EAGLE POINT EAGLETS.

(By A. C. Howlett.)

T. J. Lawson, who has a homestead near Durby, has been hauling hay to the depot to ship to the Durby station, on account of the condition of the road across Sticky, although now the road has somewhat improved.

Mr. Cole, one of the P. & E. engineers, has moved into a part of the old building formerly occupied by George Brown & Sons as a store building.

The Sunny Side has been making some substantial improvements in the line of fencing, having put a neat wire fence around the barn lot in place of the old board fence.

We are showing the largest and finest line of dolls ever shown in Eagle Point; also a fine line of hand-painted chinaware.—The Model Variety Store. Adv.

I met Ed Higenbotham the other day and he told me that he was at work opening the road to the new bridge across Rogue river—the Dodge-French bridge—and that the hope to soon hear of their entire recovery.

James Taylor made a hurried business trip to Gold Hill Friday morning.

Mrs. Avery and family have moved on to the Beno farm, which was but recently vacated by Mr. Tom Norris.

Mrs. Kate McDougall of Blackwell, spent Thursday as the guest of Mrs. Straube of Willow Springs.

Fred Brown, who has been working for Champlin of Foothills creek, is home for the winter owing to the sinking of the dredge.

Hunters should use more precaution when out hunting on Kanes creek. They seem to have no regard for other people's rights, as they often return with a mixed variety of chicken and quail, which no doubt would make a fine mixture.

people on the northwest side of the river were going to begin work on that side in a short time. When that road is opened it is expected that the mail route from here to Trail will be changed so that the mail carrier can cross the river at any time instead of having to depend on the uncertainty of the ferry.

Mr. Warnsteiff, one of our newcomers, was in the Eagle Point hardware store this week getting material to finish his house.

Vonder Hellen Bros. have taken a new member into the firm, Mr. F. H. Webbe, he being a regular pharmacist and having charge of the drug department. They are now prepared to supply the public with almost anything in the hardware and drug line from a four-penny nail to complete fixtures for house building; also school books and stationery for the children. And if any of the community gets sick, Mr. Webbe is on hand to fill prescriptions and furnish the medicine.—Adv.

Mr. Bolt, one of the officials of the P. & E. Railroad company, is building a neat bungalow in our thriving town, and plans are on foot to build a new blacksmith shop near the depot.

Mr. A. Corbin, the owner of the old Bradshaw orchard, is at this writing loading another car of apples to ship east, this being the second car in the past week.

I see quite a large quantity of wood has been unloaded at the depot by the railroad company, and Heath & Diemont have been getting a large lot of stovewood, so guess that there is no danger of our freezing this winter. They are also building a large shed in front of their store so that the farmers who come in with teams can put their rigs and teams in the dry.

Miss Genell Jackson, one of our most promising young ladies, is now attending the Medford Business college, and I understand that the railroad company is going to give special rates to persons who wish to take advantage of the opportunity to attend the higher schools in Medford.

Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan, recent arrivals of Medford, came out Thursday with Benton Bowers and went out to look over some of his land. They seemed to be very favorably impressed with the place, and especially with the surrounding country.

W. D. Day of Eugene, Ore., spent the night here Tuesday on his way to his homestead near Lake creek. He James Ringer is engaged papering the rooms in the old Brown store preparing them for another family; expects his wife to meet him here in a few days.

Miss Cara Jones of Central Point has been visiting Miss Dottie Harnish the past week.

Thursday night Messdames M. H. Postal of San Francisco and J. W. Lusby of Prospect came in on the Prospect stage and spent the night with us, and Friday morning took the car for Medford.

Five dollars reward—Lost, in Eagle Point on Monday, November 20, one dog, half shepherd and half collie; color white and yellow; bob-tailed; one white eye; last seen near Antelope bridge. Return to Artie Nichols, Eagle Point, and receive reward. Robert A. Neill.
