THREE DAY WEEK

Market master Runyard acting on behalf of the farmers in the valley who are offering produce for sale at the public market and also for the good of the market will recommend to the city council that the market be opened for business but three days each week-Tuesdays. Thursdays and Saturdays, instead of each day in the week as at present

The farmers state that they can visit the market only every other day needing the intervening time to care for their gardens and to prepare produce for sale. On the other hand three days a week will be an advantage to the housewives of the city as they only buy every other day &: and by fixing specified days a great offering will be found at the market. The council is said to be faverable to such a change.
