WILL HARVEST 500 OR 600 POUNDS OF GINSENG ON PROSPECT RANCH

E. F. Graham, of Prospect, this county, who has made himself quite famous from the fact that he has successfully and profitably made the culture of ginseng a Jackson county industry of no small importance, was in Medford a few days ago.

In conversation with a Mail Tribune representative he stated that his first crop of ginseng roots would be fully matured and ready for market this spring, the roots being six years old. He expects to market between 500 and 600 pounds. That doesn't seem like much of a crop to wait six years for, but when it is told that the market price of ginseng is from six to eight dollars a pound the net returns will be fairly remunerative, and when again it is taken into account that Mr. Graham will have even a bigger crop to harvest next year, and each succeeding year thereafter, the enterprise gathers proportions that some of the best orchardists of the valley cannot look upon without feeling that there are others who deservedly command attention. The seed from this expensive plant sells for from $60 per pound, but for all these years instead of selling his seed Mr. Graham has been planting it and he now has one of the largest ginseng plots on the Pacific coast.

only last October returned to his old home in Indiana. He made his home when here with his daughter, Mrs. O. P. Ellis, on Catherine street. Mr. Fuselman was 86 years of age. During his brief stay in Medford he made a great many friends, all of whom will regret to learn of his demise and will deeply sympathize with his son and daughter in this city. He had a son and two daughters in Martinsville, Indiana.

George F. King, who a couple of weeks ago underwent a surgical operation at the Sacred Heart hospital, has so far recovered as to enable him to return to his home. The operation was performed by Dr. Pickel.

The usual Friday evening rehearsal of the choir of the First Methodist church of this city has been postponed until Saturday evening, on account of the lecture course entertainment, which will be held in the church on Friday evening. 306*
