

DARROW ONLY ONE OF MANY

So Declares District Attorney Fredericks in Discussing Arrest of Attorney—No Chance, He Said, for Darrow to Escape.

TAMPA, Fla., Jan. 30.—"The arrest of Clarence Darrow is but the beginning," said District Attorney John D. Fredericks of Los Angeles, who is here, when asked if Darrow's arrest would be followed by any of the higher-ups in the American Federation of Labor.

Fredericks left today for Los Angeles to be in time to personally conduct the bribery cases. "There was no chance for Darrow to escape," said Fredericks. "We knew when Juror Bain took his seat that he had been bribed. And we knew who did it. The indictment of Darrow was no surprise to me."

COLEMAN PLEADS GUILTY.

objected to a clause which read "He refused to pay on demand." For this, with the permission of District Attorney Mulkey and Warden Finley, was substituted "He failed to pay on demand." With this alteration made Mr. Reames entered a plea of guilty to the complaint on behalf of his client.

Two Years Delinquent.

Mr. Finley then outlined to the court the reason for the complaint, stating that he had been sent to Jackson county by the state fish and game commission to demand this money from Mr. Coleman and to prosecute him under the provision of the state fish and game law. For two years, he stated, Mr. Coleman has not made a remittance, the amount now totaling $10,000, although every other county clerk in the state had done so.

Mr. Finley was followed by C. L. Reames, who took the game warden to task for certain statements published in the Mail Tribune Monday afternoon, in which he was made to say that "several letters" instead of one letter had been sent to Mr. Coleman demanding that he pay this money over to the state. He also made several insinuations to which Mr. Finley took exception and answered.

Wants Bank Record.

"You say that I was in a great hurry to run into print with statements which I cannot back up," stated Mr. Finley to Mr. Reames. "I am not responsible for what appears in the papers. I say now that one letter was sent to Mr. Coleman. But since you are so very apt with your insinuations I might ask to have you produce before this court the bank records showing where this money has been during the past two years and whether it has been drawing interest or not. The single letter we sent out to the county clerks of this state was sufficient to have them all turn the money in to the state treasurer. But here in Jackson county we find a clerk who disregards our request and who alone among the clerks of the state is behind two years with his remittances which he is supposed to make every three months. If he was behind one quarter or three quarters it would not be so bad, but when a man is behind eight quarters and disregards a letter sent him four months ago asking him to square it up, it is time somebody got busy."

Coleman Pleads Guilty.

After Mr. Finley had completed his statement to the court Mr. Coleman made a short statement, saying he was guilty of a technical charge. He offered no excuse with the exception of the statement that he was overcrowded with work and that in order to make this remittance he would have first had to check up the books and determine the amount due.

"I have pleaded guilty because I never remitted this money quarterly," continued Mr. Coleman, "but I never received a penny of benefit from it. I am sorry on my part that this has occurred, but I am not a defaulter." Following Mr. Coleman's statement Justice Taylor stated that he would fine Mr. Coleman the minimum amount provided by the statute but in view of Mr. Coleman's statement he would suspend the sentence.

