UPHOLDS BRIDGE INJUNCTION

$8,030.67 has been received by the county from other sources than taxation, but it does not appear that this fund is available for road purposes. Obligation of County It also appears that the county court is about to incur an indebtedness of $33,000 for the bridge in question, but that the city of Medford and the P. & E. Ry. have agreed to assume $16,000 of this amount, leaving a balance of $18,000 for the county to pay. But it does not appear that defendant Perham is willing to look to the city and the railway company for the $16,000, and primarily it is the obligation of the county. Then conceding all that the defendants claim, there would be approximately $450 margin for the road fund collected for 1912 was to be used in redeeming the still outstanding county warrants, but conceding that all outstanding warrants, whether for road purposes or not, are general fund warrants. Defendants rely on Municipal Security Co. vs. Baker County for the proposition that the agreement by Medford and the railway company must be county as assets; but this was not conceded by the supreme court in the Baker county case, the court not deciding the point. And it would be a long stride from the concession that uncollected and delinquent taxes are to be counted as assets, to the point where the promise of a municipality or a railroad company should be considered as assets. If either the city of the railroad company should fail to pay the amount as agreed, the county would be compelled to pay the defendant Perham, and the total contract price becomes an obligation of the county. County and Road Funds Defendants contend, however, that all road warrants redeemed should be considered as redeemed from the general fund, as any indebtedness incurred, over and above the levy for road purposes for any year, would not be an indebtedness against the road fund for the next year, but against the general fund. But our supreme court in the case of Hoyt vs. Northrup 31 Or., 524, takes a different view of that matter, for in that case, it ordered the county treasurer to redeem outstanding road warrants from the road fund levied for the current year. That case arose under the laws of 1893, and the wording of that act is much more susceptible of the construction defendants contend for here, than section 6321 L. O. L. Before any money can be drawn from the county treasury, the clerk must issue his order therefor; and Sec. 2939 and 2961 provides how those orders shall be paid. And if the county has incurred indebtedness for roads and bridges, which indebtedness is now outstanding, any moneys coming into the hands of the treasurer from the 1912 road levy, would have to be used for the purpose of redeeming those outstanding orders. And any indebtedness incurred by the county for the bridge in question would have to be evidenced by orders issued by the clerk, and would have to be paid according to the priority of the line of presentment, and would be additional indebtedness, which the constitutional amendment is intended to prohibit. I will therefore deny the motion to create the restraining order. F. M. CALKINS, Judge. Card of Thanks. We wish to extend our hearty thanks to the many ladies of Medford who furnished flowers and gave their efforts toward making a success of greeting the Elks as they passed through this city. We wish especially to thank Miss Florence Vonning of the telephone office for the assistance she lent the committee in calling all of the ladies in town to request flowers. MEDFORD LODGE 1168 B. P. FOURTH OF JULY CELEBRATION IN NEW YORK

FIREWORKS IN CITY HALL PARK The safe and sane Fourth of July celebration prevails now in New York, and instead of the needless sale of fireworks to children the local government provides brilliant displays for the young and old folks in the public parks. At City Hall Park the latest display is seen, and thousands gather at that historic spot to celebrate Independence Day.

STEAMER RAMS BIG WARSHIP

NEWPORT, R. I., July 8.—Responsibility for the ramming of the battleship New Hampshire by the passenger ship Commonwealth has not been determined until the board completes its investigation. The owners of the Commonwealth say the battleship was anchored directly in the way. The ship's crew and commander insist that the fighting machine was anchored exactly at the spot ordered by the admiral commanding. There is no question that the real cause was navigation through a fog. Although ramming at reduced speed, the steel bow of the Commonwealth opened the stern of the New Hampshire above the protected deck and smashed both her gun stocks. Fortunately there were no passengers at the point of contact on either craft and there were no casualties.

BAIN GOT $400 FROM FRANKLIN

LOS ANGELES, July 8.—That Bert H. Franklin, agent for the McNamara defense, prior to the trial of the dynamiters, gave him $400, although it was expressly understood that his vote on the McNamara verdict could not be purchased, was the testimony of Robert P. Bain in the cross trial today. Bain was a juror in the trial of the McNamaras. Bain took the witness stand today, after his wife, who was scheduled to be the first witness when the trial was resumed, arrived in a hysterical condition because she had been delayed by a parade in the business section of the city. Mrs. Bain will complete her testimony when the state has finished with Bain.

BRITISH STRIKERS FACE STARVATION

LONDON, July 8.—Many women and children were today facing starvation when the telephone workers strike entered its eighth week. The strike leaders claim that a majority of the men are still out. Today all organized charities are unable to care for applicants, and the death rate, especially among the children of the lower districts, is growing rapidly and alarmingly. The reports of the board of trade show a falling off in the volume of the imports of more than $2,000,000 and its exports of upwards of $5,000,000 for the last month. The loss in wages to the strikers is estimated at $2,000,000.

SENATOR GORE VISITS WILSON

SEA GIRT, N. J., July 8.—Fatigued by an arduous Sunday, spent receiving guests and declaring that he was "away behind in his work," Gov. Wilson gave out word that he was "not at home" to anybody before noon. Governor Wilson this afternoon had appointments with Senator Gore of Oklahoma and W. F. McCombs of New Jersey, the latter of whom, it has been said, the governor favors for his campaign manager. It was understood that they were to consult with Governor Wilson about details of the national committee's meeting, scheduled for Chicago next Monday, since Governor Wilson has announced that he would attend the meeting.

IMPEACHMENT OF ARCHBALD

(Continued from page 1.) that Judge Archbald's sense of moral responsibility has become deadened. He has prostituted his high office for personal profit. He has attempted by various transactions to commercialize his potentiality as judge. He has shown overwhelming desire to make gainful bargains with parties having cases before him or likely to have cases before him. To accomplish this purpose he has not hesitated to use his official power and influence. He has degraded his high office and has destroyed the confidence of the public in his judicial capacity. He has violated the conditions under which he holds commission, and should be removed by impeachment. The thirteen articles of impeachment aim to enumerate as many distinct offenses upon which the committee asserts Archbald should be stripped of his judicial office.

PILES EXPLAINS SULLIVAN CASE

SEATTLE, July 8.—That former United States Senator Samuel H. Piles of Washington state, attempted to get Attorney John Perry to drop the impeachment proceedings against Federal Judge C. H. Hanford, and that the matter of Perry's arrest following the Dreamland Riot protest mass meeting, would be "fixed" up, was intimated this morning in questions propounded by Congressman W. I. McCoy, to Senator Piles, who was called by Judge Hanford's attorneys as a character witness to testify that Judge Hanford never was under the influence of liquor. Piles in cross-examination, admitted that he had called upon Perry within a month or so of the mass meeting. Piles also spent a busy half hour explaining the famous "Sullivan will case," in which his firm of attorneys discovered heirs in Ireland for a million dollar estate and received an enormous fee. Piles was asked by Representative McCoy to explain how Judge Hanford got jurisdiction of that case during one part of the litigation. Piles referred the committee to his former partner, James R. Howe, now attorney for the Seattle Electric company. Howe was called to testify today.
