PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 28.—Following the arrest of Margaret St. Clair, chorus girl at a Portland theatre, on a charge of attempting to murder Mrs. C. E. Dickes, by putting poison in her medicine, Dickes, the injured woman's husband, is held in jail as a material witness in default of the $10,000 surety required by the court to insure his appearance in court. Miss St. Clair was held by Justice Olsen to answer to the grand jury. She also was lodged in jail on her failure to produce $6,000 bail. Dickes, a piano player at the theatre where Miss St. Clair was employed, admitted his intimacy with the chorus girl. Both he and Miss St. Clair were given a severe castigation by Justice Olsen.

Mrs. Dickes, crying bitterly, pleaded for her husband's release, and on being refused said she would make an effort to raise bail for him. She said she would obtain a divorce but did not want to see the father of her child behind the bars.

Dr. David Nelson, family physician of the Dickes, testified Mrs. Dickes had been poisoned three times since May.

Testimony was introduced to show that Miss St. Clair had been near the Dickes' home inquiring its exact location.
