

TEDDY'S SPEECH SCARES HORSE AT STATE FAIR

Frightened Animal Dashes Into Dense Crowd—Seven Seriously Injured and Thirty Others Trampled Under Foot Within Few Feet of T. R.

More Than 20,000 Gather at Minnesota State Fair Grounds to Hear Bull Moose Nominee

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 5.—More than 20,000 persons gathered at the state fair grounds at Hamline, near here, today, gave Colonel Roosevelt a tremendous ovation when the progressive presidential nominee started an exposition of his views on agriculture, education and the doctrines of the new party.

Colonel Roosevelt's address was marred in part by the dashing into his throng of hearers of maddened horse. Seven persons were seriously injured by the animal, and more than 30 men, women and children were trampled within a few feet of the ex-president.

Just as Colonel Roosevelt began speaking a runaway horse plunged into the crowd. The injured were taken to hospitals.

Roosevelt seemed unmoved by the tumult and continued his address in an effort to reassure the throng. The horse stopped plunging when the crowd became so dense that it could not proceed further and was dragged down by a dozen hands. None of the injured are expected to die.

BULL MOOSERS SPLIT EVEN FOR CONGRESSMEN

Five Progressives and Five Republicans, One Independent, Nominated in Congressional Contests in California—Three Democratic Contests

Taft Republicans Must Appear in Ballot by Petition but Not as Regular Republicans

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 5.—Complete returns received today from Tuesday's primary election show that the bull moose of California split even with the Taft republicans in the congressional contests.

Five progressives and five republicans have been nominated. In the first district E. H. Hart, who ran as an independent republican was named. He is claimed by the progressives also. There were democratic contests in only three districts.

A red-hot fight is sure to mark the state convention which meets in Sacramento September 24. The progressives will be overwhelmingly in the majority, and it is assured that they will name thirteen electors pledged to Colonel Roosevelt and Governor Johnson.

Taftites Stand Uncertain

Just what the stand the Taft people will take at the convention is a question. It has been suggested that the Taft hold-overs and the Taft legislative nominees get together in a convention by themselves, secure recognition from the republican national committee, name thirteen electors as the regular republican presidential electors, and then take the fight into the courts to keep the Roosevelt electors from going on the ballot. Attorney General Webb already has informed the Taftites that the only way they can get on the ballot legally is by petition, and that they can go on it under the designation "Taft republican," but not as "republican" unless they capture the Sacramento convention.

Orozco's Representative Asserts That Landing of Troops in Nicaragua Was Subterfuge to Back Up Wall Street Interests

Zapata Rebels Burn Merchant Alive to Celebrate Victory in Oaxaca and Practise Great Cruelty

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—That the state department has not given General Pascual Orozco and his Mexican revolutionists a square deal and that the landing of American troops in Nicaragua was a subterfuge to back up Wall Street interests was the declaration here today of Juan Pedro Didapp, American representative of Orozco.

Didapp, who was formerly Mexican consul general in Spain, said that the state department had listened to only one side of the Nicaraguan controversy and commended the stand taken by Senator Bacon of Georgia in demanding congressional investigation of President Taft's action in sending troops to Managua without first securing authorization from the house and senate.

The United States government, Didapp asserted, backed Francisco I. Madero in his warfare against Porfirio Diaz because Madero had the backing of the Standard Oil Company. For the same reason, he declared, the Taft administration sided with President Madero in efforts to suppress the Orozco revolutionists.

WEST GATHERS PROOF AGAINST LAW BREAKERS

Special Agent Busy Securing Evidence From Drunken Men—Ovation Given Governor at Mass Meeting of Citizens

Governor Warns Preachers That He Will Make Public List of Those Owning Disrespectable Places

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 5.—Developments in Governor West's anti-vice crusade in Portland today centered around the work of gathering evidence against lawbreaking saloonkeepers. City patrolmen detailed to act as "special agents" under the orders of Special Prosecutor Hurst started out in an effort to obtain information from drunken men as to where they got their last drink.

