RED SOX WIN EXCITING GAME WITH GIANTS

Young Joe Wood Hero of the Day—By Narrow Squeak Boston Finishes Eyelash Ahead of New York—Rally in Ninth Inning.

Big Jeff Tesreau Loses Spring in Seventh Inning and Red Sox Pile Up Three Runs.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Joe Wood of Boston delivered the goods today. Result: Boston, 4; New York, 3. By one of those very narrow squeaks which make baseball, Boston finished under the wire today an eyelash length ahead of the Giants, but the distance was sufficient.

Wood Hero of Game Young Joe Wood, making his initial world's series bow, the same as Tesreau, supplemented his arm with his head to better advantage. By using better judgment and saving something for the last, the smaller man managed to go the distance.

Nerve Racking Moments Never in the history of baseball were more nerve-racking moments known than in the last inning of the game, and when it was all over the crowd simply wilted.

First Inning Boston—Hooper walked. Yerkes out, Doyle to Merkle. Speaker out same way, Hooper going to third.

Becker personally is taking a prominent part in passing on prospective jurors. His attorneys invariably act on the accused man's suggestion and the prisoner is also closely following District Attorney Whitman's questions.

Five jurors were chosen today when the luncheon recess was called.

The orator of the day at the fair grounds, J. Frank Burke of Portland left early for Armageddon to battle for the Lord and votes. A. E. Clark will likewise battle but tonight and at the Natatorium.

30,000 FANS SEE CHAMPIONS BATTLE AT POLO GROUNDS

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Wearing the same old uniforms that they wore throughout the 1912 campaign, the Boston Red Sox and the New York Giants appeared on the Polo grounds about 1 o'clock this afternoon ready and eager to begin the battle for the world's baseball championship.

It was exactly 12:48 o'clock when the New Yorkers started from their clubhouse. Thirty thousand voices joined in a rousing welcome. Five minutes later the Boston Red Sox, led by Manager Jake Stahl, appeared.

Wear Old Suits Last year the Giants started the series in new black broadcloth suits. Today both teams put on no frills, but wore the same old clothes in which they fought their way to the top in their respective leagues.

Mayor Gaynor of New York and Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston were among the most prominent "rooters" present. The mayor of "beantown" is an ardent rooter for the Red Sox, but he quit the rooters' brigade long enough to pose with New York's mayor for several photographs.

JOKE ON DEPEW GAVE UP $10,000 TO LOSE HIS TOGA

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The doors to the Ananias Club were opened before the senate campaign contributions investigating committee here today by Wayne MacVeagh in an attempt to rush Charles Edward Russell, the socialist candidate for governor of New York, through as a charter member.

Testifying before the committee yesterday, Russell declared, and his testimony was corroborated by Welliver, that MacVeagh had said he was present when the second contribution was demanded.

Repudiates Welliver's Story Today MacVeagh testified that he never saw Morgan telephone to anyone, and denied that he had Morgan had ever discussed campaign contributions. The witness also repudiated Welliver's story by declaring that he never had been in the habit of giving out interviews.

"No such event," declared MacVeagh, "ever happened in Morgan's office. I asked Welliver to come and see me. I told him I would talk to him only as a gentleman and not for publication. I did not tell him of anything that occurred in Morgan's office."

"I was in the office of H. McK. Twombly when the latter was called to the telephone. A man wanted to talk to him in the long distance booth. He returned and said he had talked with Harriman, who had been called to Washington and who found that Roosevelt was anxious to raise considerable funds. Harriman agreed to raise $240,000 and expected Twombly to give $50,000. He said Harriman intended to give $50,000, and Twombly led me to believe that Morgan was to give $50,000. Twombly said there was nothing to do but to meet Harriman's request."

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 8.—When the trial of the forty-seven members of the International association of Bridge and Structural Ironworkers, charged with illegally transporting dynamite, was resumed today before United States Judge Anderson more than fifty hotel clerks and hotel attaches were on hand ready to testify. The government, it was learned, through the hotel employees plans to trace the movements of the defendants during the time they are alleged to have been involved in dynamiting.

Miller discussed McManigal's campaign in New England. He charged that Frank Higgins and Michael Young accompanied McManigal to Springfield where the new municipal tower was dynamited April 16, 1911. He asserted that Higgins boasted that the explosion cost the Boston local $300. Then, he said, Young and Higgins went to Hartford and wrote John J. McNamara that they had been there a week laying the foundation for an alibi.

MISSING LISTS CAMPAIGN GIFTS LOCATED AT LAST

TACOMA, Wn., Oct. 8.—Locked away in a packing case in a Chicago warehouse are duplicate lists of all contributions received by the republican national campaign committee during the campaign of 1904, and copies of reports which passed through his hands. Partial list of contributors for almost ten years are included.

This was the gist of a statement made today by Elmer Dover, formerly secretary of the national republican committee who was interrogated today in federal court by United States Senator Wesley L. Jones, a member of the sub-committee now engaged in investigating campaign contributions.

Dover declared that while secretary of the national committee, Treasurer Bliss turned over to him lists of the contributions and contributors and that he had copies made. He said if the investigating committee desires he will produce the papers.

Gave $15,000 Himself Contained in the documents in storage is information which is greatly desired by the Clapp congressional investigating committee now in session at Washington, which are expected to shed light on many disputed questions concerning contributions to Roosevelt's 1904 campaign.

Dover testified that he had personally contributed $15,000 to the campaign fund of 1904, for the estate of Mark Hanna. This was the largest single contribution he had personal knowledge of.

Dover denied that he had been offered a cabinet position by George W. Perkins if he would support Roosevelt in the present campaign or that he had been offered $50,000 to take charge of the campaign.

Manager Byllesby Company Dover is now general manager in the northwest for the H. M. Byllesby company of Chicago, which controls most of the gas companies in this section. The investigation was conducted at the request of Senator Clapp upon telegraphic communication received by Senator Jones.

A message, alleged to have been received here from Los Angeles, read:

"Have positive information that the launch Sampson II is on way to Oakland Creek to land Chinese. Believe Gregory and Dave Main on board. Will probably visit with relative, George Thomas, engineer, address unknown; see directory."

The boldness and daring of the smugglers astonished the authorities, particularly in face of recent arrests and convictions. It is said the men received $10,000 for their cargo.
