SON WEDS TO PROTECT FATHER

Frankly Admits to Police That He Married Girl on the Prayers of His Father and Not Because He Loved Her.

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 16.—With William Wood, aged 23, in jail and his 14-year-old bride at the home of her parents, the police today are making a search of the Pacific northwest for "Professor" D. R. Wood, 65, a music teacher, father of the prisoner, on warrants concerning his conduct toward his son's wife, and two other young girls, who were his music pupils. It is believed the elder Wood is in hiding in Seattle. He is charged with statutory offenses.

Wood junior and the girl, daughter of an East Portland grocer, were married yesterday by Rev. Benjamin Young, a Methodist minister. A few hours later the police arrested Wood, who is a singer in a moving picture theater. Meanwhile the elder Wood apparently learned the police were searching for him and left town.

William Wood today frankly told the authorities that he married the girl on the prayers of his father, and not because he loved her. He said he met her only a few days ago.

TREATMENT OF THE SKIN

By Madame Travilla.

Just as the barometer tells the state of the weather the skin is a tell-tale of the condition of the body. Intelligent care can make the skin so beautifully exquisite that no comparison describes it.

It is the error of today, as the blunder of past ages, to try to cover up blemishes of the face skin and ignore their causes. The medical fraternity have been largely to blame for this for they merely looked upon it as "only a skin disease."

Although the surface of the face is small, it being exposed to the air and being the seat of the emotions, it is more active than the skin elsewhere. Its sympathy with every organ is acute and when we think also of all the facial expressions enforced upon it we realize the work it has to do. To counteract all this there is much to be done and as I have already emphasized the internal care of the body I shall now deal with the external—the face being the most difficult and most important.

Because of its constant exposure to the air, and often wind and sun, the face requires the most careful treatment. In towns and cities especially, there are such impurities in the air that constantly effect the most healthy skin. In the country, though most favorable to the complexion, we must contend with all the conditions of the weather.

It is impossible for any woman to use one rule of treatment for all occasions. It must be changed according to weather, exposure, occupation and health. Cleanliness, of course, is the first condition on all occasions and since it is very difficult to obtain a pure soap, even a pure castile. I find that a well prepared bleached almond meal compound containing powdered oat meal is far superior to any alkali preparation. It should be made into a paste by adding water and used at night with warm water. It is also excellent for cleaning out the pores and banishing blackheads. As the face is exposed to dirt during the day it is of the utmost importance that the impurities be removed before retiring.

For rough, coarse or oily skins, especially with enlarged pores, the friction of a camel's hair complexion brush is valuable. If the skin is dry and delicate the dirt should be removed with a pure liquid almond cleansing cream by pouring it on a soft Turkish cloth. It is better to use plain witch hazel if you don't know absolutely as to the purity of the almond cream. The label on a bottle may state the word "almond" but that may be only the perfume and yet contain no almond oil.

All the rubbing of the face in bathing, massaging and drying should be upward. A system of carefully studied movements will be given you in my next article. Never lose sight of the fact that the skin of the face is more delicate than that of any other part of the body; and the whole aim of the treatment should be to avoid irritation and excessive stimulation. The abuse of hot and cold water and electricity is very great. No one should be entrusted with the application of electricity but a thoroughly equipped medical electrician; one who is as skilled in the profession as the well trained surgeon in his.

The last act marking the permanent retirement from public life of former Senator Aldrich was a visit and a short chat with President Taft at the White House. "I retire without regret," he said in departing.

much use in the face treatment that is "doing a great deal of harm. Schools have sprung up all over the country, and particularly in large cities, on the basis of an advertised fad—the "something" new—then send out pupils with practically no real knowledge but with their advertised fad under the alluring sign of "Somebody's System." Genuine intelligence must be the basis of everything pertaining to the care of the body internally and externally.

One of the most horrible processes in execution today is that of removing the skin from the face. Not long ago I saw a woman in a drug store window whose face on one side showed the wrinkled skin of sixty years and the other side was like that of a young child. Can you imagine anything more gruesome? It is a peeling process of the most agonizing sort. After the raw surface heals the complexion in some cases is very fair and lovely but has no more expression than a wax doll. The drawn muscles about the eyes are exactly like those of a very young baby. For months afterward the faintest breath of wind or the touch of the softest cloth causes torture. After the lapse of a comparatively short time this sensitive skin begins to show many lines that were not there before taking the treatment.

If we don't understand the ageing process of life isn't it right to suppose that only a reasonable amount of intelligence would make us know that the muscles under the skin are too old and facial expressions" of thought too severe to support the skin of a baby? Yours for charming womankind, MADAME QUIVILLA.

