

ELEVEN-INNING GAME AT BOSTON CALLED ON ACCOUNT OF DARKNESS WITH SCORE 6 TO 6

TIE SCORE IN DESPERATELY FOUGHT GAME

Three Pitchers, Collins, Hall and Deident Occupy Slab for Boston, While Mathewson Pitches Entire Eleven Innings for New York.

Score Tied in Eighth Inning and Again in Tenth—Neither Side Scores in Eleventh.

(By Grantland Rice)
FENWAY PARK, BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 9.—One of the most desperately contested games of a world's series ended here this afternoon in a tie score when darkness forced the closing of the second contest in the world's baseball series for the championship between the Giants and the Red Sox.

Three pitchers—Collins, Hall and Deident—occupied the slab in turn for the home team, while the veteran Mathewson bore the brunt of eleven innings of desperate fighting, winding up the afternoon's work by retiring his last three opponents in order.

Giants Start Badly
The Giants got off badly, putting Mathewson in a hole in the first inning, when the Sox piled up a three run lead.

Stahl's men continued in front until the eighth inning, when the strain proved too much for Collins and the Giant stick welders forced in three runs, took the lead for the first time and sent Collins to the bench.

The veteran Mathewson's victory was short-lived, however as a double and a single in the Sox's half put them on even terms again. The ninth was a blank for both sides, but in the tenth the Giants went into the lead with a margin of one run, which the Sox promptly duplicated in their half.

Called After Eleventh
Neither scored in the eleventh and the umpires called the contest and

BERT CUMMINGS AGAIN FREE MAN

Bert Cummings arrested charged with complicity in the murder of George Dedaskalons, a Greek, was discharged by Justice of the Peace Taylor Tuesday afternoon following a lengthy hearing. W. P. Menley defended Cummings and had little difficulty in freeing his man.

Mike Spanos bound over for the murder of Dedaskalons was the only witness against Cummings. On the stand as chief witness he further entangled himself in connection with the crime and told a story different in several particulars from the one he had previously told the officers. Cummings proved an alibi by his wife. The officers are satisfied that he had nothing to do with the crime but that Spanos endeavored to throw the blame on him in an effort to free himself.

Dale charges that Hammond pays as low as $1.50 a day and charges high fees for hospital service, transportation and other features of life in the lumber trade.

BROTHER CHARLES GAVE FORTUNE TO HELP PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Charles P. Taft of Cincinnati, brother of the president, told the senate campaign contributions investigating committee this afternoon about his subscriptions to the republican campaigns in 1904, 1908 and 1912. Taft testified that he contributed $159,339 to his brother's campaign in 1908, and that he had given $231,592 toward President Taft's pre-convention campaign last spring. Four years ago, he said, he gave the national committee, $324,339, of which $150,000 was later returned by Chairman Frank H. Hitchcock, now post master general. Chas. P. Taft said that in 1904 he contributed $5,000 to the Roosevelt fund, and that in 1908 he gave $44,926 to the republican fight in Ohio.

Dan R. Hanna, son of the late Senator Mark A. Hanna, was the next witness. He said he gave $177,000 to Colonel Roosevelt's campaign this year; $50,000 through progressive headquarters in New York, the same amount through State Chairman Brown of Ohio, and $77,000 exclusively for the Ohio campaign. State Chairman Brown of the Ohio progressive committee, testified that Hanna was the only man who contributed to the Ohio campaign.

Former Senator Fred T. Dubois, who managed Speaker Clark's campaign the next witness, swore that the contributions he received aggregated $45,948. William R. Hearst, Dubois said, gave $8,500 and E. L. Dahoney of California $2,500.

FEW SOLDIERS AT ARMAGEDDON

Where, oh where did the Bull Moose go?
Oh where, oh where, did they lurch?
The beef was there, and A. K. Ware,
But where, oh where, was the bunch?
—Adapted.

