EAGLE POINT EAGLES

By A. C. Howlett

August Adler of Lake Creek was in town last Monday after I wrote to the Mail Tribune.

In looking around town for Eagles I found Mrs. Quackenbush and W. H. McKelvy buying supplies. Mr. Kelvey says that they are going to commence packing apples the 1st of October on the Corbin orchard and that this fall he expects to move to Table Rock and take charge of a part of the Washburn orchard that has recently been sold.

Pete Betz brought a fine lot of hogs for our market last Monday.

George Smith of Medford came out and was the guest of our lumber man, Mr. Wisner, Monday.

Ben Dropsy and family were in town visiting Mrs. B.'s mother, Mrs. L. E. Nichols, last Monday.

Mr. Gregory, the county road boss, came in Monday with his force to grade out main street.

When I closed my last letter I said that the members of the G. A. R. had begun to arrive and that day, and the day following the following named persons registered at the Sunnyside: R. F. Pike and wife, post commander department of Oregon; Wm. Lindsay, Ashland, Ore., 51st Wis.; W. W. Newton, Ashland, 86th Ill.; John B. Runnall, Jacksonville, Ore.; A. J. Smith, Gold Hill; Rev. W. C. Reuter, Newburg, Ore.; J. J. Grimm, Central Point; Abe Thomson, Jacksonville; W. S. Hoagland, Central Point; Geo. Lemon, Gold Hill; J. W. Hicks, Ashland; S. M. Neelon, Table Rock; Himes Strus, Jacksonville.

The following were from Central Point and on Tuesday a part of them rendered a play entitled, "The Suggles Family." The following named took an active part in the play. Rev. H. N. Aldrich, pastor of the Methodist church of Central Point; Miss Holmes, Audrey Holmes, Gladys Holmes, Verda Timmins, Inez Austin, Miss Dunter, Miss Glatson, Fern Beebe and Saide Beebe and W. C. Leever. Miss Mae, Mrs. Elliott, Mrs. Rostel, Helen Price and Wm. Abolts came along to have a good time with them.

Tuesday was the day in the encampment set apart for Central Point. In the afternoon Rev. Aldrich gave us a fine address and at the close of it was requested to render one of the comic pieces that he is noted for rendering, and he gave us one that was simply fine and his manner of rendition showed conclusively that he knew something of the art of elocution, for he kept the audience laughing most of the time. He was encored and then he gave us another, but the crowning act was in the evening. The Central Point brass band came out and before the meeting was called to order played several fine pieces. They were invited to seats on the stand and the program commenced with music by the band. Then we had the "Star Spangled Banner" by the audience, etc. Mrs. J. B. Holmes gave us a recitation, then singing by Rev. Aldrich, etc., followed by the play of the evening. When the play was announced the "Widow Suggles" marched onto the stage with her nine daughters, with all their paraphernalia, and they soon brought down the house. The operetta was as well rendered as anyone could wish. Rev. Aldrich was called and recalled, each time giving us something to keep us awake. When he told us of the old maid, and the history of the cow he slapply brought down the house and there was one old couple, though, that felt badly hurt. The old lady said: "Well, did you ever, to think that a preacher would get off such stuff as that! Why, he can't be a christian, and him a preacher. Why, he can never get to heaven. Well, I never heard of such ridiculous conduct in my life. Why, he can't never go heaven. Well, well!" and she and her poor husband seemed so badly hurt over it that some of us soft-hearted folk felt sorry for them. But I must close for this time and try to catch the mail with this letter.