It was announced by Hurst that in every instance where an intoxicated person would tell where he obtained his last drink the saloonkeeper supplying him would be prosecuted under the law prohibiting the selling of liquor to drunken persons.

All those selling liquor to minors also are to be arrested.

That the majority of the citizens of Portland are lined up solidly behind Governor West in his campaign to stamp out vice in Portland was shown at a mass meeting held here by more than 3,000 persons. Governor West was given a tremendous ovation when he rose to address the gathering. He reiterated his determination to go ahead with his reform plans no matter what the cost. He warned the ministers present that some of them were likely to get cold feet before the campaign was over because he intended to make known the names of all who owned property used for immoral purposes regardless of whom he hit. He said some wealthy and prominent members of their congregations were involved.

Major Rhoades, the president's military aide, said that Taft's injury was not serious.

President Taft was able to walk to his automobile with the aid of a cane, and later hobbled through the station, irritably declining the use of a rolling chair. The president boarded his yacht, the Mayflower at Brooklyn at 3 o'clock this afternoon, starting direct for New London.

Charles D. Hillis, chairman of the national republican committee, and national treasurer Sheldon are expected to join the president on the trip and hold the first conference of the campaign.

Major Rhoades said that a week on the Mayflower would result in the president's recovery.

President Taft does not plan to return to Washington until after the election.

MOB CONFISCATES ENGINE TO LYNCH NEGRO RAVISHER

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., Sept. 5.—Confiscating an engine and several flatcars at Princeton today, 300 determined mountaineers ran the train at express speed and captured Walter Johnson, a negro accused of having attempted to assault Miss Nita White, a fourteen-year-old white girl.

Earlier in the day jail authorities who feared an attempt would be made to lynch their prisoner, spirited Johnson out of town on horseback and fled with him to the hills. The mob followed.

At Princeton the pursuers took possession of the engine and flatcars and overtook Johnson and his guards at Matoaka. They overpowered the officers and took the prisoner with them. The lynching of Johnson is now reported in progress, but confirmation of the report is impossible as yet.

Miss White was not injured, but is in a hysterical condition from fright.

JUDGE ADVOCATES PRISON TERMS FOR FOOD ADULTERATORS

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Criminal responsibility for the manufacturers of poisonous and adulterated foods was urged from the bench here today by United States District Judge Noyes, sitting in the case of Mrs. Sophia Kitterer against the Armour Packing Company.

"If there is no such law on the statute books," said Judge Noyes, "one should be enacted forthwith."

Mrs. Kitterer alleged she was poisoned by eating a pork product of the Armour Company, and brought suit for damages. Attorneys for Armour and Company pleaded that as the manufacturers dealt only with middlemen, they should not be held responsible for what happened to the consumer. This attempt to shift responsibility angered Judge Noyes, and his denunciation of manufacturers for foisting poisoned meat upon the public was one of the most scathing ever delivered in a New York court room.

WALDO CLEARED OF GRAFT CHARGE

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Written repudiation of statements he is alleged to have given in New York newspapers and in which he is purported to have said that he would force the resignation of Mayor Gaynor and Police Commissioner Waldo by producing evidence to show that they also were responsible for the alleged corruption prevailing in the New York police department, was made this afternoon by Cornelius G. Hayes, deposed inspector of police.

Hayes quailed under Waldo's questioning, and finally denied that he had threatened neither officials. This statement was then put in writing.

Hayes was first reduced to a captaincy and then suspended for failure to close disorderly houses in his district. He maintained he had written orders from Commissioner Waldo to let the disorderly houses alone. This charge was made in the presence of other police inspectors, who reported the statement to Waldo. This afternoon Hayes was summoned to Waldo's office and asked to produce the written orders from the police commissioner not to molest the disorderly houses. Hayes then admitted that he had received no such orders, and stamped as false the statement he is alleged to have made to other police inspectors and newspapermen.
