EAGLE POINT EAGLETS.

(By A. C. Howlett.)

G. W. Nickell of Seattle, Wash., has a carload of household goods, horses, wagons, etc., come in on the P. & E. railway the first of the week and has the goods stored until he can haul them to his future home on Salt creek, near Lake creek.

Miss Emma Stewart and Mrs. N. R. Wiley of Seattle were among us Wednesday of last week soliciting subscriptions. They visited every family in our town, but found some of the housewives away from home, as that was the day the Aid society meets and they were away on that account.

C. E. Reed of Seattle has had a lot of household goods shipped out here on the P. & E. and stored them in the Sunnyside warehouses until he can get them hauled to his homestead on Osborne creek.

He has to re-roof his home before he takes his family into it. They are now in Medford.

The Pacific & Eastern Railroad company is unloading a large steel bridge at our depot on another car and it is supposed that it is designed for the new crossing of Butte creek, as it is thought that the company intends to make a change in the route and cut out the big curve they have to make north of the present crossing of Butte creek and save quite a distance in travel, as well as do away with the old wooden structure that they have in use at this time.

Mr. and Mrs. J. V. McIntyre, our banker, came over and took supper at the Sunnyside last Thursday evening. He reports his bank in a flourishing condition and business quite lively.

M. L. Dally, proprietor of the Model variety store and our phone man, tells me that there is to be a new line connected with our central office from up on Rogue river, on the east side, and that there will be eighteen phones connected, which will enable us to talk all along the line up the river.