Twenty-seven men, thirteen women, five orators, Ed Root, Snyder and the band attended the "Barbecue and Big Political Round-up" at Armageddon Tuesday where the Bull Moose planned to battle for the Lord, and incidentally votes. The battle was called off owing to a lack of soldiers, so the 27 men, 13 women, Ed Root, Snyder and the band listened to the five orators orate, and it is some job, too, to talk to a bleak and empty grand stand through which the north wind moans its discontent at Things in General.

The scene at Armageddon was not an inspiring one. As one came through the huge gate with its plaster of politicians' mugs and appeal for votes, one wondered if a mistake had not been made as to the exact whereabouts of the now historic Armageddon. In the foreground, however, Frankie Edwards was to be seen,

Declares It to Be a "Local" Attraction and That He Would Again Vote Against an Appropriation to Open It to the Tourist Travel.

Says He is a "Standpat Republican"—Said Jonathan Bourne is "Greatest Scoundrel in the State."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Former United States Senator Nathan B. Scott of West Virginia was the first witness called today when the senate campaign contributions committee resumed its probe into contributions to republican, democratic and progressive campaigns. Scott testified that in 1904 he asked Cornelius N. Bliss, then treasurer of the republican national committee to get the Standard Oil to contribute. Bliss said the company had already contributed $100,000. Early in October, the witness said, he was in republican headquarters when the telephone rang. It was a long distance call from the White House, Scott said. A voice asked if Higgins was endangered in the fight for governor of New York. Scott said that he answered "yes."

Ben Selling, leading clothier, and candidate for United States Senator, Tuesday evening in an interview went on record in regard to several matters pertinent to Medford and Jackson county. Chief among the matters on which he expressed himself was that of the Crater Lake road bill, passed by the legislature nearly four years ago, appropriating $100,000 for the construction of a road to Crater Lake, opening that great scenic wonder to the tourist traffic of the world. Mr. Selling voted against the measure.

Would Repeat Action
"I voted against the Crater Lake road bill," declared Mr. Selling Tuesday evening, "and I would do so again. I felt that it was a local appropriation and consequently opposed it. The supreme court sustained me later. I voted for principle."

Mr. Selling did not explain why he offered to vote for the appropriation if the Southern Oregon demand be cut to $50,000 and why he introduced a motion to that effect in the legislature.

Mr. Selling grew very bitter in his remarks concerning Jonathan Bourne, Jr., senior senator from Oregon and at present a candidate for re-election as an independent.

"Jonathan Bourne," declared Mr. Selling, "is the greatest scoundrel in the state."

LOVETT SAYS $250,000 RAISED BY HARRIMAN

Head of Southern Pacific States Harriman Told Him Roosevelt Requested Money and That He Turned Over Quarter Million.

Senator Scott Says That White House Called Him Up and Voice Sounded Like Roosevelt's.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Former United States Senator Nathan B. Scott of West Virginia was the first witness called today when the senate campaign contributions committee resumed its probe into contributions to republican, democratic and progressive campaigns. Scott testified that in 1904 he asked Cornelius N. Bliss, then treasurer of the republican national committee to get the Standard Oil to contribute. Bliss said the company had already contributed $100,000. Early in October, the witness said, he was in republican headquarters when the telephone rang. It was a long distance call from the White House, Scott said. A voice asked if Higgins was endangered in the fight for governor of New York. Scott said that he answered "yes."

Sounded Like Teddy
Then, he said, the voice answered: "I will send for Harriman and see if he will raise a fund for Higgins."

Scott said the voice sounded very much like that of Colonel Roosevelt. Judge Robert S. Lovett, chairman of the board of directors of the Southern Pacific railroad was the next witness.

Chairman Charles D. Hilles of the republican national committee, will be one of the star witnesses tomorrow.

Lovett on Stand
Lovett verified testimony of other witnesses that the late E. H. Harriman raised funds for the 1904 campaign.

"Early in October of that year," Lovett said, "Harriman said to me: 'They're in a hole and the president wants me to help them out. I got to do it.'"

Lovett then declared that Harriman gave him $250,000 to give to Treasurer Bliss. The witness said he gave the money to Bliss personally. Lovett also testified that Harriman intended to contribute to the 1908 campaign but was deterred by the publicity that would be given to such action.

