

SHERIFF AND MULKEY SEIZE BOOZE IN RAID

W. J. Brooks of Butte Falls Routed From Bed and Conveyed to Jacksonville—Eighteen Bottles of Beer Found—More Found at Depot.

Governor West May Demand Resignations of Town Officials for Failing to Enforce Law.

Because the town council of Butte Falls failed to take any action in regard to the "blind pigs" said to be flourishing in that town, Governor West instructed District Attorney Mulkey and Sheriff Wilbur Jones to proceed. The governor is said to be contemplating more serious action and demanding the resignation of the town officials for their inactivity.

Sheriff Jones and District Attorney Mulkey raided the establishment of J. F. Brooks at Butte Falls Friday evening and seized 18 bottles of beer. Brooks was placed under arrest and lodged at a late hour last night in the county jail at Jacksonville. This afternoon he will be given a preliminary hearing before Justice Dox at Jacksonville.

Following the raid of Friday night Sheriff Jones armed with a search warrant descended upon the freight house of the Pacific & Eastern railroad in this city Saturday morning and seized a barrel of bottled beer tilted to Brooks at Butte Falls. This will also be used as evidence.

There is some question as to the power of District Attorney Mulkey and Sheriff Jones to proceed against liquor sellers in incorporated towns, that being a matter of regulation for the town officials. They acted in this case upon orders from the governor.

It is believed that Governor West did not know that Butte Falls is incorporated, and that he will demand the resignations of the officials for alleged negligence when he determines this.

MAID CRAZED BY DRINK BEATS WOMAN

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 21.—After a furious battle with a crazed servant named May Morton, Mrs. C. Graves, wife of a prominent attorney, is confined to her apartment here today with blackened eyes and dozens of bruises and cuts about her neck and face.

The attack came without warning while Mrs. Graves was in a bedroom having a dress unhooked by a Mrs. Williams of Berkeley. Mrs. Graves had given a card party and reception to 100 women friends, all of whom had gone when the girl, May Morton, rushed into the room and struck her mistress to the floor.

Then, apparently bereft of her senses, the girl tore Mrs. Graves' $300 gown from her back, ripping it into shreds. The girl clawed and scratched and screamed like a maniac until Mrs. Graves finally sought shelter behind a locked door.

Neighbors hearing the commotion, then came to the rescue. Over-indulgence in the punch which was served the guests at the reception is believed to have been the cause of the girl's act.

The pathetic end of Miss Grange was the sequel to a unique case of motherlove brought to light when she was arrested recently for having mummified the body of her infant child, keeping it in her room in the tenement district for four years.

"I couldn't bear to part with the little darling," she pleaded to the magistrate before whom she was arraigned, "so I steeped it in vinegar when it died and had a man treat it." She told of paying the man half her wages in blackmail; how when she fell ill he threatened exposure, and of her desperate efforts to meet his demands. Unable to pay the "hush money," Miss Grange was arrested.

The informer was sentenced to five years imprisonment, while the woman gained her liberty.

OIL DISCOVERED IN PANAMA ZONE

COLON, Sept. 21.—That an oil field of immense size exists very close to the Panama Canal zone, and that the oil is so plentiful and of such good quality as to make it of great value, is the report current here today and said to have come from an authoritative source.

Gerard Hamilton, editor of the English section of the Panama City Star and Herald, is one of several prominent Panamans who have visited the new oil field.

According to Hamilton, the field is located in Colombian territory, not more than a day's journey from the canal zone. He says the oil actually oozes from the earth and flows into the sea.

The discovery of the field was made by a German, through gaining the friendship of the Indians.

USE TROOPS ONLY AS LAST RESORT

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Sept. 21.—Fearing that entrance of militia into Bingham, Utah, where nearly 6,000 workmen are on strike for higher wages at the mines of the Utah Copper company, would precipitate trouble, Governor Spry, Adjutant General Edgewood, Sheriff Sharp and officials of the copper company conferred here today on the situation and decided that troops would be used only as a last resort. Sheriff Sharp was given the responsibility of preserving the peace. He has today 300 armed deputies on guard in Bingham, and so far there has been no serious clash.

Twenty-five strikebreakers were taken secretly into Bingham today. All the saloons there are closed. This morning the sheriff's deputies entered the workings of the mines without molestation from the workers' pickets who are entrenched on the mountainside, the latter evidently being prepared to keep a promise made to Governor Spry that they would not start shooting.

In addition to the 300 deputies at Bingham, 15 of Sheriff Sharp's men are camped today at Barney, six miles from Bingham, to preserve order there.

