

BRILLIANT ARRAY OF ATHLETES WHO ARE CANDIDATES FOR THE AMERICAN TEAM AT GREAT OLYMPIC GAMES TO BE HELD IN SWEDEN

KELLY CHARGES GROSS ABUSES BY OFFICIALS

Prosecuting Attorney Mulkey and Coroner Kellogg Attacked for Alleged Use of Official Positions for Private Ends.

Predicating of Records for Future Damage Cases and Goulish Quarrel Over Corpses Among Charges.

Charging that District Attorney Mulkey uses his official position in coroner's inquests to predicate the record and lay the foundation for future damage cases in which he later appears as attorney for the claimants, and that County Coroner Kellogg uses his official position for the benefit of his undertaking business, censuring the conduct of the inquest over the bodies of the victims of the Jacksonville quarry explosion as grossly unfair and the verdict as totally unsupported by the evidence and unwarranted.

"If grave public functions of this character are to be subverted to personal interest the result must of necessity be abortive to evenhanded justice. The civil docket of the circuit court shows District Attorney Mulkey as the attorney of record for the claimant in a personal injury action against a local service corporation. As the district attorney at the coroner's inquest in that case he predicated the record upon which later in another capacity he instituted a suit in the sum of $40,000. Is Mr. Mulkey now representing any claimant against Twoby Brothers, or does he merely expect to?"

Ghoulish Fight Over Corpses

"Unfortunately for Mr. Bethel, superintendent of Twoby Brothers, he is not a politician and not familiar with the methods prevailing in Jackson county officialdom. Immediately upon learning of the deplorable accident to his employes his first thought was the proper care of the injured and an arrangement for a suitable disposition of the dead and without inquiring into the coroner's interest in the undertaking business he gave orders to the nearest undertaker to care for the dead, but unfortunately for Twoby Brothers this undertaker, by that strange lottery of fate that sometimes finds its culmination in coroner's verdicts, didn't happen to be the coroner's deputy and thereupon commenced a ghoulish squabble for the possession of the bodies that is still being waged and at this hour gives promise of a resort to legal process for the recovery of at least two of the bodies from the possession of the coroner's deputy.

Coroner Made Threats

"As a result of Mr. Bethel's unfortunate ignorance of the entanglements and alliances of personal and public affairs, Mr. Bethel was informed yesterday morning before the inquest that when he got him (Bethel) on the stand there would be something doing, or words to that effect.

"And thus is the horror of public justice befouled with the breath of prejudice and personal interest, what of its reflection the verdict?"

The testimony of Harry Canon, an eye witness to the explosion of Thursday at the Jacksonville quarry, in which he testified that he had seen Louis Bogdon, powderman and his assistant, Louis Lazovich, three minutes before the explosion tamping the 25-pound dynamite charge with an inch drill 18 feet long and the words of the fatally wounded Frenchman, Emery Vissino, "Jack, this is h—l, and it was the carelessness of the foremen and cheap powdermen that cause it all," was a bit of evidence introduced at the inquest.

The grilling of the witnesses began at 10:30 in the morning, and one by one, relatives of the deceased, friends and disinterested parties graphically related the gruesome details of the tragedy. During the day, Drs. Richardson and Porter told of the condition of the men when medical aid first reached them and of the impossibility to render aid.

Mrs. Ryan, mother of young James Ryan, the 17-year-old water boy, who lost his life, brought out the pathos of the case, which stood out when in a reply to the question of Coroner A. E. Kellogg as to whether she could positively identify the mutilated body that was lying in the hospital as her boy, she replied, "It did not look as he did, but it is my boy."

Employees of Twoby brothers stated that they had at all times endeavored to maintain a careful watch on the men and the foreman, C. W. Perry, declared that he had cautioned Bogdon the powderman against using an iron or steel rod in the loading of the holes. Mr. Perry was exonerated by one witness, J. A. Sharpe, he who had listened to the mortally wounded words of Emery Vissino, when at the conclusion of his testimony he stated that the new foreman Perry had been very careful in his work.

The technical discussions as to powders and their explosive tendencies took up a great deal of time and many of the mining men disagreed in some points. An 18-foot rod, bent and twisted by some irresistible force, was introduced and many of the mining men affirmed that they saw powder on the large end, as if the rod had been used for tamping.

When Harry Canon took the stand he affirmed that he had seen the two powdermen loading the hole from which the blast came, and that they were tamping it by hammering on a steel drill with a hammer. Cross examination failed to shake his story. The twisted rod he declared had been about two feet of the hole and when found was some 175 feet from the seat of the explosion.

SCORES IN BIG REVIVAL.

MISS MARIE DORO AS 'PATIENCE'.

In all their list of really inspired operas Gilbert & Sullivan never collaborated to better advantage than they did in "Patience." This fact was demonstrated when the famous satire was revived in New York with an all star cast. One of the hits of the performance is Miss Marie Doro, who, dainty and piquant, was a very pretty little Patience, with a small but flexible voice and a bewitching demureness.

MOTORCYCLES ARE USED FOR TOURING

That the motorcycle is becoming popular for long tours is demonstrated by the experience of H. S. Allen and C. E. Ferling who passed through here on two Flying Merkel motorcycles this morning.

The boys started from North Yakima and intend to continue through southern California and return to North Yakima.

They report the roads in fairly good condition, excepting the stretches near Cottage Grove and Wolf Creek.

The simplicity of the machine is shown by the facts that they had no trouble of any sort and did not even have to make any adjustments to the machines.

From current reports a large number of tourists will make the trip to Crater Lake and other points this season on motorcycle.

FULTON CALLS HENEY A CROOK AND A LIAR

PORTLAND, Ore., June 8.—Declaring Francis J. Henevy a "crook" and a "liar," C. W. Fulton, former United States senator, today is on record with a sweeping denial of the charges made by Henevy that Fulton and United States District Attorney McCourt conspired to discredit Henevy and the Roosevelt administration by endorsing the application for pardon of Wilard N. Jones, convicted of land frauds. Fulton said he had recommended the pardoning of Jones because he was satisfied Henevy had resorted to "crooked and infamous methods" to obtain his conviction.

Fulton added he believed evidence shortly to be given the public would prove he had been correct in his assumption.