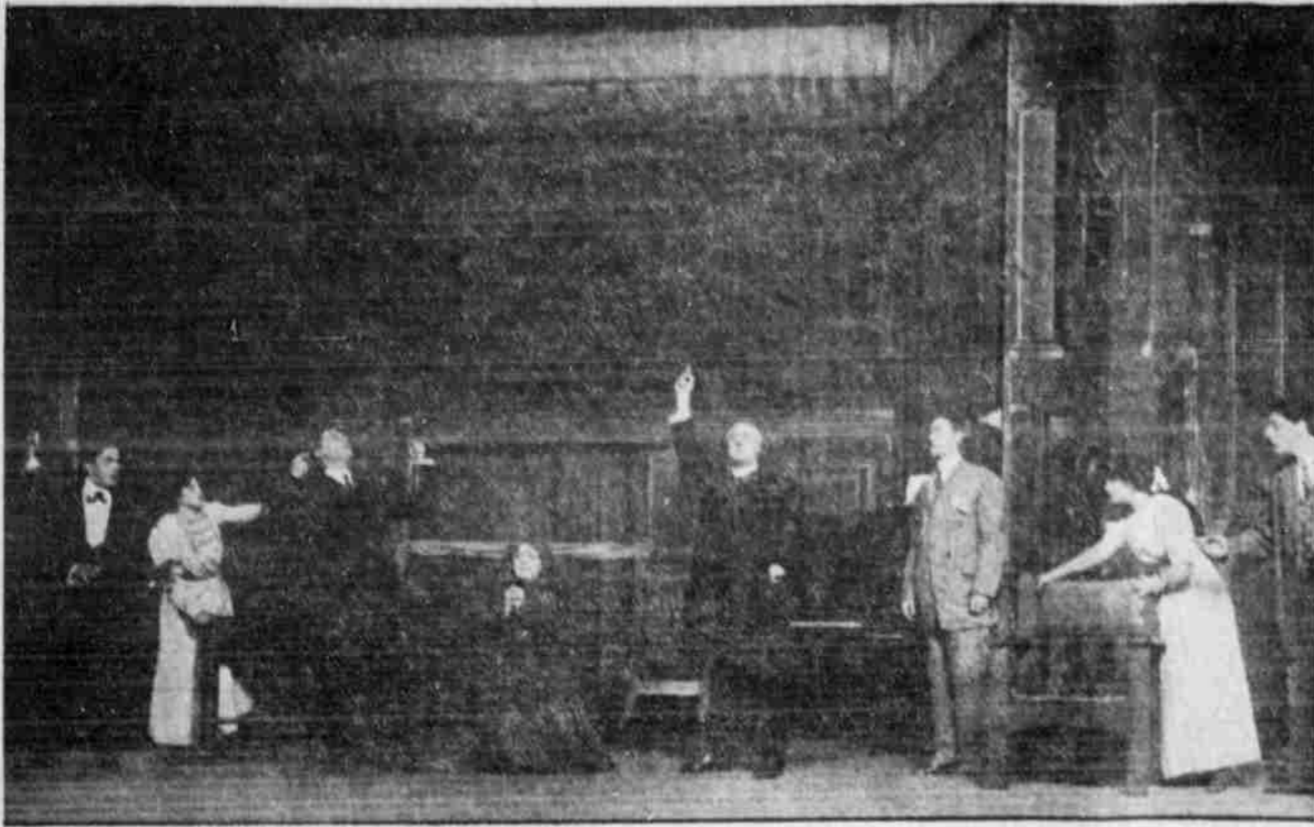

In discussing the case, Mr. Finley said:

Finley's Statement.

"Not only has section 2341 been violated by Mr. Coleman, but so has section 3154, requiring county clerks to make semi-annual reports to the secretary of state of monies received, and section 3161, which provides that in case county clerks fail to make returns, no salary shall be issued to the clerk for services rendered and in addition provides a penalty of $300 to be recovered in civil action. Or we could have proceeded under section 1957. But we are not persecuting Mr. Coleman, only seeking recovery of monies due the state. "I cannot understand Mr. Cole-

SCENE FROM "THE ROSARY," OPERA HOUSE, TUESDAY NIGHT, JANUARY 30.

Rowland and Clifford's play, "The Rosary," is repeating this season with remarkable success. This play, as everybody remembers, was the hit of last season, when it broke many house records for big audiences. The play was written by Edward E. Rose, author of "The Prisoner of Zenda," and many other successes, and has become as much of a favorite with theatergoers throughout the country as any of Mr. Rose's former dramas. The play from the start tells how Bruce Wilton has amassed a fortune which he lavishes upon his wife, Vera. Their home is a happy one until there creeps into it a note of menace. No one hears of it at first except Father Kelly, a priest, the former tutor of Bruce. Quietly he goes to work to find the person who is causing the adverse influence in the household.

Almost on the verge of discovering the cause, calamity descends upon the Wilton house. Bruce's fortune is swept away, and in such a way that he believes his wife the cause of his ruin. Husband and wife are separated, the home is destroyed, and yet the cause of all this disaster is unknown. Father Kelly, however, with resolute zeal, perseveres in his work to fathom the mystery and finally succeeds in his undertaking. He finds the one who has caused all the misery, and eventually restores the home. The scenic environments of the play are extremely attractive, and place much credit on Rowland and Clifford's efforts. The play will be seen at the Medford theater on Tuesday, January 30, with the cast consisting of Harrison J. Terry as Father Kelly and Jean P. Ward as Vera Wilton.

SUPERINTENDENT ARANT WILL FEED AND TAME BEARS IN CRATER PARK

Superintendent W. F. Arant of Crater Lake national park is going to try the novel scheme of "taming" the bear that roams the wilds of the park next season.

