REAL COLORED MINSTRELS IN MEDFORD TONIGHT

Busby's celebrated colored minstrels arrived this morning and will give a performance in their big tent opposite the depot this evening, representing the New and Old South. This organization won many friends when here a year ago. The performance a meritorious one and highly commended by all who have seen it.

TYROLESE MUSIC AT THE MEDFORD ON WEDNESDAY

This wonderful chorus is a portrayal of a journey up the Tyrolese mountains. The journey is commenced far before dawn of day. The humming musical sounds of the winds through the narrow crevice in the ice, intermingled with the low, soft "poom, poom" sound of the falling snow from the high icicles to the deep abysses below. The pealing of the convent bell calling the monks to their early duties, and the sudden appearance of the morning sunbeams brightly stealing down the mountain, all make up the opening movement.

Medford theatre, June 12th. Popular prices, $1.00, 75c and 50c.

WHITE HOPE TO BOX IN MEDFORD

Word was received this morning that Soldier Elder, the "White Hope" who is preparing to meet Johnson will box here at the Nattatorium on July 4.

This man Elder has fought over 60 battles and is credited with 40 knock outs and never losing a battle. He is being backed by G. M. Anderson, the millionaire moving picture man of the Esanay Film Co.

The fight game is simply a rind with Mr. Anderson, who is quite a lover of the sport. His brother was the man that brought out young Corbett and young Peter Jackson, both of Denver, Colorado, and he himself was amateur champion of the state.

and he is of the same disposition being a lover of the manly art and all athletic games as he is an athlete himself. He will probably be here in person in his own private car. He is well known all over the country and is considered the greatest detector of cow boy life in the world.

The company of which he is a part have offices in every country on the globe. After seeking in every direction for a man to meet Johnson he finally came in contact with this Soldier Elder and is willing to back him as the "white hope" to meet Johnson.

It has not as yet been decided whether the fight will take place against Horn or Miller who are both spoken of as good men to meet the negro Johnson and retrieve the honor of the white race lost by Jeffries in his fight with Johnson.

HOWARD FINDS CABIN SOUGHT FOR SIX YEARS

Believes at Last That He Has Located Hiding Place of Vast Fortune Hidden From Sight the Past Fifty-Eight Years.

Riveting in interest, the wildest flights of the novelists' fancies of hidden treasure buried on the shores of the Spanish main by the swash-buckling pirates of old, a tale of treasure buried 58 years ago in Jackson county has come to light.

J. M. Howard, pioneer prospector, after a weary search of six years has located the rotting cabin on the banks of a wild mountain stream, which is said to have been the home of the men burying a vast treasure looted from the Adams Express company bank when it failed in San Francisco in the early 50's.

Now he needs but to find one Charles B. Owens of Michigan, who came to Medford six years ago and started Mr. Howard on his long search for the hidden cabin, which he has just found.

It was six years ago that Mr. Owens first appeared on the scene in Medford. Existing the aid of Mr. Howard, who knows every canyon and hidden vale in Southern Oregon, he started search for an old cabin said to be located on the banks of a mountain stream near a series of beautiful falls.

Mr. Howard knew of no such cabin but undertook the search. Continuing unsuccessful, Owens quit work, but in quitting he minutely described the cabin and its surroundings, and left. He stated that he had been given a description of the place by one of the men who had assisted in its building and in the burying of a vast treasure.

Owens knew the exact location of the treasure, but this information he did not divulge. The man who had told him of it died shortly after imparting the information to Owens.

Owens, on giving up the search for the cabin, left for Portland, his present whereabouts being unknown.

Chagrined by the fact that the mountains he knew so well had hidden at least one spot from him, Howard continued the search. A few days ago he stumbled onto it. Almost hidden by the growth of a half century, it lay rotting in exactly the position described by the side of the mountain stream pouring over a series of cascades.

The six-year search was at an end.

Mr. Howard is confident that in the neighborhood of the cabin is buried a treasure, which, when found, will make him independent for life.

In 1854 the Adams Express company bank at San Francisco failed as a result of it being looted by its officers. The looters attempted to flee by sea but the sailors on the small vessel took the loot, amounting to several hundred thousand dollars, from them and escaped on shore.