SAYS SHE IS VICTIM OF LAWYER'S ZEAL

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—Weeping and threatening her attorney not securing the necessary $40,000 bail for her release, Mrs. Rene Morrow, charged with, following her preliminary hearing today, the murder of her aged husband, declared she is an innocent victim of circumstances. She is on the verge of hysteria.

"I could have proved my innocence, convinced the judge and been at home now if my lawyer had let me take the stand and tell my story," said Mrs. Morrow between sobs. "But he made me sit quiet, and here I am, charged with murder, and they are trying to hang me. I know nothing of the crime—nothing. Because I quarreled with my husband, a bitter old man, disappointed with his failure in life, who had nothing to live for and decided to die, I am held and they want to send me to the gallows."

Judge Falk fixed Mrs. Morrow's bail at $40,000. The defense has as yet been unable to furnish this sum.

NATIONAL WOMAN SUFFRAGE PROPOSED

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 16.—National woman suffrage is provided for in the amendment introduced in the house today by Victor Berger, socialist congressman from Milwaukee. If the amendment is finally adopted Berger proposes to enforce its provisions by enactment that any state attempting to evade its terms shall be punished by reducing the state's representation in the national house.

Our Correspondents

EAGLE POINT EAGLETS.

(By A. C. Howlett.) Since I wrote last Deputy Sheriff G. H. Shearer and Mr. Schunklicht came out from Medford and engaged a buggy. They had their own team, and started for the Prospect country. They proceeded about five miles on the way, then began to realize what it meant to pull sticky. They would go a few rods and then the horses would have to stop and rest, so they finally concluded to retrace their steps, and arrived at the Sunnyside at dark well satisfied with their experience with sticky.

The night of the 9th inst. our new town officers were sworn in and assumed the duties of their respective offices. Among the new officers were William Von der Heiden, mayor; S. H. Harnish and Frank Nichols as aldermen and Ed Cincade as marshal. The old marshal asked me to say to the readers of The Mail Tribune that he would not have the office again under any circumstances. There was nothing of especial interest done at the council meeting except the regular routine of business.

Lawton & Heard seem to have quite a time trying to get Von der Heiden's old store building moved, as the mud and rain keep them from making much headway.

Since the late rains the railroad men have been quite busy keeping the drift from banking up against the piers of the railroad bridge just below town, and Friday night they had to take the locomotive from the station to draw the drift away. While working at the bridge, Mr. Stout, the foreman of the gang of bridge men, met with two mishaps. The first one was to have a heavy timber fall on his foot and damage his great toe considerably, and the next thing was to fall and strike his hip on the end of a railroad tie, hurting him quite severely.

I see that Heath & Diamond have some as fine looking apples in their store as I have seen this season, but no one seemed to know the variety.

Marian Trusty, who has been up at Trail visiting his brother, started for Texas last Wednesday.

J. E. Reed of Wellen, living on his homestead on Yankee creek, has just returned from Seattle, Wash., where he has been to visit his sick mother. He spent the night with us at Eagle Point and the next morning gave me his subscription for the Weekly Mail Tribune. He said by taking that paper he would get about all of the foreign news and all of the local news.

Mr. Newport, a son-in-law of F. J. Ayres, came out Saturday to have Dr. Holt open a felon on one of his fingers.

W. M. Wadleigh of Chicago, Ill., came in from Newport, Ore., where he had been seeking for some of the valuable stones that are so abundant in our state. He is here now looking over our prairie lands for agates and other kinds of curios. He expects to gather and ship a lot to a firm in California near Los Angeles.

Your Eagle Point correspondent took a trip to Medford Friday and on the car with him from Eagle Point were Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Grover, Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Holmes, Mrs. J. B. Jackson and daughter, Miss Gernell, who is attending the business college in Medford, and Wm. Knighton, besides several whose names I didn't know—for our town is filling up so fast that I meet lots of strangers. Thomas Nichols Jr. was also with us. He has been attending the business college in Medford but was compelled to stop on account of his being afflicted with his eyes, he having lost one of them and his having to use the other so much causes inflammation, and he said that he was going to see an eye specialist in Medford. Robert Palouze, another of our bright youths, starts to school in the high school department the 17th of this month. Thus we have several of our bright youths going to Medford to attend school on account of there being not enough in that grade to form a class, but we expect next year to have a school here that will compare favorably with any of the schools in the valley.

Mrs. Larkin Reynolds and her son came out from Medford last Friday afternoon to be with her husband at the Sunnyside. He is one of the railroad carpenters and is here building a house for the section men on the P. & E. railway. She expects to return to Medford Sunday so her son can go to school.

Last Friday night there were two of the street lamps taken from their stands and this (Saturday) morning the new marshal authorized me to say that if they were returned there would be no questions asked, but if not the guilty parties would be arrested and punished according to law.

Errand boy, office boy, store helper—whatever work you have for a boy means preliminary work for a want ad in finding the right boy.
