

LIAR! LIAR! LIAR! YELL DELEGATES DURING DEBATE

ted to vote on the question of whether they shall be beneficiaries of the fraud which was committed in their behalf."

Taft's Side Set Forth

For the Taft men the argument was opened by W. T. Duvall of Seattle. He plunged right into the Washington contest, saying that every day the Washington convention was held Colonel Roosevelt charged that a plot was afoot to steal Washington from him.

"That statement was outrageously false," declared Duvall. He then repeated the argument made before the state convention in which it was claimed that the Roosevelt men who were in the minority bolted the regular convention and elected their delegates in a mass meeting.

"It is utterly false that the state of Washington was ever carried by Roosevelt. The controversy arose over King county, the largest in the state. The paid manager of the Roosevelt forces packed into a meeting of the county central committee 150 men appointed by himself in order to control the convention. They elected delegates at primary elections which were illegal. The Taft men refused to participate in these unlawful primaries at which there were 13,000 in a community having more than 100,000 votes.

"It was on that showing that the man from Oyster Bay claimed he had carried Washington by a vote of 8 to 1. Your state committee refused to seat these fraudulent delegates."

Keeping the Covenant

Henry J. Allen of Kansas for the Roosevelt forces swayed the audience at the outset when he said: "The thing I liked best in the speech of your distinguished temporary chairman was his statement 'We will keep the covenant of our fathers.'"

"That covenant was between the weak and the strong. I speak today for the delegates from Washington who were regularly elected, but who were ruled out by the national committee without their right to their seats even being ruled out by the national committee without being considered on its merits.

"I have 200 pounds of evidence that proves that the statements made by the opposition are untrue. This evidence was presented to the committee, but it refused to consider it at all."

A Pertinent Question

Allen then took up the Washington contest as presented by Senator Poin-dexter before the national committee, repeating all the arguments made by the Washington senator before that committee. Allen insisted that the Roosevelt conventions were regular and the Taft conventions are irregular. A delegate rose in the Colorado seats and demanded: "Will you support the nominee of this convention?"

A wild storm of protest came from all over the hall. Questions were being bandied back and forth. Finally Allen answered: "I want to support the nominee of this convention more than anyone else in the convention and I will support the nominee of this convention only if he secures that nomination honorably and it is not accompanied by fraud or thievery."

The Roosevelt men jumped to their feet with a wild yell and a fusillade of cheers. The Colorado and New York delegates were all shouting additional questions when a point of order was raised and again the many delegates could not hear the facts in the contests.

Allen continued with his analysis of the Washington cases. He took up the King county case, saying that Roosevelt received more than six thousand votes there.

Allen then declared that the state committee packed the roll of the state convention and issued tickets only to Taft men. "They were afraid that the men who believe in righteousness would stampede the convention for Roosevelt," said Allen, "and so they would not let delegates in. I have a picture here showing the door of the convention hall with its guard of prizefighters, who kept the regularly elected delegates out of the hall."

Hemenway for Defense

Former Senator Hemenway of Indiana was announced as the next speaker. He stated that he was not concerned with the fight between Roosevelt and Taft at this time but whether the temporary roll was properly made up. He reviewed the action of the national committee and argued that its action was proper and legal and in strict accord with the rules of the republican party. Hemenway held that, to assail the national committee for its decisions was unjust and unfair.

"There were thirteen members and one proxy on the committee who signed this protest and there were thirty-nine who did not."

"Who were they?" demanded Flinn. "I'll tell you," answered Hemenway. "You say that the majority of the committee have been repudiated by their own committee. Let me call your attention to the fact that all but two of the men who signed this protest have not been returned."

An Appeal to Passion

"Let me tell you Mr. Pennsylvania delegation" said Hemenway, "that you do not want to listen to an argument. You want to appeal to passion. You won't hear anything that tells the truth about yourselves. Now I don't say Senator Borah and Frank Kellogg were repudiated because they were not. They did not want to be returned, neither did Harry New and I am not anxious to accept the statement of T. Coleman Dupont of the powder trust as to who should go on the roll. I would rather take the word of Harry New and men like him."

