WHITE SISTER A SUPERIOR PLAY

"The White Sister" at the opera house last night was one of the best plays of its kind that has been seen in Medford this season.

It is much superior to "The Rosary," a drama built upon a similar theme. The play is a dramatization of Marion Crawford's novel, "The White Sister." Plays of this class, however, are not quite in style now-a-days. They have given place to the more popular problem play. The play has the same faults that most of Mr. Crawford's novels have, namely, a predominance of sentiment. Mr. Crawford had literary genius, but his writing was all in a minor key, he had no sense of humor whatever. When his characters were not plunged in hopeless love they were nothing. The play, however, last night, was much enjoyed by the audience, as the many curtain calls testified. Miss Roberta Taylor, in the title role proved herself an emotional actress of ability. The cast was satisfactory and the performance smooth.

MERCHANTS TALK RAILROAD RATES

The Medford Merchants' association met in St. Mark's hall Monday night. It was the regular monthly meeting and there was a good attendance. The banquet was served by the ladies of the Episcopal church and was a splendid spread.

H. C. Garnett gave a very interesting talk on freight rates, and other matters of interest to the merchants and the community in general were discussed by various speakers.

Mr. Garnett called attention to the fact that since the Medford traffic bureau was established there has been a reduction of about 30 per cent and he urged the association to support work along these lines.

The reductions of March 15 do not apply on interstate shipments, but by billing such shipments to Portland and then to Medford the reduction can be taken advantage of. It is probable that some arrangement will be made with the retail merchants' association of Portland so that at a nominal expense Medford shipments can be handled in that city and forwarded to this city.

Mr. Garnett declared that a favorable decision of the interstate commerce commission was expected affecting shipments to Medford from San Francisco and until then shipments from the south can be routed to Portland via boat and reshipped to Medford at a material saving.

Northwest Livestock Show. PORTLAND, Ore., March 19.—The second annual Pacific northwest livestock show opened at the union stock yards here Monday and will continue until Thursday.

LEON IS HELD; PAL IS FREED

The county grand jury Tuesday returned two true bills against Charles Leon, one charging larceny and the other larceny from a building. His companion, Peter Lopez, was liberated by the grand jury.

These two boys are the Mexicans who recently confessed to a large testimony varied in many points from Leon at the time of the confession. It was stated that he alone was guilty and that Lopez was merely hoodwinked by him. On this showing Lopez was liberated.

The grand jury failed to return a true bill against James A. Power, charged with forging Ives Lammiman's name to a check. He was acquitted, the grand jury believing that he was not responsible at the time.

J. D. Blower, charged with embezzlement of school funds, was cleared by the grand jury, which returned not a true bill.

BELLINGHAM, Wash., March 19.—The largest real estate transaction of the year was completed today when Victor Roeder purchased the Beck theater and adjoining property for $200,000.

Potato Pancakes. (Recipe by Mrs. Helen Armstrong) Here is something in pancakes a little different from the ordinary: One quart of raw potato, either grated or run through a food chopper, add four eggs singly, beating each one in thoroughly. Add salt and pepper and a little flour, only enough to bind the mixture; the amount will vary owing to difference in potatoes. Fry by the spoonful in drippings or Cottolene and serve promptly.

Pancakes, doughnuts, fritters, etc., fried in Cottolene come out light, crisp, and free from grease. You will find it more satisfactory than lard—more economical, too—1912. Remember, there is no indigestion in Cottolene.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

Attention of owners of hotels and buildings used for purposes of public entertainment is called to violations of state laws regarding fire escapes. Penalties of $50 a day for violation are imposed for failure to provide at least one fire escape on each street front of a hotel building, easily accessible from each room. Death has already resulted in the city of Portland due to such violation. Action against owners for manslaughter has been brought. This is notice to owners of Medford property that complaint has been made of violations here and prosecution will result unless the law is complied with.
