TWO LOSE LIVES THROUGH HEROISM

SOUTH BEND, Wash., July 30.—E. A. Lucas, 51, of Lake County, Cal., and J. W. Rennels, aged 52 of Albany, Ore., are dead today, drowned while attempting to swim ashore for assistance to aid in the rescue of Mrs. F. A. Lucas, and Mrs. H. C. Courter and her two children, all of Portland, who were clinging to an upturned launch, which had been wrecked by colliding with a submerged fish trap piling in the Bear River Straits.

BECKER ACCUSED BY GAMBLER

(Continued from page 1.) Lewis); Louis Rosenzweig (Lefty Laode), and "Dago Frank" Crofici, the gangster, who rode to the Metropole in the mysterious gray automobile and shot down Rosenthal in cold blood as he came out of the hotel.

Rose swore that just as soon as Rosenthal was murdered he called Becker on the telephone and told him of the fact, saying: "My God, this is awful!" And Rose declared that Becker, over the telephone, replied: "Oh, don't worry. I will protect you. I will come right down."

Assured of Safety Rose and Webber both declared that when Becker came down town he stood with them on th street less than two blocks from where Rosenthal fell, and assured them that no trouble would come to them. "Don't worry," they swore he declared. "I am strong enough to take care of the police."

When Becker was arrested on the grand jury indictment in his police uniform, he was at once taken before Judge Mulqueen, and, on the grand jury indictment, was at once committed to the Tombs.

District Attorney Whitman declared today that the arrest of Becker by no means satisfied him. He declared certain evidence had been uncovered to show that a number of prominent sporting men, several police officers higher than Becker and certain politicians of known power are "involved in the system" which has been long suspected, but only definitely revealed in the Rosenthal killing.

No Immunity Proposed Whitman issued a statement today warmly defending the rank and file of the New York police department, which he asserted, is generally clean of all alliances of powers that prey. He asserted that in no circumstances would any of the four men who are alleged to have actually fired at Rosenthal be given immunity.

FANATICAL FOLLY.

BY THE fanatical folly of its leaders, the cause of equal suffrage in Great Britain has been set back and indefinitely delayed. A reaction of public sentiment has inevitably followed the campaign of criminal violence and the wanton destruction of property. The use of the bomb and the torch, as threatened by the more rabid will only further damage the cause.

The leaders in the movement in equal suffrage have demonstrated their incapacity to grasp the essentials of moulding public opinion and creating favorable sentiment. They have embraced the program of "direct action" championed by anarchists, nihilists, and I. W. W.'s, namely, namely of resorting to violence and vandalism, of defying law and order, of forcing the innocent to suffer—a program of force and intimidation and destructiveness, which always causes revulsion in the conservative Anglo-Saxon, and defeats the object of the movement, and brings the cause its contempt.

Lacie Ames Mead, a life long worker in cause of equal suffrage in an article in the New York Independent, in common with most suffragists, deplors the situation in England. She remarks:

"Two wrongs never made a right. Do not the condoners of vandalism show an astonishing incapacity to perceive relative values when they cry out that 'Parliament should remember that the blood of the martyrs is the seed of the church?' Pray when have martyrs ever thrown stones at the men who sent them to the rack and stake? Was it not their Christlike willingness to suffer without reprisal that placed the halo around their heads? The perverse ratiocination which creates euphemisms like the word 'protest' for throwing brickbats, which conjures up visions of thumb-screws and Iron Virgins by the word 'torture' as applied to furling nonpayment upon would-be prisoners and would-be suicides does not commend the militant sense of fairness to the public, which is inclined to ask: 'If they choose voluntarily to go to prison, why don't they act like good sports and not complain when they get what they want?'"

"Spite of our pity for their suffering and gratitude for the great help they earlier gave the movement, loyalty to our cause and love for certain militants who may be charming personally does not require us to repress our condemnation of recent methods, never deliberately employed by Englishmen to attain their vote and never by English women in attaining the political rights that they already possess, which include sitting on County Councils and being mayors."