"Shame on such contests," he continued. "They were paper contests anyhow."

Hemenway turned the laugh on the Roosevelt forces, repeating Colonel Roosevelt's statement that, despite the number of contests filed from Alabama, he only expected to win one.

Only Paper Contests

"The others were paper contests," he shouted, "to give certain people a chance to yell 'Fraud, fraud' where here was no fraud." Hemenway then assailed Cecil Lyon, for, he said, "driving away five-sixths of the republicans of Texas."

"What he wants," Hemenway declared, "is to reduce the republican party in Texas only to office-holders, so that he can perpetuate his own control." Hemenway insisted that Lyon voted counties in his state in which there was not a single republican vote.

"Lyon can no longer work his frauds on the republican national convention," said Hemenway.

Flinn shouted: "How about Penrose?"

"I'll answer you," said Hemenway. "You ask about Penrose. Well I'll tell you straight—it's Penrose above Flinn every time."

This assertion started another storm.

Flinn is Rebuked

"If the gentleman from Pennsylvania wants an honest hearing of his charges and his statements," said Root in rebuking Flinn, "he will conduct the proceedings in an orderly manner."

Root pounded for order, but Flinn insisted on recognition. Snatching a megaphone from a delegate he shouted:

"I rise to a point of order. The gentleman from Indiana is not speaking to the question."

Root did not hesitate a second. Pointing his gavel at the Pennsylvanian, he declared: "The gentleman from Pennsylvania will take his seat." Flinn stood his ground.

Smashing the table again and again with his gavel, Root answered: "The point of order is not well taken. The gentleman from Pennsylvania will take his seat. When quiet was restored the gentleman from Indiana will resume."

Flinn sat down. Hemenway ended his argument amidst rival cheers and boos from the two factions.

Record of New Jersey

George Record of New Jersey, argued for the Hague motion, discussing the Arizona and Indiana cases. In the argument he made the same statements he made before the national committee.

Summing up his argument, Record said: "The issue between us is clear. We desire to submit the question to the party voters. The opposition desires to submit this to a closed room where only a hand-

LIVED ON RAW EGGS

Mr. Richard's Experience With Different Diets. Peaches and Buttermilk for Three Years.

Cecilton, Md.—Mr. George Richards, of this place, during the past 12 years, has probably tried more different diets than the average person would ever use in a lifetime.

What he has to say about his experiments, must therefore be highly interesting to anyone suffering from indigestion or stomach troubles of any kind. He says: "For more than 12 years I suffered with stomach troubles, and paid hundreds of dollars for doctor bills and medicines. I was also operated on for piles.

I lived on dried peaches and buttermilk for nearly three years. The only thing that would not give me pain was raw eggs. I was a physical wreck. I could not sleep, and was as near crazy as a man could well be.

I must say that after taking two 25-cent packages of Theford's Black-Draught, it did me more good than all I ever spent for other medicines.

I have been working daily on the farm ever since, and I am as hard as iron. This purely vegetable remedy has been in successful use for more than 70 years. Try it. But be sure that it's 'Theford's.'" picked delegation can participate. It is simply in a nutshell, whether the bosses or the people shall rule."

One of the Wisconsin delegates protested that he could not hear and said the confusion was due to the fact that it was lunch time. He asked a recess but a bowl of "noes" came from every section of the hall and Record continued his argument, Root ruling the motion out of order.

You're A Liar!

The Roosevelt and Taft Indiana delegates became involved in a bitter debate.

William E. English of Indianapolis, called William Holton Dye of the eighth district a "liar," when Dye shouted his approval of the Record charges.

Former Vice-President Fairbanks interferred as the belligerents shook their fists over his shoulder and for a moment a free-for-all fight seemed imminent. Harry New at last got the men back into their seats.

The disturbance had its effect and a general argument began in several delegations which forced Record to interrupt his argument until order had been restored.
