HOW TO PAINT YOUR FARM SCIENTIFICALLY

Any man can do an average job of painting, and can thereby not only improve the appearance of his place, but can add greatly to the durability of the buildings.

The average farmer, if there is such a thing, seems to think that paint is used solely for ornament, and he is of all men most keenly practical. He eschews what he regards as an unprofitable luxury. It is perhaps the rule rather than the exception in some sections to see houses and agricultural implements sadly in need of repaint.

Of course, paint does improve the appearance of property, but it is far more useful as a protector rather than an ornament. The expenditure of a small amount of money and time in painting a valuable piece of farm machinery or a building will add greatly to the length of its life. Another useful object accomplished by painting is the improved sanitary condition of buildings and outhouses. The cost of such work is small, the necessary equipment not expensive, and with proper care will last a long time.

In order to supply information which will enable the farmer to purchase the paint economically and apply it intelligently and to the best advantage, Secretary Wilson caused experts in the bureau of chemistry to investigate the subject and prepare Farmers' Bulletin No. 474, calling attention to the economic importance of painting farm buildings and equipment and giving details as to the cost, purchase and care of brushes, cost of the ingredients needed, how to mix and apply them.

Paint conveys to the casual reader the idea of a mixture of pigment with linseed oil, but the general conception of the word includes both white-wash and calcimine, but not varnish, and the bulletin gives several very valuable recipes for making both of those excellent coatings for both the out and inside of buildings.

The secretary, in addition to urging the proper use of paints for both useful and ornamental purposes, for he does not think anything too good or attractive for the farm homes, emphasized several precautions. "Do not use paint containing compounds of lead about stables or outhouses where the fumes from decaying organic matter occur, since these gases are likely to darken the lead paints. Do not use with lead compounds any pigment which may liberate compounds of sulphur. For example, ultramarine blue white contains sulphur in a form which it may be set free, is a beautiful and very permanent blue and may be used with zinc white, but should not be used with white lead or any other lead pigments. Prussian blue, on the contrary, does not contain sulphur and may be used with lead pigments. "Remember that turpentine and benzine are very inflammable, and especial precautions should be taken not to bring paint containing these substances near any light or open fire. "Many pigments are poisonous, and the workman should be particularly careful to remove all paint stains from the skin, and not under any circumstances allow any of it to get into his mouth. A man should not eat in the same clothes in which he has been painting, and before eating should not only change his clothes but wash all paint stains from his skin. It is not advisable to use turpentine or benzine in removing paint stains from the hands, but by oiling thoroughly with linseed oil, and then thoroughly washing with soap the paint may be removed, provided it has not been allowed to dry too thoroughly on the hands."

COLEMAN BORROWS $1600.

have personally profited in this matter. I am ready to admit my fault in the matter, but I am not a defaulter or a criminal, for in all of my dealings as equity clerk I have never intentionally taken a dollar not my own."

Mr. Coleman's statement followed a demand by Mr. Finley that he show where this money is.

Finley Makes Demand.

"I have been accused by my attorney in court and by your friends," said Mr. Finley to Mr. Coleman, "of taking this matter up in order to play politics. Since these insinuations have been made I have determined to get at the bottom of this matter. I want to know where this money is and I want to see the bank books."

Mr. Coleman then stated that he was not responsible for what his attorney had charged in court. Taking Mr. Finley and representatives of the Medford papers to the Bank of Jacksonville Mr. Coleman showed in the manner he had kept his account and the amount he had on hand when the demand was made on him by the state. He admitted that he had first borrowed $1000 to make the first payment of $9720 on the amount due and then in the presence of Mr. Finley and the newspaper men borrowed an additional $600 to pay the balance due. He then explained how he had kept his account.

Will Drop the Matter.

Following Mr. Coleman's statement Game Warden Finley stated that he had no desire to carry the matter further unless the state should demand interest on the money kept back. He investigated and found that Mr. Coleman had the money due the state for fish and game licenses for 1912 in a separate fund in the bank and that it was intact.

Mr. Finley then made the following statement to the newspaper men in the presence of Mr. Coleman:

"According to Mr. Coleman's statement he has deposited all of the state money in this fund under his own name which has made it a personal account. He has failed to remit. He says that he has checked it out for his own purposes and is forced to borrow to make up the deficiency when the state enforced a demand for it. Yet I can see where it has been somewhat the fault of his system. I do not care to carry the matter further unless the state should demand interest. But hereafter all monies due the fish and game commission must be kept in a separate fund and forwarded every three months.

"I wish further to state that my interest in this matter has been actuated solely by my desire to do my duty under certain instructions given me by the commission. That politics has had any hand in the matter as far as I am personally concerned I wish to emphatically deny."

THE RUE TEST
 Tried in Medford It Has Stood the Test.

The hardest test is the test of time, and Doan's Kidney Pills have stood it well in Medford. Kidney sufferers can hardly ask for stronger proof than the following:

Mrs. J. H. Baussum, Central Ave., Medford, Ore., says: "I was so bad with kidney trouble that I could not do my housework. My back was weak and painful and in the morning when I got up I was lame and sore. The kidney secretions were unnatural and my health steadily ran down until I was hardly able to get about. While in that condition, I read about Doan's Kidney Pills and got a box. I felt better from the time I commenced their use and it was not long until I was cured. I am in a position to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to anyone afflicted with kidney complaint." (Statement given Sept. 14, 1907.)

RE-ENDORSEMENT.

When Mrs. Baussum was interviewed on October 26, 1909, she said: "My former endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills still holds good. Since this remedy cured me I have had no further attacks of kidney complaint and I have enjoyed good health. I do not hesitate to say that Doan's Kidney Pills are beneficial for difficulties caused by weak kidneys."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

GRACE LOSES HIS REALTY COMMISSION

The supreme court has reversed the case of J. H. Grace versus R. S. McDowell. This is a suit brought by Grace to recover from McDowell $4025 alleged to be due him for commission on the sale of 630 acres of land in Sams valley, Jackson county, which McDowell sold a few years ago. The case was tried in Jackson county before Judge Hanna and was won by Grace. McDowell appealed the case to the supreme court and that court now reverses the opinion of Judge Hanna and gives the victory to McDowell. Gus Newbury is attorney for Grace and Neff & Mealey are McDowell's attorneys.
