Maude Sinclair and others.

MARRIED. Michael M. Herman and Miss Myrtle Clara McKee were married Sunday at 1:30 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fort Hubbard, 440 South Riverside avenue, Medford, Rev. E. Olin Eldridge, pastor of the M. E. church, officiating.

A splendid dinner was served after the wedding by Mrs. Hubbard to the many relatives and friends in attendance. Mr. and Mrs. Herman left from Central Point Sunday evening for a short honeymoon visit to Portland. By taking the train at Central Point instead of at Phoenix, as had previously been planned, the young couple escaped several rice showers which were in waiting for them as the passenger train passed through Medford.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—At the opening of today's stock market heavy selling of leaders caused unsettled conditions. United States Steel was down a point, as was also Union Pacific and American Cotton Oil. Wabash preferred lost 3-4 and the common 1-8. Great Northern preferred lost 11-2. Later Union Pacific made up its loss and Reading and Lehigh Valley were slightly above Saturday's close.

Why Accident Insurance is Necessary

Ten per cent of all deaths are due to accidents. 11,000,000 people are killed and injured yearly in the United States (19 per minute). There are five times more people killed and injured yearly than die from natural causes. More people are killed and injured in the United States yearly than have been killed or injured during any war of the last two hundred years. You are more liable to die from an accidental injury than from any disease but one. Nature will guard against illness, but never against an accidental injury. More people have received indemnity from the Travelers for accidental injuries than were killed or wounded in the Union Army during the Civil War.