MRS. HARRIMAN TO HELP PROBE ELECTION FRAUD

Many New York Witnesses Subpoenaed in Effort to Clear Up Extent of Corporations Financed Roosevelt's Previous Campaigns.

Standard Oil and Life Insurance Officials Summoned to Attend Senate Investigation of Graft Fund.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Determined to probe to the bottom the political contributions of trusts and other big corporations to past campaigns, the senate committee investigating campaign contributions may even call to the witness stand Mrs. E. H. Harriman to clear up, if she may, her late husband's dealings with Colonel Roosevelt and the late Cornelius N. Bliss, in his lifetime national republican treasurer.

New Yorkers Subpoenaed This was established here today when Sergeant-at-Arms Randsdell returned from New York with the news that he had subpoenaed, Secretary C. T. White, General Counsel Elliott and Director Libby of the Standard Oil Company; John C. McCall of the New York Life, Cornelius N. Bliss, Junior, son of the late treasurer, and C. C. Tegehoff, private secretary to E. H. Harriman.

It was stated that Mrs. Harriman had not yet been subpoenaed, but that she is very likely to be called to tell the senate committee what she knows of her late husband's political contributions. Miss Lizzie Bliss, daughter of the late republican national treasurer, is also likely to be asked to testify in the senatorial inquiry.

It is probable that John D. Archbold and William Rockefeller also will be called to testify.

Bliss Also Wanted The subpoenas served in New York require the production of all books, letters and other documents regarding contributions to campaign funds. Cornelius Bliss Junior, will be asked to produce his father's records regarding the Harriman and Standard Oil contributions to political funds.

The McCall subpoena indicates that an investigation of life insurance companies' contributions to political war chests is to be made. Heads of other insurance companies probably will be called later.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 21.—Three Chinese girls rescued here by police detectives by hacking down a steel barricade door of a secret hiding place, are held today at Angel Island by the federal authorities.

Detective Sergeant Arthur Lane of the Chinatown squad and Captain Frank H. Ainsworth, chief inspector of the immigration service, conducted the arrests.

CLAIM GLAVIS ACTIVE AGENT OF WENDLING

Hero of Ballinger Controversy Accused of Using His Position to Assist Weed Lumber Company in Efforts to Grab State School Lands.

California State Conservation Agent Alleged to Be Altogether too Friendly With Timber Barons.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 21.—Louis R. Glavis, once-hero of the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy, now secretary of the California conservation commission, today is again in the limelight of publicity, this time as the center of a hot row stirred up among the members of Governor Hiram Johnson's political family here and in San Francisco.

On one side of the war are arrayed Surveyor General Kingsbury, and all his deputies, Attorney General Webb and State Forester Homans, while with Glavis are Milton T. U'Ren, late secretary for the state conservation commission; Chairman George Pardee of the commission, and presumably Congressman William Kent. Thus far Acting Governor Wallace has kept out of the row, but others of the Johnson administration are likely to be involved.

Glavis Named Wendling Kingsbury charges that when Glavis appointed George C. Wendling, president of the Weed Lumber company and the "match box trust" as one of the delegates to the national conservation congress at Indianapolis Glavis acted as the friend of the "special interests" rather than of the state of California. Glavis and U'Ren reply that while Wendling and other lumbermen were appointed, these men are no longer enemies of the people, but are desirous of co-operating with the conservation commission in saving the forests to posterity, and that, anyhow, the state of California has practically no interest in either lieu lands or forests, as all except the national grants are owned by the big corporations.

Favored by Lumbermen Kingsbury comes back with all manner of charges, including one that Glavis and U'Ren fought the passage of House Bill 19344, which bill was designed to prevent the preferential listing of certain school lands in the interests of the big lumber barons.

Kingsbury says that Glavis and U'Ren fought this bill in Washington, but unsuccessfully as the bill was passed. U'Ren admits that he and Glavis did not believe the bill was "practicable" or of any benefit to the state, but said that they did not oppose it. U'Ren also admitted that he wrote a letter to the interior department urging the release of certain lands belonging to the Weed and West Side Lumber companies on the ground that the companies would suffer financial loss if the lands in question had to take their turn with all other cases of like nature. But U'Ren says his motives in doing this were pure and in the interests of the people.

Kingsbury laughs at U'Ren's contention and says both U'Ren and Glavis are altogether too friendly with "big business" and that no matter if some of the big lumbermen are good Bull Mooseers, they are not fit persons to represent California at any conservation congress.