SENATORIAL CANDIDATE SET ARIGHT

Three candidates for United States senator, each one cock-sure of election, two of them with a grievance, called upon the Mail Tribune Tuesday, having come to Medford to witness the battle for the Lord at Armageddon, otherwise known as the Bull Moose political racing meet. After arrival, Mr. Selling concluded that Armageddon didn't interest him, but the two others participated.

Selling's Grievance
"The Mail Tribune has not treated me fairly," said Mr. Selling. "It said that I could not accomplish anything at Washington because I was a Jew. Now before I became a candidate I inquired from three different sources whether racial prejudice would militate against me at the capital and was amply assured that it would not, or I would not have become a candidate."

Mr. Selling was informed that the Mail Tribune had no racial or religious prejudices, and that it did not care what a man's creed was, provided he stood for those things the paper believed in, but that no less a person than former Senator Joe Simon had stated that such prejudice existed at Washington and on account of it, he had refused re-election.

Says Simon Wrong
"Mr. Simon was wrong. He could not accomplish anything at Washington," said Mr. Selling, "because of his political fights in Oregon, he had antagonized everyone from the president down to the senate leaders before he went to Washington. Senator Mitchell and all of his friends saw to it that Mr. Simon's efforts were nullified. His failure was due to his personal and political enemies. The fact that Jews are not discriminated against is proved by Senator Isador Rayner of Maryland, an acknowledged leader."

The Mail Tribune promised to set Mr. Selling's statement before the public and give him fair play.

WILSON SAYS TEDDY TOADIES TO THE TRUSTS

Democratic Candidate Asserts That Colonel Gets His Orders From the Steel Trust and Looks at Monopolies From Trust View Point.

Apologies for Running During Baseball Series—Says Democrats on to Teddy's Curves, Knock Home Runs

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 9.—"I feel that I owe the people an apology for running for president during the series for the baseball championship of the world," said Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey, the democratic candidate, in addressing a crowd at the court house here today. "Most of you people," Wilson continued, "would rather hear about the baseball score than listen to a political speech. But I am interested in the score that will be hung up November 5 next. The democrats are getting onto Colonel Roosevelt's curves and are hitting home-runs every time they come to the bat."

"Tondyng to steel trust officials, from whom he gets his orders," was the charge made against Colonel Theodore Roosevelt here today by Governor Woodrow Wilson, the democratic nominee for president.

"I am not trying to put Roosevelt in the hole," said Wilson. "I am simply trying to show that he looks at monopolies from the trust viewpoint. We cannot afford to have a president with that viewpoint."

"Roosevelt gets his ideas of regulating monopolies from the gentlemen of the steel trust. Certainly they would not promote ideas interfering with the steel trust's monopoly."

DAYTON, Ohio, Oct. 9.—Wilbur Wright, of aviation fame, left an estate of $279,298.40, according to an accounting on file in the probate court here today.

The entire estate goes to his brothers, his sister and his father. Two brothers, Reuchlin and Larin Wright, a sister, Katherine, each get $50,000, while the father, Bishop Milton Wright, gets $1,000. The remainder of the estate goes to the other brother, Orville.

Twelve years ago, the two Wright brothers were making a meagre living by conducting a small bicycle shop.

WIFE TO SEE HUSBAND THROUGH PRISON TERM

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 9.—Accompanied by his young wife, who declares she will stand by him through his prison term at McNeil's Island federal prison, Earl Standard, the young bank clerk of Pomona, convicted of the embezzlement of about $150,000 of the funds of the American National Bank, is on his way north today to begin his ten year term.

Mrs. Standard, it is said, will secure quarters near the federal prison where she can see and comfort her husband from time to time.

EUROPEAN POWERS WERE OUTWITTED BY BALKAN STATES

PARIS, Oct. 9.—The real story of how Balkan federation forestalled and outwitted the European powers is told by official advices from Cetinje. The Austrian and Russian representatives presented notes in the names of the powers warning the Balkan states against war at 11 o'clock this morning, but two and a half hours earlier the Montenegrin government had handed his passports to the Ottoman charge. Thus Montenegro is in a position to say the representatives of the powers came too late.