Superintendent Arant made a trip last fall to the Yellowstone national park, where he went to meet with Secretary of the Interior Fisher and superintendents from national parks all over the northwest. While there he observed some of the things done and the way wild animals were handled to make them feel at home. Among the "new wrinkles" he noticed how the bears were treated in the park to keep them there and to make them gentle enough to be closely observed by visitors to the park. This plan is to feed the bears at certain places and get them coming regularly to these points to seek grub. The plan is to gather up scraps of meat from hotels and caferias of animals where they can be lured and place them in the haunts of these wild animals, and Mr. Arant says he is going to try the same plan during the coming summer and see if he cannot establish a colony of bears where they can be seen by visitors to Crater lake. He does not expect to be able to get a large number of bears the first year, but believes by proper treatment and care he will be able to have a bunch living about the superintendent's headquarters and the rim of the lake that will become so tame and gentle visitors may walk up to within a few yards of them.

To begin with he expects to take this feed to the haunts of the bear, where it will be scattered and developments watched. When this is eaten up he will again take feed out, but this time and each succeeding time will place his "bait" a little closer to headquarters.

Mr. Arant realizes, however, that if he makes a success of this he will have to exclude all dogs from the park confines or make a rule that no visitor take a canine into the park without having it at the end of a rope or chain. If dogs are allowed to run through the park promiscuously they would naturally run to the bears and scare them from their haunts, so they will have to be barred. Both dogs and cats are barred from Yellowstone park.

The superintendent thinks his plan of "taming" the bears and getting them to make the park their headquarters will add to the attractions of the place as a tourist resort, as many would make it a point to see them if it were made possible.

HOW THE HONOR SHEEP GOT CHAS. GAY'S GOAT

How the pet sheep of Honor Camp at Westville got Charles Gay's goat is the story brought back by H. C. Stoddard and E. C. Weston, who returned Monday from a trip to the Prospect power plant.

A few days ago, Charles Gay, who has had charge of the commissary at Westville, returned limping to Medford. He explained he had injured himself by dislocating his hip. The accident occurred when the pet sheep of the camp insisted on coming into the dining tent during meals. Mr. Gay grabbed the animal by the head, pulled him to the door and threw him out. In doing it, however, he states that he slipped and fell, dislocating his thigh. After several hours of excruciating pain, the limb was pulled back into place, but Mr. Gay was so lame that he returned home to recuperate.

The honor men, however, give a different version. They say that Mr. Gay was enjoying dinner when the sheep entered and grabbed a slice of bread out of his hand, that Mr. Gay, in ejecting the sheep slipped and fell and that the sheep then butted his fallen adversary out into the cold, cold world, and that the impact of the animal's head caused the injury.

CLUB WILL HOLD GOOD ROADS MEET

Extra Session Talk to Be Theme of Commercial Club at Special Session Wednesday Evening—Hope to Induce West to Act.

A special meeting of the Commercial club is called for Wednesday, January 31, at 7:30 p. m., at the city hall.

There will be only two subjects up for discussion, namely: A resolution in favor of an immediate extra session of the Oregon legislature to consider and pass laws enabling the people of the several counties to vote upon and create a bonded indebtedness for the building of permanent and scientific highways. And, secondly, to prepare a report directed to the proper authorities at Washington city, urging the necessity of the early completion of the federal building at this place.

A full attendance is desired. Let it be known that, although we are temporarily defeated in our fight for good roads, we are not whipped. WM. M. COLVIG, Manager.

Rex Spray Companies Special Attention to Users of Lime and Sulphur Spray

Notices have been sent out broadcast by a competitive firm, claiming a spray of 15 per cent, nearly one-sixth stronger than any other spray and recommending such spray to be more diluted than 1 to 11 because stronger than REX.

The following is an easy test by which any grower can ascertain for himself as to whether such representations are correct or not.

The spray sent out by The Rex Companies will weigh 10.9 pounds per gallon. When diluted 1 to 11 the mixture will weigh 8.56 pounds per gallon.

Any spray represented as being stronger which will not meet the above requirements is sold under false representations, and the person so offering same is subject to prosecution by the State and Federal authorities.

REX LIME & SULPHUR SOLUTION is guaranteed at above strength. If made any stronger there is danger of crystallization, especially if the spray is left out in cold weather.

REX is just what it represents itself to be, and should be used according to directions to get best results.

REX SPRAYS are made in all parts of the United States and Canada. We have had years of experience and know whereof we speak. For cash or time terms, see