The writer points out scores of legal methods the suffragettes could have employed to keep their cause before the public, such as every suffragist wearing mourning, with no ornament but a "Votes for Women" badge, to abstain from all amusements, to purchase from suffragists alone, to strike as in the play "How the Vote was Won" or a dozen other things that could have proven their devotion and retained for them the world's respect. She concludes as follows:

"At a time when the world generally is working to supplant the hoary old methods of force by the methods of law and order, it is singularly untimely for a cause which has been peculiarly based on right reason and right feeling to seek to reverse the process; and it is doubly culpable for those seeking to do this to fortify their conduct by false appeal to history."

American women have too much common sense to resort to the militant program of their English sisters and consequently, by merely appealing to the sense of fair play implanted in man, to the justice and righteousness of their cause, they are peacefully winning victory after victory as state after state swings into line to make this a government of, for and by all the people.

WOMEN OF FRISCO ALERT AS OYSTERS RIOTS CAUSED BY BULL PEN

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 29.—Burning criticism of the women of San Francisco is voiced here today by Mrs. Gertrude Atherton, the noted novelist and writer. In which she declares they have a low order of intelligence and have been petted and spoiled until their minds are about as alert as those of deep sea oysters.

In the same statement Mrs. Atherton lauds the women of Oakland, Berkeley, Los Angeles and other cities to the skies, asserting they are so keen on public questions and so earnestly devoted to their country that they are now willing to die for the right of suffrage—a right for which men have willingly died.

Mrs. Atherton is angry over the alleged lack of interest of San Francisco women in municipal and state questions.

COW SWALLOWED BOX OF JEWELRY GOLDEN ROD WINNER $15,000 STEWART'S CUP

JOLIET, Ill., July 29.—A box of jewelry stolen three weeks ago from the home of Miss Josephine Schultz here was found today in the stomach of a cow butchered at the Adler slaughter house. The cow came from a farm eight miles from Joliet and no clew can be found to trace the journey of the jewelry from the Schultz home to the farm. The box contained two brooches, one diamond ring and a gold watch.

WEST COMPLETES RIDE CROSS OREGON TO BOISE NEW MIKADO BEGINS WORK

BOISE, Idaho, July 30.—Governor Oswald West of Oregon, is today in Boise after completing his horseback ride across the state of Oregon, a distance of 460 miles. Governor Hawley of Idaho met the Oregon executive at Caldwell, but was forced to abandon his original idea of accompanying Governor West into Boise on horseback, on account of an injury received last week while on a fishing trip.

OREGON OFFICERS KEEPING QUALITY OF APPLES SHOWN FACE COURT MARTIAL

PORTLAND, Ore., July 30.—Facing court martial, which may result in their dishonorable dismissal from the service, the five Oregon National Guard officers who refused for a time to obey orders issued by General Marion P. Maus, U. S. A., are today in Portland. They are still under arrest pending official disposition of the charges against them.

The officers involved are: Mayor R. O. Scott, Lieutenant H. C. Bumbaugh, Captain H. E. Williams, Captain Walter L. Truax, Jr., and Lieutenant Richard Deich. According to one of the officers it was simply a case of the officers assuming full responsibility for the situation out of consideration for the enlisted men, who, he states, were physically unable to comply with the order to retreat.

IDAHO HOLDING STATE PRIMARY

BOISE, Idaho, July 30.—The second statewide primary is being held in Idaho today, the principal issue being the nomination of a republican candidate for governor. The democrats have no opposition within their ranks and their primary election will result in the nominating of Governor Hawley and a full state ticket. Contesting for the republican nomination for governor are: John T. Morrison and John M. Haines, of Boise; Paul Clagstone, of Clagstone, and Ben F. Tweedy of Lewiston. There are five candidates for the two seats in congress. The issue in the counties is the selection of legislators friendly to the candidacy of Senator Borah for re-election.
