

MERRY CAREER OF BULL DOG

Austin Corbin's Prize Terrier, Full of the Joy of Life, Slaughters Two Hogs, a $250 Terrier and a Prize Rooster.

"Bully" is the name of Austin Corbin's costly bull terrier—or rather was his name. Bully was white, full of the joy of life for himself but not for others. He has lost his life—but not in saving others.

"Bully" began his career on the Yankee creek ranch of his owner. He first won fame by valiantly assaulting, conquering and slaughtering two of a neighbor's thoroughbred hogs. This escapade cost his owner a pretty penny and when he left on a visit to New York, "Bully" left also to spend a vacation with Phil Hamil.

After a day or two spent in familiarizing himself with his new surroundings, "Bully" started in on a merry career. He visited George Carpenter's home and, not liking the appearance of Mrs. Carpenter's $250 prize Aberdeen terrier, proceeded to strangle it. When tired of playing with its lifeless body "Bully" started for home, but seeing a neighbor's prize Rhode Island Red rooster, took it along, despite the vigorous protests of its owner.

Meandering around the hills, Bully fell into a farmer's steel coyote trap. He was held prisoner for two days and when freed, Mr. Hamil tried to restrain his exuberance by attaching him to a log chain fastened to two flatirons. In the meantime Mr. Corbin had heard of the escapades of his pet, and the wires clicked with the following death sentence: "Please have Bully killed without delay."

JUBILEE SINGERS TO APPEAR TONIGHT

The Williams Jubilee singers—eight of them—who will appear at the Medford opera house tonight, are unquestionably the best colored musical company on the stage today.

Ed Andrews of this city, who is a dramatic and concert critic of known reputation, has heard this band of excellent singers and he is loud in their praise and wants all of his friends to hear them tonight and enjoy their splendid entertainment.

The entertainment is to be given for the benefit of the Associated Charities organization of Medford, which is another reason why all should attend who can afford to do so.
