NET TIGHTENS ON SPANOS

had been lying to the officers and that he had the knife on Sunday which was later found at the scene of the crime.

The finding of the watch and the blood stained money is due to the great anxiety of Mike Spanos in his present predicament. On Wednesday afternoon he called Acting Chief Cincade into the city jail and tendered him a five dollar bill. This bill was folded in a compact manner and looked as if it had been in that condition some time. Spanos stated that on Monday he had seen Bert Cummings place something that looked like gold on a shelf above the dish-washing stalls at the Hotel Medford and that at the same time he dropped the bill. Thereupon the officers went to the Hotel Medford and failed to find anything on the shelf. They then interviewed Cummings who vehemently denied that he knew anything of the matter and insisted that he be allowed to confront Spanos. He was taken to the city jail, where Cummings accused Spanos of dragging him into the case in order to conceal his guilt. Spanos then insisted that he had told the truth and that if the shelf was searched something would be found.

Find the Watch

It was firmly believed that Spanos was lying again, as he was caught in several like lies but this morning the officers determined to have another look. In making the search the watch was found. It is a 17-jewel Elgin and bears on the case the name Fred Whit, a Gold Hill section boss who sold the watch to the murdered man. It was under the paper covering of the shelf directly above the place where Spanos works. He had evidently placed it there Monday and wishing at this time to throw the guilt elsewhere swore he saw Cummings place the watch on the shelf.

The officers then looked again at the bill which they had not examined and on it are several blood stains. Spanos had this bill in a secret pocket of his coat and it was overlooked when he was first searched and lodged in jail.

The officers on Wednesday night succeeded in connecting Frank Parker, yardman at the Hotel Medford with the case but they do not divulge the nature of the evidence held against him. He is now lodged in the jail at Jacksonville pending further research.

Spanos preliminary hearing will come up in the justice's court this afternoon. He has retained DeArmond & DeArmond to defend him.

The Christo brothers and two other creeks held as suspects were released on Wednesday by Sheriff Jones.

REPUBLICAN SPEAKERS TRAIL WOODROW WILSON

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—A corps of republican speakers, domiciled in a special car, are on the trail of Woodrow Wilson in New England today for the purpose of answering the democratic presidential nominee's tariff talk. Among those in the party are Secretary of Commerce and Labor Congressman Gillette of Massachusetts and former governor Gilbert of Rhode Island.

POOR MEN NEEDED

ected industries, the lowest of the nation. The Lawrence strike showed the regard the tariff beneficiaries have for labor, when an entire family is forced to work long hours to secure a bare sustenance, and the efforts of mothers to send children away where they could be fed was met by brutal attacks of the police upon the mothers. Trust magnates ordered the police to beat the mothers upon the breasts, where the injuries would not show, rather than elab them over the head, where the blood spilled caused riots."

Back to the Faro Dealer

La Follette was quoted to show the over-capitalization of industries—the enormous amount of watered stock forced upon the people to pay interest upon. "Better go back to the pioneer days of the faro dealer, where a man had one chance in twenty of winning, than play the game of the bunco kings of finance, where the chance is less than one in a hundred" he stated.

Talks of Opponent

"It is to the law-makers, to both houses of congress, that we must look for a correction of evils and the people must be very careful as to whom they select, they must be men of backbone with the courage of their convictions, men who have been tried and found true.

"The people must choose between my opponent, Ben Selling, and myself, to represent them in the senate. I believe that I am the best qualified of the two—not but that there are thousands of others as well or better qualified, but that I happen to be the nominee.

"I have known Mr. Selling 55 years, and have nothing to say against him. He is honest and honorable in his business dealings and has amassed a fortune along legitimate lines.

Tom Kelly, who has been here visiting his brother, E. E. Kelly will leave tonight for his Iowa home.

ate lines. He owns a skyscraper and six clothing stores. I am a poor man, and Mr. Selling, by inference, says that because he is rich and I am poor, he is better qualified to look after the people's interests than I am.

Deserted by Wealth

"I believe the contrary is true. When mayor of Portland, I found that whenever I opposed special interests in any grab, that the first to desert me were the prominent and wealthy men upon my executive board, where their interests embarrassed them in any stand against other interests. Finally I was left alone, with three poor men on the board—and we stopped the grabbing of streets and contract steals.

"It will be the same in the United States senate. Our present troubles are due largely to the fact that the senate has been controlled by rich men. The rich man's interests are not the poor man's. We need poor men there also. I am afraid that when Mr. Selling, with his extensive interests, gets into the senate, other big interests will politely instruct him how to vote on essential questions—and he will have to obey for if he don't they will crush him."

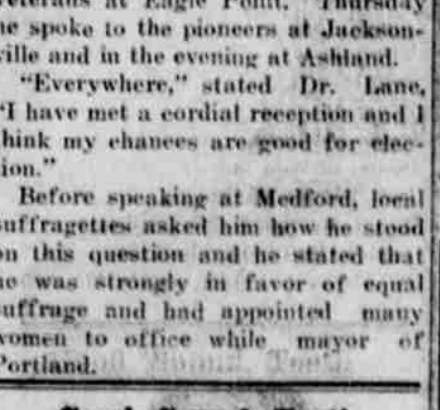

Favors Equal Suffrage

During the day, Dr. Lane spoke at Gold Hill, Central Point and to the veterans at Eagle Point, Thursday he spoke to the pioneers at Jacksonville and in the evening at Ashland.

"Everywhere," stated Dr. Lane, "I have met a cordial reception and I think my chances are good for election."

Before speaking at Medford, local suffragettes asked him how he stood on this question and he stated that he was strongly in favor of equal suffrage and had appointed many women to office while mayor of Portland.
